Ques. 21. What preachers have died during the past year? Asbury R. Martin, John T. Maxwell, William Melville, William Hedges. 4.

ASBURY ROBERTS MARTIN was born July 6, 1844, while his father, the Rev. John Satchel Martin, of precious memory in this Conference, was the pastor of Wesley Chapel, Baltimore. His mother was a Miss Ruff, of Rockbridge County, Va. He was baptized by the Rev. Joseph Merriken and was converted under the ministry of his father, in his twelfth year, in Exeter Street Church, Baltimore. In his middle name is preserved the memory of a distinguished physician and local preacher of Baltimore Methodism, so that in name, dedication, and spiritual experience is preserved much that was best in the Methodism of his infancy and early youth. Outside his home (for that was a day of education in the home) his education was first in the private schools of his native city, and then at Roanoke College, Salem, Va. The family having, on account of the exigencies of the Civil War, removed to Rockbridge, near the close of hostilities he enlisted in the Rockbridge Artillery and bore his part in the activities of that honored command. In March, 1868, he was admitted on trial into the traveling connection of this body. From that time his service record includes pastorates, as junior preacher, on the Baltimore Circuit in 1868, Rockville in 1869, Loudoun in 1870-71, and Talbott in 1872. In 1873, because of failing health, he was compelled to take a supernumerary relation, which continued until 1895. Then he became effective again and served Crabbottom, Stafford, New Hope, and Shenandoah City. Meanwhile, from 1879 to 1905, he was one of the Statistical Secretaries of the Conference. At our session in Fredericksburg in 1903, because of increasing infirmities, he asked for and was granted a superannuate relation, in which he remained until it pleased God to enter his name in the records on high. Infirm though he might be, yet he was never idle; during the time he was a supernumerary he engaged in merchandising at Goshen, Md. At Shenandoah he endeavored to supplement his allowance from the superannuate fund by serving as clerk to the town council and assisting in the local bank. In December, 1875, he was married to Miss Annie Stewart, of Goshen, Md. Two sons, who came to maturity, were the fruit of this marriage, John Satchel and Stewart. The former survives him, now in the government service at Boise, Idaho. Stewart died from appendicitis while a student at Blacksburg, Va., an afflictive stroke from which neither parent perhaps ever fully recovered. After the death of his wife, in Gaithersburg, Md., in November, 1914, to which place they had then gone to live, he made no less than three visits to Boise; but the old home ties, the nearer residence of his surviving sisters, the footprints of his parents, the graves of his devoted dead, and the fellowship of his ministerial brethren, for the time seemed to be stronger than the drawing of a father's heart to the fellowship of an only son and family; so on the fourth of last May he came again to the last earthly home of his sainted mother, now occupied by his maiden sister, thence as it turned out to go up higher. Until he went away, August 28, he was rarely free from suffering, and yet most patient and submissive, unwilling ever to burden others with complaint or the story of his distress until inquired of. His last illness was quite unexpected and severe from the first and lasted but three days, but they were days of wonderful fortitude and lovely acquiescence to the will of the divine Father, revealing to all who saw him in those days how close and intimate was their fellowship. His body was taken to Goshen Church, Montgomery County, Md.; where, after a brief funeral service, under the direction of the writer whom he was wont affectionately to call his "pastor," assisted by Brothers Barrett and Balthis, of the Conference, he was tenderly laid to rest beside his wife and son, there to await the day when this corruptible shall put on incorruption, this mortal shall put on immortality, and that which has been sown a natural body shall be raised a spiritual body. That is their hope and our comfort.—Henry P. Hamill.

JOHN THOMAS MAXWELL was born in Baltimore, Md., October 9, 1837, and passed to his heavenly reward on October 12, 1918. His father was a native Scotchman, and from him John Thomas inherited much of that quality of soul with which the people of Scotland have enriched so many countries of the globe. There was in him a profound depth of conviction concerning the genuineness of those things which Methodists have ever regarded as the cardinal principles of Christianity, and divine grace, through a long series of years, had sanctified this conviction to a remarkable degree, as was shown both in the fervor of his spirit and in the great charity of his heart. His experience of conversion to God was a wonderful reality in his religious life and he made this the rallying point of his assurance down to the very end of his life. It was out of this state of soul that his answer arose to God when he heard his call to enter the Christian ministry. Like the apostle of old, this man was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision—he yielded himself to it. But war clouds had gathered and the storm of battle had broken over the country. Soon after the war began he left his home in Maryland for the purpose of joining the Confederate Army. He arrived at Manassas, Va., while the battle of Bull Run was in progress, and there joined White's Battalion of the Maryland Cavalry. While his battalion was in camp at New Market, Va., he obtained a furlough that he might attend the session of the Baltimore Annual Conference, which convened at Bridgewater, Va., on March 10, 1864. There being no bishop present at this Conference, Rev. Norvel Wilson was elected President and presided over its sessions. It was at this time and place that he was admitted on trial into the itinerancy. The minutes of that session show that John T. Maxwell was appointed to a chaplaincy in the Army of the Confederate States of America. He was the last survivor of the fourteen members of the Conference appointed chaplain at that session. Being a man of true evangelical faith, and his heart being aflame with love for his fellow soldiers, he possessed a genuine appeal for the men in arms whom he served. It is a tradition that soldiers said to their comrades: "Be quiet; Maxwell is at his prayers." When the war was over he reported to the Conference as being ready for a pastoral charge; and from that time until he superannuated, on account of failing health, at the Conference session held in Staunton, Va., in 1897, he served faithfully the following charges: Bladensburg, Loudoun Circuit, Lingamore Circuit, Hamilton, Hillsboro, Martinsburg, Jefferson Circuit, Luray, Rockingham, West Augusta Circuit, Port Republic, Manassas, Gainsboro, Morgan, Bath Circuit, Alvon, and Greenbank. Much of the work was arduous. Mountain roads, high altitudes, unbridged streams, long distances between morning and evening appointments for preaching made the burden great, but all was courageously faced and faithfully done. After superannuation Brother Maxwell did not wholly cease to labor in the gospel. Locating in Staunton, he assisted, whenever able, the pastors on near-by appointments. In all these years, as a lay member of the Church, as a soldier in the service of his country, as a chaplain in the army, as a pastor of churches, as a citizen, and as a husband and father, there was never so much as a whisper of suspicion as to the correctness of his moral life. A great record that, for such times as those through which he lived. In 1872 he married Miss Laura Virginia Gibson, of Loudoun County, Va., to whom he devoted himself with a beautiful faithfulness to the very end of his days. Those of his house who survive him are the widow, Mrs. Laura Virginia Maxwell, and the following named daughters and son: Mrs. S. C. White, Mrs. J. L. Goodloe, Mrs. H. N. McManaway, Misses May, Alverson, Neal, and Nelson Maxwell, and Mr. John Noble Maxwell. These call him blessed, for to them he was a princely man and a noble Christian. There are many who yet hear his words and feel the touch of his hand as if they were the voice and the hand of the true prophet of God.—Murray D. Mitchell.

WILLIAM MELVILLE was born in Baltimore, Md., September 4, 1850; and died at Waldorf, Md., January 28, 1919. The days of his youth were spent in Baltimore, in whose schools he received his education. At the age of twenty-one he left for South America, locating in Georgetown, British Guiana. Under the ministry of a missionary of the Wesleyan Church he professed conversion. Like the apostle of old, he believed that this new relationship with his Lord carried with it the call to service. He answered that call by enlisting himself as a Sunday school teacher, a class leader, and very soon a local preacher. He became a candidate for the regular ministry and was accepted. After four years of probation he passed creditable examinations before the Missionary Committee in London, England. In July, 1875, in the Coke Chapel, he was ordained to the full ministry of the Wesleyan Church. The Conference sent him to labor in Jamaica, West Indies. While this was his special field, he did not stop here, but carried the work into Cuba, Porto Rico, and Panama. Under his excellent leadership the cause grew and prospered. After eighteen years of such service he decided to return to the land of his birth. In 1893 he was received into the membership of the Baltimore Conference. During a ministry of twenty-one years the following appointments were served by him: Taylors, 1893-95; Hyattsville, 1896-99; Lewisburg, 1899-1901; Berryville, 1901-03; Capon Bridge, 1903-06; Eagle Rock, 1906-09; Edinburg, 1909-11; Royal Oak, 1911-14. In 1914, on account of his physical condition, he was compelled to ask for the superannuate relationship. Shortly after his ordination to the ministry, Brother Melville was married to Miss Harriett M. Robertson, of Kingston, Jamaica. She was indeed a true helpmeet and rendered him valuable service in his ministerial duties. Writing before his death, he says of her: "'A good woman' is the highest expression I can use in giving my estimate of her life and character." God blessed the union with three children, W. A. B. Melville, Mrs. G. J. Cunningham, and Mrs. M. H. Shepherd. The wife and children survive him. Brother Melville was a minister who placed first in every respect his Master's work. He was an indefatigable toiler. His profound belief in the divine call made him give himself unreservedly to his calling. He never shirked a single duty, and no task was too arduous to be undertaken. At times he overtaxed his physical strength, but it was the expression of the passion within for the kingdom. Never has the writer known a man possessed with a deeper sense of the spirit of reverence. Occasionally there was a flash of righteous indignation as he witnessed the things that were sacred touched with unholy hands. The Church was God's house, it must not be desecrated; the ministry was God's calling, it must not be dishonored; life was a sacred trust, it must not be abused. He was absolutely fearless in the discharge of his ministerial duties. He stood firm for his convictions. If censure came, rather than the displeasure of his Lord. Brother Melville was an excellent preacher. Clear, forceful, spiritual, were his messages. He had stored his mind with many of the best hymns of the Church and he knew how to use them with good effect. Of his own ministry he wrote: "My ministry has been one of hard work. I never took any other view of my work as a minister of the gospel. I close with saying that God crowned my labors and blessed me with a fair measure of results in the salvation of souls." Even after superannuating he did not cease his labors, and it was at the close of a day on which he had preached twice that the end came. The funeral service was held in our Church at Hyattsville, Md., conducted by Rev. H. M. Canter, presiding elder of the Washington District, assisted by Rev. J. P. Wiley. His body was interred in Evergreen Cemetery, Bladensburg, Md., awaiting the resurrection of the just.

WILLIAM HEDGES was born on "the old place"—Hedges—between Tomahawk and Jones' Spring, Back Creek Valley, Berkeley County, W. Va., February 22, 1838; was converted in early youth, and joined the Conference in 1859. His early religious experiences easily reflected their influence upon his later views of spiritual truth. His ministry was mainly confined to the Valley of Virginia—Morgan, Hampshire, and Hardy Counties in West Virginia. A retentive and accurate memory was filled with many interesting incidents of his life in those fields. During the war he ate, slept, marched, and prayed with the Southern soldiers, and he had fruit among them to his ministry. One of his best meetings was held in Berryville, in which both soldiers and civilians were converted at a time when "Battletown" could get up a "fight," as Col. Mosby would have said, almost any day or night. His wife was a Miss Isler, of Clark. Five children survive, three sons and two daughters; all are grown and married. Though, from impaired health, Brother Hedges was compelled to cease traveling, yet he did not sit down to idleness; for he betook himself at once to the work of selling religious books, especially Bibles, distributing tracts, soliciting subscribers for religious periodicals, and assisting his brethren in the ministry when he could. He was himself a reader of good books, and the productions of his own pen were sure to have a reading. His company was always refreshing. Small talk was hardly known to him. Religious thought, whether in print or word of mouth, was likely to be analyzed, if not criticized, to make sure of correctness and orthodoxy. The "old paths" were his delight. He loved men and was loyal to their souls in his testimony and admonition. What a feast was prayer—and his visitors always carried away a word of cheer and appreciation. William Hedges finished his course and went home to God on Sunday, March 9, 1919.

L. S. BAKER.—The Committee on Members knows but few facts relative to the life of Brother Baker. He was born and reared in Pennsylvania. He came from that noble Pennsylvania German stock that is so numerous in some sections of the East. He was received into the Illinois Conference from the Methodist Protestant Church in 1915. The first year with us he served the Sherman charge, in the Waverly District. He attended school at Wilmore, Ky., during 1916 and 1917. At the Conference held in Murphysboro, Ill., in 1918 he was appointed to the Stonefort charge, where he died in the early part of the Conference year. He died away from any of his people and almost among strangers. He was faithful and studious. He passed to his reward with his face toward his duties. His life was short, but useful. The Lord takes his workmen, but carries on his work. Peace to his memory and sleeping dust.

Ques. 11. What preachers have died during the past year? P. A. Moses, E. J. Stanley. 2.

EDWARD J. STANLEY, the last of the early pioneers and Nestor of Southern Methodism in the Northwest, died April 17, 1919. In the passing of this worthy man the Church and State have suffered a great loss and his wife and children have been bereaved of an honored husband and father. He was born in Missouri in the year 1848. Early in his boyhood he united with the Church, South, and in 1869 entered its traveling ministry. He was peculiarly fitted for pioneering; by nature he was a trail blazer. He had the courage to follow his vision until it was realized. In him religion, hardihood, and good judgment were happily blended. He had the honor of pioneering in the interest of righteousness and civilization on four frontiers. He felt that he was called to this service. He could have answered at any time during the fifty-odd years of his ministry: "To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, to testify to the truth that is in Christ Jesus" to the restless, adventurous people of the West. From the first days of his ministry to the very last he faithfully lived to this high mission. There were no tasks too simple for him to perform, no duties too exacting for him to meet, no adventures too dangerous for him to undertake in the discharge of his obligations. While he knew all the privations common to the vanguard of Western life and endured unflinchingly every hardship, he also enjoyed every pleasure and triumph that comes to a good man from the briefest personal association to years of closest and dearest fellowship with the men and women with whom he labored in Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, and Montana. During the forty-eight years he spent in the service of his Lord in Montana, he made for himself a large place in the hearts of his fellow citizens. This was attested in part by the honor shown him on the occasion of his funeral, which was conducted by this writer, assisted by many of his brethren in his own Church and in the Methodist Episcopal Church in Whitehall, where he lived for many years. All business houses were closed and work suspended in all the countryside, and many well-known citizens and ministers from different parts of the State came with neighbors to do him honor and to show their love and appreciation of his family. Thirty years ago he married Miss Lulu L. Brook, the daughter of Major Brook, an honored pioneer and loyal layman of his Church. To their union were born four sons and three daughters, one daughter dying at a tender age. The mother and the four sons and two daughters were with him at the last. He and his brave wife had the joy of seeing three of their sons and their son-in-law, Mr. E. C. Speck, in the service of their country. Their youngest son was not old enough to enter the service. They also had the pleasure of seeing each one of them an officer, winning their positions after enlisting as privates. He was a leader in his Conference from the first. As pastor or presiding elder he took part in every enterprise of his Church in Montana. He built or helped to build many churches. It was while laboring in the mining camps and small towns of Montana—there were no large towns in the State in those days—that the idea of a Board of Church Extension was developed in his mind and grew in his heart until it became a passion. Dr. Morton never would have advocated the creation of such a Board if E. J. Stanley had not labored and planned in the far West; had he not dedicated his facile pen to this great cause and Montana's needy fields? And he not only had a part in laying the foundation of this great Board, but he has a place in the ranks of those who by their liberal gifts are making it a phenomenal success. No better thing can be said of this veteran of the Cross, this gifted author, this friend of mankind, this kindly brother, than that he held steady and strong to the end of his way. His interest in his family, in his friends, in his Church, in his country, and in the world was not abated one jot or tittle; yet he met death with a calm resignation and strong assurance of victory that was beautiful.—C. L. McCausland.

PETER ALLEN MOSES was born in what is now Appomattox County, Va., November 28, 1828; he quietly went home to the "Father's house" on April 7, 1919. Old Virginia never cradled a nobler soul; Oregon holds the dust of no finer Christian warrior. The family history can be traced to Holland, covering a period of 214 years. The following facts will show that "Father Moses," as he was tenderly called, was a worthy son of such an honorable family record. At his death he was the oldest living alumnus of Randolph-Macon College, having graduated in 1855. The same institution conferred on him the Master's degree in 1858. He served as President of Wallace Institute, in Arkansas, in 1859. In 1871 he was President of Quitman College, also in Arkansas. He was a student all his life. To the very last he was poring over his Greek New Testament and reading great books. He took a course in the Agricultural College at Corvallis after he was eighty years old. One is reminded of Gladstone in this vital mentality in old age. In his library is found an unabridged Greek dictionary, well worn, and manuscripts in the fresh hand of his later years. His cultural and educational qualifications are shown in the fact that after coming to Oregon he was made principal of the schools at Brownsville, Lebanon, Jefferson, and Albany. He was School Superintendent of Linn County two years. As a father and husband he was irreproachable. At Van Buren, Ark., April 5, 1858, he was married to Miss Lucy Light Howell. She survives and lives in Corvallis, Oreg., surrounded by many friends and dutiful children. To this union God gave seven children: Ellen Augusta, who died July 9, 1860; Mrs. Susie Jenks, of Tangent, Oreg.; Jesse Moses, of Alsea, Oreg.; Amasa Moses, of Hoopa, Cal.; Samuel H. Moses, of Philomath, Oreg.; Mrs. Josephine Allan Trask, of Corvallis, Oreg.; Victor P. Moses, of Corvallis, Oreg. "Father Moses" as a preacher took as his ideal the words of the Master: "I came not to be ministered unto, but to minister." His supreme purpose was to serve. The honors he received were not given because he sought them, but because his untiring work for others made his fellows love to do him reverence. The question he asked concerning preachers and men in the leadership of the Church was: "Are they spiritual?" He was a chaplain in the Confederate Army and ministered to Blue and Gray alike. He was the spiritual guardian of the College of Corvallis while he lived in the flesh amongst the people; he is now a real patron saint. His name is spoken in a sense of the nearness of heavenly realities by all who knew him. To the Northwest Conference he is a voice of the deep things of God, calling to holy life and unselfish service. His mind was analytical, his humor pervasive, his spirit warm, his countenance inspirational. A few days before his transition, sitting with feeble body in his home, as one who loved him was saying good-by, he began to sing "There's Not a Friend Like the Lowly Jesus." As his trembling voice, but firm grasp of reality bore those words heavenward, it seemed as if one were with the Moses of Israel in the very presence of the burning bush of old. He served as pastor many of the best places in Oregon. To him all places where he could preach were good. Brownsville, Lebanon, Junction, Albany, Tangent, Dayton, Roseburg, Jacksonville, Lewisburg, Myrtle Creek, and Corvallis were all blessed under his ministry. He was an example of the intelligent interest ministers should take in all the affairs of their communities. He was no recluse. He shared the burdens of all the community life. He could say with the ancient Stoic philosopher: "Nothing human is alien to me." After the war he was elected a State Senator in Arkansas. He was active in all that concerned the good of man. Prof. J. B. Horner, of the Agricultural College at Corvallis, a neighbor and student of the men who made Oregon great, wrote of him: "If any man on earth ever fought triumphantly, it was Father Moses. He had no evil in his heart, none on his tongue; he was filled with love, kindness, and charity, the good will that worketh no ill; he delighted in good works and good cheer, and went about doing his Master's will." This discriminating testimony from the State's leading historian is a monument that only real greatness can deserve.—J. A. B. Fry.

Ques. 11. What preachers have died during the past year? Fred Francis. 1.

FRED FRANCIS was the son of estimable parents originally from Alabama, but living near Lampasas, Tex., at the time of his death. He was twenty-seven years old, an A.B. graduate from the Southwestern University, a good Greek student, a thinker natural born, original in conception, but not hasty in reaching his conclusions. Modest as a girl, his manner quiet, unobtrusive, artless, and unaffected, his life was unimpeachably innocent and pure. He was one of the most unselfish and unworldly of men, seemingly oblivious of all thought of preferment of any kind. No wonder that he won the complete confidence of all classes of men! He could doubtless have received appointment as one of the army Y. M. C. A. Secretaries during the late war; but, thinking he could better win the souls of soldiers by being a soldier at their side, he enlisted as a private in El Paso, Tex., during the early summer of 1918, and was sent to Camp Pike, Ark. There, in the early fall, he contracted influenza, from which he died in October. He was admitted on trial into the New Mexico Conference at Clovis, N. Mex., in October, 1917, and served the Hachita Mission up to the time of his enlistment. His pure soul is with the innocent above, and his bright mind is under the tutorage of the Great Teacher, with whom he doubtless stands face to face.—Hubert M. Smith.

Ques. 11. What preachers have died during the year? M. P. Morgan, E. E. Holmes, Guy L. Lewis (a probationer). 3.

MILTON PATTON MORGAN was born in Lee County, Va., March 31, 1835; died in Crab Orchard, Ky., March 27, 1919. His parents were William and Nancy Chadwell Morgan, of whom he was the ninth and youngest child. They moved to Kentucky when he was a child, and settled in Pulaski County, about ten miles from Somerset. Both father and mother were strict Methodists, great in prayer, his father being class leader. Their home was the stopping place for the circuit rider, and also the preaching place, as there was no church building in the neighborhood. Our brother Morgan was converted early in life at a camp meeting near the home community, and soon after went to Alabama for educational advantages, which he could not obtain near home. The name and location of the institution he attended could not be learned. After several years in the school, he was an assistant teacher for a few years. Two older brothers, James and William, were merchants in Arkansas. Thither he went and clerked for them, and was with them at the beginning of the War between the States, when he and his brother James enlisted in the Confederate Army, his brother being captain of his company. He served in the army about two years, and was honorably discharged on account of hemorrhage of the lungs. He was married in 1891 to Miss Sallie Porter, who died from measles after only eight months of married life. After the war, in company with his captain brother, he went to Texas in search of health for both. There they operated a cotton plantation until his brother died. Burying him there, he returned to his childhood home in Pulaski County, Ky., where he ministered to his mother in her last days, and after her death he came to Lincoln County, and for some years conducted a mercantile business at Maywood. His local preacher's license is dated Crab Orchard, Ky., June 6, 1885, and is signed by Rev. D. G. B. Demaree, presiding elder of the Irvine District. He was admitted on trial into the Kentucky Conference in 1885. He was ordained deacon at Paris in 1889, and elder at Harrodsburg in 1891, both ordinations by Bishop A. W. Wilson. He served the following circuits: Whitesburg one year, Crab Orchard two, Pineville two, Tollesboro three, Dover two. He was superannuated in 1896. After many years of widowerhood, he married Miss Mary B. Gormley, at Crab Orchard, October 3, 1889. To them were born six children, three of whom died in infancy, and one daughter died in 1914, aged 19. One son, M. C. Morgan, agent of the L. & N. Railroad at Glasgow Junction, one daughter, Mrs. Lucile Anderson, of Stanford, and their mother survive. Brother Morgan's Christian character was sincere, firm, courageous. His ministry, though begun late in life, was faithful, earnest, aggressive, fearless, devoted, and effective. During his years of superannuation he was industrious to the extent of his endurance. His presence in the home community was a benediction, and his influence was always for good. Just two months before his death he suffered a fall in his home, causing helpless confinement from a badly fractured hip. A few days after this accident I visited him, and found him cheerful and hopeful, clear in mind, and strong in the faith, confident in Divine providence, and ready for the translation. The funeral was conducted by this writer and Rev. F. D. Palmeto, in the Christian Church at Crab Orchard, in the presence of many of his neighbors and friends from a distance.—William D. Welburn.

EDWARD EVERETT HOLMES, son of Dr. Enos and Anna Holmes, was born in Hillsboro, Ohio, in 1852, and passed into the great beyond on June 30, 1919. Although he had been in poor health for several years, his departure was sudden and unexpected. On the afternoon of June 29 he was stricken with apoplexy and was found by his wife in an unconscious condition, in which condition he lingered until the next morning, when the angel of death gently snapped the cords of his mortality and set his immortal spirit free. Brother Holmes was licensed to preach in 1874, was admitted on trial into the Ohio Conference of the M. E. Church in 1882, and was ordained deacon at that session of the Conference, having served in the local ranks for eight years. In 1884 he was ordained elder. In 1889 he was received into the Kentucky Conference of the M. E. Church, South, where he spent the remainder of his life serving faithfully the following charges: Visalia and Independence, three years; Owingsville, three years; Vanceburg, four years; Walton, two years; Ghent, one year; Foster Circuit, one year; Warsaw, four years; Maysville, second charge, two years; Perryville, two years; Owingsville, the second time, three years. He took a superannuate relation in 1914, and remained on the ineffective list until death, making Owingsville his home. He was a man of retiring habits. He shrank from a free and indiscriminate mixing with people. He was studious. When he undertook to study a subject he pursued it through all its ramifications to the point of exhaustion. As a preacher he was clear and strong. His sermons bore the marks of careful preparation. He was true to the standards of Methodist orthodoxy. There was nothing doubtful about his knowledge of our teaching on the fundamentals of the gospel. In his relation to others he was gentle, manly, and courteous. He was loyal to the appointing powers. When assigned to a charge he went to it and stayed with it. He was best loved where he was best known. Brother Holmes never attained to the position in the Conference nor received the class of appointments commensurate with his ability. This perhaps grew out of his modest, shrinking disposition and his indisposition to do such pastoral work as the people generally demanded. He loved his books. He was twice married. Of his first wife I have no information, as she died previous to his coming to this Conference. In 1895 he married Miss Louise Hutchison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hutchison, of Owingsville, Ky., with whom they lived after his retirement from active service. He was a brother of the late Prosecuting Attorney of Hamilton, Ohio. As an evidence of his deep Christian character he left this motto: "My supreme desire has been to make this my motto, living, dying, and throughout the vast eternity: 'Hallelujah! for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth.'" He fought bravely the battles incident to the Methodist itinerancy, and when the time came to leave the firing line and fall back to join the wounded and infirm while yet the battle raged, he marched to the rear with the same firm and gallant tread with which he entered the battle.—T. F. Taliaferro.

GUY LEONARD LEWIS, son of George B. and Nannie Thomas Lewis, was born on a farm near Petersburg, Va., on August 25, 1895. He was converted at ten years of age and soon after his conversion felt called to preach. From that time on his one thought and plan for the future was to make of himself a preacher; but just when he was budding into manhood all his plans seemed to be blasted by a breakdown in his health. Being advised by a physician that his health would never permit his going to school to prepare for the ministry, he adjusted himself to what seemed a necessity and turned his attention to farming. After a course in an agricultural school he superintended a farm near Roanoke, Va., for nearly a year. While engaged in this work he regained his health and returned to his home with the feeling that he must now continue his preparation for the ministry. In the fall of 1915 he came to Kentucky and entered Asbury College. On May 3, 1917, he was granted license to preach by the Danville District Conference in session at Wilmore and was received on trial into the Kentucky Conference at Cynthiana on September 5, 1918, and at the close of the session was appointed to the McCreary Mission. During his college life he had spent his vacations and other odd times in evangelistic work, both in preaching and leading in song. In this work he was happy and useful. He was a fine singer, a strong and promising young preacher. His affable disposition made friends for him quickly and held them tenaciously. There was no fear that he would fail to hold his people. Though still a student in college, he took hold of his new work with vigor, and in spite of the fact that the influenza epidemic kept his churches closed for more than half the time he had charge of them, he had gotten deeply into the affections of the people who looked to him for religious leadership. He was already making a start that promised success and prospects seemed good for a long and useful career in the ministry when on December 10, 1918, he was stricken with influenza, a week later pneumonia developed, and on December 22, just as worshipers were gathering for morning worship, he quietly slipped away to be with God. They took him back to his old Virginia home and laid him to rest near his mother, who had passed on and was waiting for him to come. It was a sad disappointment not to see him live to develop into the strong and useful ministry that promised to be his, but his life was not spent in vain. Many will be better and stronger because he passed this way and in passing touched their lives.—C. H. Greer.

GEORGE WASHINGTON NOLLNER, the son of Alfred and Mary Stephens Nollner, was born January 23, 1855, near Pineville, Ark. When nine years of age the family moved to Crawford County, Mo., and here in this Methodist home of prayer he grew up under the training of parents who had a conscious, joyous experience of God's love. When sixteen years old his conversion, "a sunburst of irrepressible joy," was under the preaching of a man full of the Holy Ghost. These early experiences stamped the ideals which directed and inspired all his life and ministry. He had unbroken peace until the call to the Christian ministry, five years after conversion, when, he said, "after a year of struggle, he made a complete surrender to God and entered into the Canaan of perfect love which gave him a victory and abiding peace and joy in the Holy Ghost." He was peculiarly sensitive to the touch of the Spirit; and his emotion was of a high order. It was this temperament, responding so freely to the divine influence, which was an element of power to attract the three thousand souls converted under his ministry. In every sermon I ever heard from him there were passages that lifted and inspired; in public prayer he was specially unctuous. Until weakness forbade, in his months of retirement he led the family devotions with increasing fervor. He sent a message to his brethren of the Conference—a goodly number of whom were present to assist in the funeral service at the Broadway Church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. S. W. Hayne. Brother Nollner was a man of convictions. Speaking them freely, he was sometimes misunderstood. His faith endured the testing of some sore trials; but in them all he was victorious and was sometimes given visions of divine leading and love "not lawful to be uttered," which said, "My grace is sufficient for you." To his pastoral and revival work he added the building of several parsonages and churches, notably the present Shaw Avenue Church, St. Louis, which was under roof and the money ($30,000) nearly all raised under his pastorate. He served about half his ministry in the St. Louis Conference, which he first joined in 1877, the remainder in the Missouri Conference, except one year in Albuquerque, N. Mex., and one year at Murphysboro, Ill., these changes being occasioned by health conditions, since he was never robust for many years of his ministry. He served the following charges: In the St. Louis Conference—Eminence, Piedmont, West Plains, Siloam Springs, Williamsville, Washington and New Haven, Hematite, Clayton and Mt. Zion, Mt. Zion and Caledonia, Clayton, Shaw Avenue, Bellefontaine; in the Missouri Conference—Fayette Circuit, Rocheport, New Franklin and Clark, Higbee, Ashland, Bowling Green, Edina, Fulton Circuit, Chillicothe Circuit, LaPlata, Center, and Trinity, besides one year each in the Denver and Illinois Conferences, as before mentioned. Everywhere he left a good name. He was twice married—first to Miss Annie Scott and later to Miss Sadina Arte Pehle, who survives him, with the children, Minnie, Theodosia, Annie, May, and Ralph, William and Louis having gone on before. It was a great joy to the father that his youngest son, Ralph, should continue his own ministry, now in such an influential place with the young people of Southern Methodism, in the Central Office of the Epworth Leagues. From his home in Columbia, Mo., on Sunday, September 22, 1918, two weeks after his Conference adjourned, our brother finished his work and entered into glory. He had been two years on the "Honor Roll" of the Missouri Conference, after thirty-nine years' active work in the itinerant service.—J. R. A. Vaughan.

GROVER C. AKER was born in North Carolina, July 17, 1885. Soon afterwards his parents moved to Virginia, where his father died. When twelve years old his family moved to Blair, Nebr. He early distinguished himself as a student. He represented his school in debate, helping them to win honors several times. He was the valedictorian of his class of 1906. He was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church at Blair in 1901.

He was active in Church work from the time of his conversion. He attended Tabor College, Iowa, and won the Inter-Class Oratorical honor. He served Modale Circuit, Des Moines Conference, one year. In September, 1909, he went to live with his brother, the Rev. C. M. Aker, Columbia, Mo., and graduated in June, 1910, from the State University. While there he assisted his brother and organized his first "Children's Church." He went to Central Church, in Kansas City, in August, 1910, as junior preacher. In September of the same year he joined the Missouri Conference on trial, was transferred to the Southwest Missouri Conference, and continued as junior pastor of Central Church, where he remained two years. He was married March 13, 1912, to Miss Elizabeth Jean Swanson, of Council Bluffs, Iowa. In September, 1912, he transferred to the Missouri Conference and was appointed to Excelsior Springs Station, where he did the greatest work of his life. In 1916 he was sent to Lawson, where he soon won the hearts of the people as he had done at Excelsior Springs. After two years, the last six months of which he was confined most of the time to his bed, he took a superannuate relation and returned to Excelsior Springs, hoping that the waters would cure him. He was taken with pneumonia on October 31 and passed to his reward at noon on November 1. The funeral was conducted from the Methodist Church and he was buried with Masonic rites in the beautiful cemetery there. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. F. M. Burton, assisted by the Rev. B. D. Sipple, C. A. Bowles, and Rev. J. P. Jesse. He leaves behind a faithful wife and little daughter, Jean, his mother, two sisters, and three brothers. I never knew one who had a stronger hold upon a community than he had upon Excelsior Springs. Saint and sinner alike loved and honored him. He met the last enemy without fear. His last words as he stretched his hands upward were "Heaven, heaven, heaven." Many of the strongest men from the Church were brought in during his pastorate. One who knew him said: "No purer, nobler spirit ever lived among us. He was a preacher of unusual ability. He could catch and hold the attention of the crowd and bind them to himself in a remarkable manner. He was a true man. He had a big heart and a great soul. Could he have lived and maintained his health he would have made a great record in his Church and in the services of his Lord."—F. M. Burton.

JAMES SAMUEL SMITH, son of Judge J. D. and Ruth Smith, was born in Macon County, Mo., May 4, 1841; died at the home of his son, J. B. Smith, in Wichita, Kans., after a brief illness, March 24, 1919. He was married to Miss Sue Cain, the daughter of a Methodist preacher, April 6, 1871, and to this happy union five children were born, four of whom with his devoted wife survive him. Blessed with a religious parentage, he was converted at the age of fourteen and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. He was licensed to preach by the Quarterly Conference of the Macon Circuit in the year 1860, Rev. W. E. Dockery, pastor, and the following year was received into the Missouri Conference, at Glasgow, and appointed to the Fayette Circuit, with Rev. Andrew Monroe as the senior preacher. On account of the interruptions incident to the Civil War he did not receive orders until 1866, when he was ordained both deacon and elder by Bishop Doggett at Richmond, Mo. From these brief annals it will be seen that our sainted brother gave to the altars of the Church a ministry of fifty-eight years. He traveled circuits, was presiding elder of two districts, filled a number of important stations, and gave several years to educational work, being president of three colleges. He was admitted to the bar, but never appeared in court as a lawyer. A reader of the best books and current literature, his knowledge was encyclopedic. He was a profound student of the Holy Scriptures, had a firm grip upon the great truths and doctrines of revelation, and delighted in unfolding them to others. As a preacher he entertained, edified, and often rose to heights of impassioned eloquence. The people heard him gladly. As a man he was modest, retiring, esteeming others better than himself. In his home he was the minister of a gracious hospitality, and was loved and revered by his children. Kind, gentle, and affable of soul, his friends were legion. He learned the art of growing old gracefully, and his hoary head became a crown of glory, for it was found in the way of righteousness. After retiring from the more active duties of the ministry he and Sister Smith made their home with their eldest daughter, Miss Mable Smith, in Marshall, Mo. It was in the Methodist Church in this fair city that the last rites were said by the pastor and presiding elder, and all that was mortal of James Samuel Smith was laid to rest in the city cemetery.—R. H. Cooper.

JOHN SUMMERFIELD FRAZIER was born in Davidson County, Tenn., May 24, 1838; and died in Palmyra, Mo., April 16, 1919. He was married to Miss Ella DeLaney on June 22, 1864. To this union two sons and three daughters were born, only two of whom are living: Dr. L. C. Frazier, of Palmyra, and Mrs. George F. Hall, of Pocatella, Idaho. While yet a mere youth, Brother Frazier was happily converted and united with the Methodist Church at old McKendree Chapel, in Southwest Missouri, the first Methodist church erected in the State. In the fall of 1864 Brother Frazier was received on trial into the St. Louis Conference. At this Conference he was ordained a local deacon by Bishop Kavanaugh. In 1868 he was ordained elder by Bishop Marvin. In that Conference he served some of the leading appointments and was presiding elder of the Charleston District for three years, after which he transferred to the Missouri Conference, where he was a most efficient and successful pastor until about twenty years ago, when, his health failing, he took the superannuate relation. But he was never idle, and as long as his strength would permit he was a faithful worker in the Master's service. Here in Palmyra, where he had once been pastor, and where he had lived since his superannuation, he was held in the highest esteem. He was a humble, sweet-spirited Christian man. For years he had been a great sufferer, but never complained. He died peacefully and triumphantly.—James M. Boon.

JOHN ABRAHAM MUMPOWER, son of David and Amanda Mumpower, was born near Haynesville (now Holt), Clay County, Mo., January 8, 1842; died in Palmyra, Mo., May 14, 1919. He was married to Miss Lucy West Carr on April 27, 1871. To this union two children were born: Alpha Givens, who died in infancy, and Beta Eloise (now Mrs. John M. Sosey, of Palmyra), with whom Brother Mumpower had lived since the death of his wife in 1914, and who, with her husband, delighted to minister unto him during his last long illness. Brother Mumpower was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, under the ministry of Rev. Wesley G. Miller, D.D., of Chillicothe, Mo., in February, 1857. He was licensed to preach by the Chillicothe Quarterly Conference, April 19, 1862; was recommended for admission on trial into the Missouri Conference by the Spring Hill Quarterly Conference in 1864; and in September of that year, at Mexico, Mo., he was admitted on trial. At Macon City on September 8, 1867, he was ordained deacon by Bishop Marvin; and at Chillicothe, Mo., September 19, 1869, he was ordained elder by Bishop Pierce. For fifty-three years he was on the effective list, serving the following appointments: Maysville, 1864; Albany, 1865; Yellow Creek (Bucklin), 1866; Savannah, 1867-69; Weston, 1870; Gallatin District, 1871-72; Carrollton, 1873; Gallatin, 1874-77; from February to September of 1877 as presiding elder of Gallatin District, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Rev. W. M. Wood; Macon, 1878-81; Fayette District, 1882-85; Mexico District, 1886-89; Mexico, 1890-91; Palmyra, 1892-93; Gallatin, 1894-95; Plattsburg, 1896-97; Macon District, 1898-1901; St. Joseph District, 1902-05; St. Charles District, 1906; Troy, 1907-08; Lawson, 1909-12; Shelbyville, 1913-16. In the fall of 1916 he took the superannuate relation. At Chillicothe, Mo., in 1915, he preached his semi-centennial sermon, which was full of power and unction as well as of reminiscences. With this record before us, and knowing as we do how faithfully and successfully Brother Mumpower performed all the duties of the Christian ministry, it is no assumption to say of him as the inspired writer said of King David, "For David, after he had served his own generation by the will of God, fell on sleep, and was laid unto his fathers." From the day of his conversions to the hour of his death his chief aim in life was to please God and do good unto his fellow men. He had faith in God and confidence in his fellow men. He had the happy art of finding some good in all men, and it was to that he appealed in doing the work of the Christian ministry. He was an instructive, helpful gospel preacher, a safe counselor, a true friend, a devoted husband, a kind and loving father, and a consistent Christian. There was a personal charm that drew and attached men unto him. As one has said of another servant of God, so would I say of Brother John A. Mumpower: "He was remarkable for the purity of his character. His sentiments were transparently chaste and elevated. His conversation was perfectly free from vulgarity and frivolity. His conduct was adorned by the moralities of the gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ, and his reputation has passed posterity without a stain."—James M. Boon.

HENRY POPE BOND came of a line of noble ancestors who had in them the fire and blood of sturdy and refined pioneers. His father was the Rev. Richard Bond, M.D., who emigrated from Baltimore, Md., to Missouri in 1841, and in that year was made presiding elder of the St. Charles District, and later was stationed at old Danville, Montgomery County, Mo., where Brother Bond was born on May 13, 1843. His early life was exemplary as a son and brother in the home, and as a student in the schools where he received a finished education. In 1867 Brother Bond joined the Missouri Conference, and was a faithful and loyal member of that Conference until his superannuation twelve years ago, when he came to El Paso to make his home with his daughter, Mrs. Robert Lander, with whom he was living at the time of his death, May 31, 1919. Brother Bond was twice married—the first time in 1871 to Miss Mary Ellen Marmaduke, who died in 1880, leaving two little daughters, Mamie and Edith; in 1883 he was married to Miss Ada Marvin, daughter of Bishop E. M. Marvin, and she died in 1905. During the forty years of his ministerial life in Missouri he served some of the most important charges—namely, Fayette, Moberly, Rocheport, New Franklin, Salisbury, St. Charles, etc. He was four years superintendent of the American Bible Society, with headquarters at St. Louis. He was at one time grand chaplain of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Missouri, and deputy grand lecturer of the same for some time. He was a very bright and enthusiastic Mason, having joined in 1866. He was a Scottish Rite, Knight Templar, and a member of the O. E. S. Although Brother Bond had taken a superannuate relation with the Missouri Conference, which relation he sustained at the time of his death, yet the twelve years of his superannuation were perhaps the most active and productive of good of his whole life. The work which he did in and around El Paso, in organizing churches and in building up the work of the kingdom in general, was marvelous. During the twelve years of which we speak he organized and established the following charges: La Mesa, Berina, Cannutilla, Chamberino, Anthony, Ysleta, Clint, East El Paso. He was pastor of the La Mesa charge at the time of his death. He worked very enthusiastically in the Centenary drive, and his charge was the first in the New Mexico Conference to go over the top. He paid his personal subscription for the five years in full, remarking as he did so that he didn't know what might happen to him in the next five years. His funeral was held from Trinity Methodist Church, El Paso, on Sunday afternoon, June 1, and was one of the most largely attended funerals ever held in that city, which is evidence of the high esteem in which he was held as a friend and brother to all classes. He leaves to mourn his loss a devoted sister, Mrs. M. A. McIlhany, who now lives in Alhambra, Cal., and two devoted and loving daughters, Mrs. George Motz, of Douglas, Ariz., and Mrs. Robert Lander, of El Paso, Tex., with whom he had made his home for the last twelve years. His devotion and love for his two grandchildren, Marmaduke and Robert Lander, Jr., was most beautiful and tender. What he meant to the Lander home is touchingly expressed in a letter from his daughter, Mrs. Edith Lander, to the writer of this sketch just after her father's death, in which she said: "We feel it is impossible to go on living without his wonderful beaming countenance and presence in our home. He was such a benediction always." How he impressed his comrades in the ministry is very forcibly and truthfully set forth in a sketch of his life written by a comrade of his in the ministry, Dr. T. H. B. Anderson, who now abides with Brother Bond in our Father's house. In writing of him in the "Centennial Volume of Missouri Methodism," Dr. Anderson says: "He is cheerful without lightness; has passed under the rod; knows what trial, temptation, and bereavement mean. His face is toward the sunrise. He possesses a sunny nature, and, looking at him in the Conference room, one would judge him to have the deep tranquillity of eternity in his heart."—C. M. Aker.

THOMAS DEKALB PAYNE was born in Simpson County, Ky., May 20, 1839, the son of Daniel L. and Mary Payne. He entered into the rest eternal on May 22, 1919, from the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. W. Mann, at Oak Grove, Mo. Brother Payne was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1859. He was licensed to preach by the Quarterly Conference of the Franklin Circuit, Louisville Conference, November 26, 1859. On October 23, 1863, he was ordained deacon by Bishop H. H. Kavanaugh at the Louisville Conference. He served acceptably as a local preacher until 1869, when he came to Missouri and was received on trial into the St. Louis Conference. At this Conference he was elected to elder's orders and ordained on September 5 by Bishop Pierce. He was a faithful servant of the Church, a good preacher of the Word of God as interpreted by Methodism. Five church buildings and two parsonages were erected under his administration, and many souls were edified under his ministry. He did good service for the Church as pastor and presiding elder until 1910, when he slipped gracefully into the honorable relation of a superannuated preacher, which he filled with grace to the day of his death. He was married to Miss Eliza B. Rogers on May 5, 1867. One son and four daughters were born to this union. The son died in infancy; the daughters survive him and were all present with him at the time of his death. He was a good man in the higher sense of that word. Many were edified and comforted as he, in his quiet, earnest way, told the story of Jesus and his love. He is gone and we hope to meet him in the better land. His body was laid to rest in the cemetery at Oak Grove, Mo. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, Rev. U. V. Wyatt, assisted by a number of his brethren who came to unite with family and friends to do him honor.

Ques. 11. What preachers have died during the past year? J. A. Rowan, W. M. P. Rippey. 2.

W. M. P. RIPPEY was born seventy years ago, and died in December, 1918, at his home in Plainview, Tex., a victim of the influenza epidemic. The exact date of his birth and other chronological facts relating to his life are not at hand, but the varied activities of Brother Rippey's life in both Texas and Oklahoma are fairly well known to the brethren of this Conference. He was known and loved as a heroic war horse of the Lord's mighty army, sniffing the battle from afar and always eager for the fray. No man ever fought the battles of our Lord more gallantly or successfully than did Brother Rippey. His life, undivided in its activities, stands to-day as a record of achievement that few preachers have equaled. As a minister of the gospel he was efficient, both as pastor and pulpiteer. Wherever he went, his one purpose was to hold up Jesus, his Lord and Master. This sketch is written by one who can bear witness to this, that whether in some palace of the rich, some lowly home, or on the forest streams, Brother Rippey never for a moment forgot his high calling, his one duty of introducing men to Christ. His pulpit ministrations were powerful. His public deliverances in both preaching and lecturing were characterized by infinite variety. He could make people laugh one moment and then have them weeping the next. This accomplishment gave him a remarkable advantage in reaching the hearts of men. He was ever vigorous in mind and body with the single exception of defective hearing. Had this failing not overtaken him in his riper years he would have been acceptable in our first-class appointments to the end. With that most serious of ministerial handicaps, he did serve in some of our most exacting pulpits to within a few days of his death. Brother Rippey was a lovable man. He was a helpful friend. He was a charming companion. No inking of selfish purpose ever marred the magnanimity of his noble nature. His tender hand has soothed many a brother pastor in the heart-breaking experiences of his life. He did not claim to be a saint. Ever humble, his best estimate of himself was that he was a sinner saved by grace. As he stepped into the twilight of two worlds, there came from the depths of his soul the sweet refrain: "It is well—it is well—with my soul!"—M. Columbus Hamilton.

Ques. 11. What preachers have died during the past year? W. J. Joyce, S. W. Kemerer. 2.

WILLIAM J. JOYCE spent his childhood in Alabama; joined the M. E. Church, South, in Camden, Ark., in 1856, and was licensed to preach the same year; was admitted on trial into the East Texas Conference in 1856, at Paris, Bishop Paine presiding; was admitted into full connection in 1858; ordained elder in 1860; died at his home in San Marcos, Tex., December 1, 1918. He joined the Confederate Army in 1862, and was with General Sibley in the New Mexico and Arizona campaigns. At the close of the war he transferred to the Rio Grande Conference, which was changed to the West Texas Conference by the General Conference of 1866. His first work in West Texas was as presiding elder of the San Antonio District (then Kerrville and Uvalde Mission). In West Texas he became a leader on its best stations and presiding elder of its strongest districts. He was original in thought and forceful as a preacher, giving the full strength of his life to the work. He wrote the Constitution of the West Texas Conference Preachers' Aid Society, and for several terms was Chaplain of the Texas House of Representatives. In 1863, in San Antonio, he was married to Miss Laura Mitchell, daughter of the noted San Antonio veteran, Asa Mitchell, a leader of Church and civil affairs in the early days of Texas. To them were born nine children, eight of whom survive. He had been superannuated many years before his death. During his nearly fifty-four years of active ministry he enterprised the construction of many churches and the organization of missions in the West. He was a man of genial temperament, popular, and ready to take the hardest work with his brethren. With the early pioneers, Myers, Thornberry, Potter, DeVilbiss, and our German brethren, he has left a record of solid and permanent work for the Church.—H. G. H.

SAMUEL W. KEMERER was born in Fostoria, Ohio, January 2, 1872; died at San Antonio, Tex., December 22, 1918. He had been for a number of years in the Texas and West Texas Conferences; but at the time of his death was in the Army Y. M. C. A. work. He was a graduate of Hamline University, Minnesota; also of Boston Theological Seminary, with the degree of Doctor of Sacred Theology. He gave up his purpose of teaching and was ordained and entered the ministry. His first appointment was at St. Peter, Minn., where he paid a debt of $10,000 on a new church. In the Minnesota Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church he built two churches and three parsonages. On account of health he was advised to come South and was placed in charge of a Methodist school at Jacksonville, Fla. He determined to preach, was offered a pastoral charge at Fort Worth, Tex., but in 1906 joined the Texas Conference of the M. E. Church, South. He served charges in Houston, Beaumont, and San Antonio. His last pastorate was Kerrville; then he entered Y. M. C. A. work as Secretary at San Antonio. He was taken sick with influenza, contracted pneumonia, and was carried to Camp Travis Hospital, where he died, leaving a widow and her son, Frank L. Dice, of Minneapolis; he also leaves an aged mother and three brothers, one brother being rector of St. George's Episcopal Church, St. Louis. He was a fine pastor, tender, loving, helpful. He was a highly educated Christian gentleman. As a preacher he was clear and strong. The funeral was held at San Antonio, his brother (of St. Louis), twenty Y. M. C. A. members, and many Methodist preachers of San Antonio, being present. He was buried in Mission Cemetery, San Antonio. We shall see him again.—J. H. Groseclose.

JOHN BLACKSHEAR ADAIR was born in Tippah County, Miss., May 8, 1853, and was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in July, 1869. He was licensed to exhort August 5, 1871, to preach September 13, 1873, was ordained local deacon by Bishop Keener December 1, 1877; admitted on trial into the North Mississippi Conference two days before into full connection November 20, 1881, and was ordained elder by Bishop Paine at the same time. He transferred to the Texas Conference in the fall of 1883, and to the North Texas Conference in 1886, and in this Conference he spent the remainder of his useful life, having served four years in the local ranks and forty-two in the itinerancy. Brother Adair always went cheerfully to any charge to which he was assigned, and faithfully wrought with his people as a devout servant of our King. He thought well, his sermons were delivered with unction and were fruitful of much good, and his people loved and honored him. He was married three times. His last marriage was to Mrs. Lucy Kelley, of Ferris, Tex., November 29, 1882. Of his second marriage, to Miss Mattie F. Palmer, of Huntsville, Tex., two noble sons were born, Howell J. and A. Garland Adair. He is survived by his devoted wife, his two sons, and a stepson, Rev. J. I. Kelley, of Elida, N. Mex. All mourn the departure of the ascended husband and father, who from his parsonage home in Howe, Tex., on August 13, 1919, entered into that rest prepared for all the pure and good. His funeral services were held in the church at Howe, attended by many sorrowing friends. The following-named preachers of his Conference were present and took part in paying tender tribute to the honor of their ascended brother: J. H. Reynolds, C. B. Fladger, M. L. Hamilton, D. K. Porter (his presiding elder), J. W. Slagle, J. L. Johnson, W. A. Pritchett, and his friend and schoolmate, the writer.—J. E. Vinson.

W. J. BLUDWORTH, son of W. H. and Mary Bludworth, was born in Barbour County, Ala., November 3, 1851, and was converted at the age of twelve years. This early conversion was attributable to an old-fashioned family altar. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. He came to Texas in 1874 and located at Leesburg. For a while he suffered the fires of the new life to wane, but coming in touch with similar environments that first produced serious thoughts in his boyish heart he was reclaimed. Under the ministry of Rev. D. F. Fuller he was led to have a broader vision and holier aspirations, and he entered upon a voyage of great usefulness. Soon after his reclamation he entered East Texas Academic Institute preparatory to his life work, for he recognized a distinct call to the ministry. He was licensed to preach in 1879 at Leesburg, Rev. R. Lane, presiding elder. He joined the North Texas Conference at Dallas, in November, 1880, Bishop Pierce presiding. He was transferred to the Northwest Texas Conference and stationed at Buffalo and Oakwood. In 1881 he was appointed to Runnels Circuit, being a frontier appointment in that Conference. He was ordained deacon at Cleburne in 1882 by Bishop Parker, was transferred back to the North Texas Conference, and served the following appointments: Quitman Circuit, 1882; Bonham Circuit, 1883-84 (this year he was ordained elder at Sulphur Springs by Bishop McTyeire); 1885, Lebanon Circuit; 1886, Gordonville; 1887, Pilot Grove; 1888-91, Gilmer; 1892, Kingston; 1894, Gordonville; 1895-98, Trenton; 1898-1902, Bailey; 1902, Ector; 1903, White Rock Station; 1904-07, Depo; 1908, Mount Vernon; 1909-13, Roxton; 1913-14, Bonham Street, Paris; 1915-16, Nevada Station; 1917, Pecan Gap. In 1918 he was granted the superannuate relation, and in less than two months he was called from service to reward. I quote from his own pen: "I am now superannuating because I can go no further. I have traveled thirty-eight years without a break or vacation; have added to the Church of the North Texas Conference nineteen hundred members, besides all the other routine work of the itinerancy." Brother Bludworth was a good gospel preacher, orthodox and evangelical. He preached out of a full heart. The gospel he preached to others was his support in his last conflict. On December 20, 1918, he fell asleep amid weeping friends. Pneumonia claimed him, following influenza and other complications. He was married to Miss Lillie Donnell on November 7, 1886. He was happy in his selection of one to stand with him in the battles of life. To them were born six children—one son and five daughters. He has left behind him two brothers and two sisters—Rev. J. T. Bludworth, of the North Texas Conference, and Prof. George Bludworth, of Fort Worth, Tex.; Mrs. Gregg, of Sulphur Springs, and Mrs. Banes, of Fort Worth. He was hopeful to the last. The funeral service was conducted by the writer, assisted by J. L. Morris, J. M. Sweeton, H. B. Chambers, and M. H. Read, and we laid him away in the cemetery at Roxton amid a host of sorrowing friends.—A. F. Hendrix.

LITTLETON FOWLER PALMER, son of Rev. Henderson D. Palmer, was born in Nacogdoches County, Tex., October 26, 1847; died March 19, 1919, at Nocona, Tex. Brother Palmer was licensed to preach in the fall of 1868, was received on trial into the North Texas Conference at Dallas, October 27, 1868, and ordained deacon by Bishop Marvin in 1870, at Jefferson. Bishop Keener ordained him elder at Sulphur Springs in 1872. For more than fifty years he lived an honored member of the North Texas Conference. He was a superannuate preacher for sixteen years and lived this time in the superannuate home at Nocona, the first home of its kind erected west of the Mississippi River. On October 24, 1872, he was married to Miss E. O. Womack, who shared with him the hardships and joys of an itinerant Methodist preacher. Sister Palmer passed away a few months before he did. Brother Palmer was a true Methodist preacher of the old type. He never had a strong work from the financial point. He never received as much as five hundred dollars for a year's work, but he was rich in grace, and there is no doubt that his reward was an abundant entrance into the kingdom of God. The good old man suffered much, but was patient till death delivered him. His last words were expressions of great peace. The funeral services were held in the Methodist Church at Nocoma, by the writer, assisted by Rev. T. N. Weeks, of Bowie, and J. P. Humphreys, of Nocona.—Minor Bounds.

SAMUEL M. MILLER.—We do not fully know why the Greeks coined that sad, suggestive saying, "Whom the gods love die young." Yet there is a profound philosophy of life underlying it which the Christian religion has fully brought to life. It is the truth that death in the cosmic scheme is intended to arrive when the human life has reached its maturity. Then it is ready for transplanting to another and higher field of being. If this be true—and both science and Scripture seem to witness it—then it is the only consolation that can come to us as we contemplate the death of Samuel M. Miller. He was just reaching the fullness of his strength, and the promise of that strength was large indeed. The dew of youth was still upon his brow, and he carried a heart of deep and exquisite sympathy that must have remained ever young. He was a product of the hill country of Kentucky, having been born in Taylor County on April 7, 1872. There was something of the beauty of the hills, their freedom and purity, in his make-up. Handsome in person and still more harmonious in soul, one had but to look upon him to know that here was a rare soul. He was blessed with a pious parentage, his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Miller, being Methodists of the very best type. It was a home sanctified by the visits of Methodist pastors, and doubtless the visits of these godly men left a deep impression upon the growing boy. We find him with an early thirst for education. After his call to preach, he took a thorough course at the Elkton Training School and then entered Vanderbilt University, where he took both the academic and theological courses. In the autumn of 1904 he joined the Louisville Conference—one of the best-equipped men that ever entered its ranks. He soon gave evidence of unusual success in the ministry, so much so that he was allowed to finish out but one quadrennium, that at Broadway, Louisville. His first change was Jeffersonville, Ind., where he remained three years. He was then sent to Elizabethtown, Ky., where he again stayed three years, making a noble record as pastor of the Lucinda Helm Memorial Church. After but six years in the Conference he was now sent to one of the leading stations, State Street, Bowling Green. Here he won every heart by his beautiful spirit, faithful pastorate, and spiritual, thoughtful sermons. When he had rounded out but two years in this important charge it became necessary to fill Broadway, Louisville, one of the grand old charges of Kentucky Methodism. The writer of this memoir happened to be the presiding elder of the Louisville District, and, knowing the grace, gifts, and usefulness of Sam M. Miller, he presented his name to Bishop McCoy, then the presiding bishop, who appointed him to Broadway. On going to Broadway he faced no easy task, as the church is situated in the midst of a changing population. As presiding elder I was solicitous about the Church and his success there, but in a few months I saw that he was complete master of the difficult situation. He had won the love of the entire membership by the beauty of his character and his unflagging devotion to the task committed to him. The noble old congregation responded nobly to his efforts, and the quadrennium was one of the best and most gratifying in its long history. At the close of his pastorate there was universal regret, because the law of our Church compelled his departure. Yet he was warmly welcomed to his next and last charge, Settle Memorial, Owensboro, Ky. This is one of the truly great Churches in Southern Methodism, true in its loyalty to the pastors sent to serve it and instant with service to our risen Lord. The church house is one of unusual beauty, a fine specimen of early English Gothic; so that the combination was well-nigh perfect, for the pastor, a finished specimen of the English race in its new home across the seas, ministered in a structure that breathed a glorious and mighty English history. Yet there was something in that last pastorate more than the reach of human development. Sam Miller was a preacher who knew God in Jesus Christ. His rare natural grace was transfigured and made even more beautiful by divine grace. Members of other denominations would come to hear him because of the beauty of his sermons and the spiritual glow that rested upon him. He was a hard student and brought only "beaten oil" unto God's sanctuary. He seemed just about to enter upon a long and highly successful ministry when he was stricken with influenza, which developed into pneumonia. He was at the session of the Louisville Conference, being held at Madisonville, Ky. He was Secretary of the Conference and had served with his usual efficiency until his presence was missed on Saturday morning. He was reported to have had a slight chill. He remained in his room during that day and over the Sabbath, but came back to the Conference room during the closing session. We little thought that in one week more that handsome, manly form of such winning grace would be cold in death. He returned to Owensboro that same day and, pneumonia having developed, was desperately ill until on Monday, October 7, 1918, he bade good-by to the loved ones and went into the life eternal. Being apprised that death was inevitable, he faced it with sublime courage, saying that he had naught to regret and that it was all well ahead of him. He dictated a will and requested that Dr. A. P. Lyon and the writer be sent for to officiate at his funeral. In a few hours more he was "forever with the Lord." It is difficult for those of us who labored with him and loved him to realize that he is gone from us. He was a man of such abundant efficiency and promise that we looked upon him as an heir to the labors of us who were older. He was Vice President of the Conference Board of Education and Chairman of the Board of Managers of Logan College. As president, I can testify to his love for and his zeal in caring for the institutions of the Church. He loved his Conference, and it honored him by electing him a delegate to the last General Conference. He was a man who gave unusual promise of large usefulness to the whole Church. He was fitted to fill any pulpit in Southern Methodism most acceptably. But "whom the gods love die young." If it be true that the vast spiritual universe that enwraps us is ever ready to take from us the spirits of just men approaching perfection, we can understand why Sam Miller was taken from us. His character, always beautiful, was growing ever richer in the "beauty of Christ." He seemed to be wanting in the defects that mar the natures of many good men. While desirous of excelling as a minister, as a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, he had no vain ambitions and was ever ready to live up to that test in which so many men fail, "in honor preferring one another." Taking him all in all, we shall not soon look upon his like again. Our hearts are sore, but not bitter. He who gave to us has a right to his own. Heaven has a new attraction because he is there. May the God of all consolation comfort the loved ones who are left behind, especially the aged father and brother, his dear wife, who was Miss Frances Peterson, and with whom he companioned in perfect love since the day of their marriage, August 10, 1908. And may God's arms be about the dear daughter, Frances Penn Miller, now six years of age. To him we bow in loving, yet sad, submission.—Frank M. Thomas.

LEWIS POWELL, son of Lewis and Eliza Kirkwood Powell, was born at Lake Providence, La. In his early childhood his father moved to a farm near Camden, Ark., where young Lewis Powell's boyhood days were spent. He was converted near Camden when seventeen years old. He was licensed to preach November 28, 1874, and in 1879, after graduating from Vanderbilt University, he was admitted on trial into the Tennessee Conference at Murfreesboro. He served twenty-two years in the city of Nashville. In 1902 he was transferred to the Little Rock Conference, and was stationed at Central Church, Hot Springs, Ark. The church building of Central Church was destroyed by fire and he planned the present splendid edifice. After spending four years at Central Church, Dr. Powell was transferred to the Memphis Conference and stationed at First Church, Memphis. At the end of his quadrennium at First Church he was transferred to the Louisville Conference and placed at Settle Memorial, Owensboro, Ky., where he raised the money to pay the larger part of the church debt. After spending four years at Settle Memorial he was sent to Hopkinsville, Ky. Under his pastorate at this place the new church edifice was built. This building is one of the most modern and beautiful churches to be found in the country. From Hopkinsville

he was sent to Crescent Hill, Louisville. The degree of D.D. was conferred on him by two institutions. He is the author of two popular books: "The Twentieth Century Home Builder," dedicated to his wife, and "Life and Service," dedicated to his son, Rev. Paul S. Powell. In 1901 he was chaplain of the Tennessee Senate. Dr. Powell was married October 10, 1888, to Miss Annie Shell, of Aberdeen, Miss. While Dr. Powell was a church builder he was also a pastor and an evangelist. He was a successful pastor, visiting his members and showing greatest interest in their welfare. He quickly and easily learned the names of the people, even to the smallest children. He was evangelistic in his preaching, and many were converted and added to the Church under his ministry. He also conducted many revival meetings for other ministers and was often put in charge of great camp meetings. He became a member of the Louisville Conference in 1910 and identified himself with the Conference in all its work, and at the time of his death was Vice President of the Board of Missions and Trustee for the Anti-Saloon League, representing the Conference. Dr. Powell was a man of great faith and laid hold of the promises of God with a childlike simplicity. He never doubted that his Heavenly Father was watching over and leading him. This made him a man of decided courage in the midst of difficulties. He was mighty in the Scriptures and used them largely in the structure of his sermons. He did not use the Scripture to fill in, but the framework was Scripture, the proof and support of his argument was from the word of God. His illustrations were from the Bible. If he sought for embellishment, he found it in the Book of books, and his application was in Bible language and his quotations were accurate. Dr. Powell had spent only three months in his new charge, Crescent Hill Church, when he was called to go. He died on the morning of January 1, 1919, a little while after the ringing of bells and the blowing of whistles had announced the dawn of the new year. For several days before his death his suffering was severe, but he was patient through it all and was conscious almost to the end. Just a short while before he died he aroused and saw his wife and daughter, Miss Anne Louise, his son, Rev. Paul S. Powell, and his sister, Mrs. Mary Meek, recognized them, and spoke separately to each one words that will never be forgotten by them.

Brother Powell spent nearly forty years in the active ministry, and was a tireless worker. He spent his mornings in his study, for he was a great student and reader, and his afternoons were given to pastoral work. The funeral services were held in the Crescent Hill Church, the active pallbearers being the official members of the Church and the honorary pallbearers being the preachers of the district. His body was taken to Aberdeen, Miss., for burial.—S. J. Thompson.

JAMES SANDELIN CHANDLER grew up on a farm in Wilson County, Tenn. He was one "who in the love of nature holds communion with her visible forms." He heard her "speak a various language; for his gayer hours she had a voice of gladness, and a smile and eloquence of beauty, and she glided into his darker musings, with a mild and healing sympathy, that stole away their sharpness ere he was aware." His great soul absorbed both the sweet of the meadows and the strength of the hills. He had the priceless privileges of a consecrated Methodist home. Both his father and his grandfather were Methodist preachers. Thus was he early directed to the one source of all greatness, Jesus Christ, the light and life of men. When just a youth, he gave his heart to Jesus at a camp meeting which was being conducted by his father at Liberty Hill, Tenn. He united with the Church of his father, the Methodist Protestant, and after completing the course in Suwanee Academy he was licensed to preach and joined the Tennessee Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church. Those were still the days of the pioneers, and his circuits were sometimes one hundred miles in length. He received the best appointments in his Conference, and six or eight times was elected its president. Brother Chandler was twice married. His first wife, whom he married in 1858 and who died in 1863, was Miss Amanthis Harreld. In 1865 he was married to Miss Ophelia M. Hines, who, with six children, survives. For a few years Brother Chandler engaged in farming and other business in Butler and Warren counties, and had splendid financial success; but in the midst of financial fluctuation he lost all. During these days of business he was not kept from his "loved employ," for he regularly filled his several appointments. He joined the Louisville Conference in 1889, and served in various appointments until his superannuation. After his superannuation he preached gladly and ac-ceptably whenever opportunity was given, using such opportunities until near the time of his death. His was a lovely and a lofty spirit. He had a wonderful faith in God, a marvelous grasp on truth, and a deep, even, and abiding consecration. In his ninetieth year he could write with a firm hand, clear thought, and convincing logic on the great doctrines of Christianity, and all through his ministry his wisdom was manifested in his winning of souls. He quietly left us on February 12, 1919. Funeral services were held in the Auburn Methodist Church. The sermon was preached by the writer. Other ministers assisting were A. J. Bennett, J. H. Young, A. P. Lyon, and D. S. Campbell. The burial was in Fairview Cemetery, Bowling Green, and was conducted by the Masons, with which fraternity Brother Chandler was long and honorably connected, having served at one time as the Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky. We sorely miss him, but we shall see him again.—G. W. Hummell.

L. M. RUSSELL was born in October, 1861. He died at Vine Grove, Ky., early in 1919. Born of humble, but honorable and strong-minded, parents, in the hills of Allen County, his early life neither saw nor knew any of the ease and comfort of the present day. His father died when he was but a child and his training was thereafter left to the watchful care of a good mother. On account of poverty and having to labor for the support of himself and mother, he received but scant education in his youthful days, but by dint of hard and discouraging labor and his set purpose to do something in the world, he managed to obtain the usual common school education to be had in that day. But, after starting in life, he was a student by day and night, and, using every spare moment from the labors that were necessary for his and a devoted family's sustenance, he applied himself to study, became fairly educated, and was a powerful preacher for many years before his death. He was a ready man in the pulpit or on public occasion and never lacked for something really worth while to say. He abhorred the present-day fashions, foibles, and fancies, believed in the gospel as taught in the Holy Bible, and preached with power and results the old-time and much-needed gospel. He rebuked sin wheresoever found, yet set himself up to judge no man, but to love and help him. He did not claim to be infallible, but he heard his Master's voice and sought to do his will. He was a man of unusually clear head, gifted with strong perceptive powers and with considerable dialectic ability. His sermons were marked by clear reasoning and at times had a flash of genius in them. His English style was unusually pure, especially when one considers that he was largely self-educated. He was a Methodist through and through. He knew and loved our doctrines and was able to present and to defend them. Brother Russell's wife died many years ago and left him with seven children. His old mother helped him to rear them in patience and kindness. His love for and attention to his mother were beautiful. When she died, several years ago, he brought her remains to the old family graveyard at Beech Grove, in Allen County, and at her burial read a beautiful and touching tribute to her memory. It equaled, if it did not surpass, anything of the kind presented on such an occasion. Brother Russell has now five living children, the oldest and youngest having preceded him to the grave. God used him in many ways to further his cause, and as a pastor he tried to do his duty as it appeared to him. No man could dictate to him; no influence could swerve him from the path of duty as he saw it. He looked to God only for guidance, and sought his counsel rather than that of man. Brother Russell served the following charges and perhaps others: Columbus, Golfport, Renal, Creelsboro, Albany, Columbia, Glasgow, Scottsville, Kuttawa, Eddyville, Big Spring, Middletown, Beaver Dam, Greenville, Auburn, and Vine Grove, where he died. May God comfort his loved ones. Peace to his memory!—J. D. Gilliam.

R. H. HARTFORD, pastor of Broadway Methodist Church, Bowling Green, Ky., was instantly killed in an automobile wreck, within two blocks of his home, on Friday afternoon, April 18, 1919. He was forty-one years old and a native Kentuckian. In his early manhood he was licensed to preach and joined the Louisville Conference. He did his academic work in the Methodist Training School at Elkton, Ky. He served several charges in the Louisville Conference and then transferred to the North Alabama Conference, where he remained eight years and finished his education in the schools of Alabama, at the same time serving different churches in this Conference. Last fall he was transferred back to the Louisville Conference and stationed at Broadway Church, Bowling Green. He also taught during the week in Ogden College. Fifteen years ago he was married to Miss Ora Walton, daughter of Rev. D. F. Walton, of this Conference. Four children were born to them, the oldest of whom preceded him to the better land. Besides a wife and three children he leaves four brothers and two sisters to mourn their loss. His sisters are Mrs. Mattie Pollard and Mrs. Ollie Mercer, of Owensboro, Ky. His brothers are Rev. Frank Hartford, pastor of the Owensboro Circuit; Rev. J. E. Hartford, pastor of the Robards Circuit; Rev. Casnor Hartford, of Fordsville, Ky.; Mr. George Hartford, of South Carrollton, Ky. His funeral service was held at Broadway Church Saturday afternoon, April 19. Rev. G. W. Hummell preached the funeral sermon, and Brothers Adams, Copas, Jones, and C. P. Walton made short addresses. He was laid to rest in Rose Hill Cemetery, Owensboro, Ky., Sunday, April 20, after a short funeral service conducted by Dr. C. C. Gregory, of Settle Memorial, Rev. L. K. May, presiding elder of the Owensboro District, and Rev. W. S. Buckner, of Breckinridge Street Church. A large number of friends and relatives were present.—Mrs. J. T. Rector.

WILLIAM FLETCHER CASHMAN, son of Joseph and Melissa Cashman, was born at Union Star, Ky., June 27, 1851. His parents were lifelong Methodists, and had their son dedicated to God in holy baptism when a child. Following the injunction of the Bible, they trained him up in the way he should go. In early life William gave his heart to God and assumed the vows of the Methodist Church, to which he gave his life in service. He felt the call to preach when in his minority, and made some efforts before he was licensed. In 1874 he applied for and was granted local preacher's license. In 1877 he was recommended to the Annual Conference for admission on trial into the traveling connection, and was duly received the same fall at Henderson, Ky., with Gross Alexander, John J. Tigert, Robert W. Browder, J. W. Bigham, James T. Rushing, John W. Walton, Samuel Link, and J. Marshall Dempsey. His first appointment was Wolfe Creek Mission. Brother Cashman served his probation period and was admitted in due time into full connection, and without a break served the Conference for forty-two years, lacking three months. Following are the charges and duration of time he served each: Wolfe Creek Mission, 1877-78; Bacon Creek Circuit, 1878-80; Wolfe Creek Circuit, 1880-81; West Greenville Circuit, 1881-82; McDaniels Circuit, 1882-83; Kuttawa Circuit, 1883-87; Sharon Grove, 1887-88; Lewisport Circuit, 1888-89; Yelvington Circuit, 1889-90; Livermore Circuit, 1890-92; Owensboro Circuit, 1892-96; Main Street, Owensboro, 1896-97; Calhoun Circuit, 1897-1901; Hopkinsville Circuit, 1901-05; Russellville Circuit, 1905-09; Edyville Station, 1909-11; Adairville Circuit, 1911-12; Russellville Circuit, 1912-16; Earlington Station, 1916-18; Trenton and Guthrie, nine months. He was taken sick while in a revival at Guthrie, from which time he gradually grew worse until the end came on July 11, 1919. Brother Cashman was twice married: first to Miss Mary West, to whom were born three children. He was later married to Miss Mary B. Bradley, of Greenville, Ky., and to them were born five children. One child of each wife preceded him to death; the other six and his widow are alive to bear the sorrow of his going. Brother Cashman was a splendid pastor, above the average as a preacher, clean in his personal habits, and tidy in his dress. He was a great lover of his family and flock, cared well for the parsonages in which he lived, was systematic in his work, and he was in most respects an ideal Methodist preacher. Brother Cashman was generally loved by the people where he served, and I am sure was nowhere more generally loved by all than in his last charge. When the news spread that he was dangerously ill, it cast a gloom over the whole community. People of other denominations, as well as his own, began to shower the parsonage with their kindnesses, and nothing was left undone to help the family care for him during the two weeks of his illness. When death came, all hearts were sad, the churches were closed, and the pastors and people shared the sorrow with his family. The floral offerings were profuse and beautiful, and the funeral service was attended by friends from near and far. In the Methodist Church at Trenton, on Sunday, July 13, the funeral services were conducted by the presiding elder, assisted by Dr. A. P. Lyon and the pastor of the Disciples Church of Trenton, Brother Bell. J. R. Rash and wife, of Madisonville, sang "Death Is No More Than a Dream." The body was then taken to Russellville for interment, and Brother D. S. Campbell read the ritual and Brother G. W. Shugart prayed. The benediction was pronounced by the presiding elder and the body of William Fletcher Cashman was left sleeping under a cover of beautiful flowers. His work was well done. His is a peaceful rest. His noblest eulogy he made himself.—B. M. Currie.

RICHARD FOSTER HAYES was born on a farm in Breckinridge County, Ky., January 24, 1843, of pious parentage; died May 20, 1919. He was baptized in infancy and converted in his thirteenth year in a protracted meeting conducted by his pastor, Rev. R. C. Alexander. He attended the Brandenburg High School, of which Prof. D. C. Cully was principal, a man who left a deep impression upon his pupils. Quite early he felt called to preach, saying in some biographical notes that he felt the impression when converted, and that it culminated in 1866. He was licensed to preach that same year, and admitted on trial into the Louisville Conference at Elizabethtown that fall. His first appointment was to the Munfordville Circuit, where he remained one year, then to Auburn and Allensville, 1867-68; Auburn and Bibbs Chapel, 1868-69; Henderson, 1869-70; Elizabethtown, 1870-72; Auburn, 1872-73. Feeling it his duty to enter mission work in Illinois, he was transferred to the Illinois Conference and labored there with great energy for five years, being presiding elder of the Lewiston District when he was transferred back to his home Conference. From this time until failing health led him to superannuate, in 1915, he filled with great acceptability and profound spiritual influence several important charges, such as Hardinsburg, Russellville, Cloverport, Franklin, and Morganfield. He was presiding elder of the Russellville, Henderson, Bowling Green, Owensboro, and Hopkinsville Districts. Wherever he went he was a model of faithfulness, devotion, and rare spiritual power. The seed that he sowed bore fruit long after his labors, and in many communities in our Conference his name is spoken of with deep reverence. Always a thoughtful, spiritual preacher, at times his utterances were marked by profound unction. He was an earnest student of God's Word, and above all a man much given to prayer. It was a benediction to be associated with Brother Hayes. There was a simple, beautiful godliness about him that left a spell on the soul. When he was superannuated the good people of Morganfield offered to pay a part of the price of a superannuate home if Brother Hayes, who had been their beloved pastor twenty years before, might come to live among them. And during his last long illness they proved themselves friends indeed. Brother Hayes was married September 25, 1879, to Miss Jenkins, of Henderson, Ky., and she was a true wife and helper.—E. F. Goodson.

ROBERT C. ALEXANDER died at his home, in Central City, January 23, 1919, in the eighty-ninth year of his age. Had he lived until March he would have been ninety years old. He was the son of William and Elizabeth (Powers) Alexander, was born on March 14, 1829, in Christian County, Ky., and spent his boyhood days on a farm in that county. His school advantages were very limited, as he attended only three country schools of about five months each. His father died when he was a small boy, and at about fourteen years of age he became the breadwinner for his mother and four small sisters. For some time he worked as a farm hand during the day and went to school at night. In May, 1842, he was converted at an altar of prayer in a revival held in an old church that once stood about seven miles east of Hopkinsville. On November 27, 1852, he was licensed to preach at Salubria Springs, near Hopkinsville, Ky., and at Owensboro, Ky., in 1853, he was admitted on trial into the Louisville Conference. He served the following charges: Christian Mission, 1853-54; Smithland, 1854-55; Brandenburg, 1855-56; Millers-town, 1856-57; Scottsville, 1857-58; Mammoth Cave, 1858-59; Cadiz, 1859-61. In the fall of 1861 he was transferred by Bishop Paine to the Mississippi Conference and appointed to Houston Circuit. He remained in charge of this circuit until December, 1862, when he returned to his old home in Christian County, Ky., and after spending the year 1863 at home he took charge of Wayne Circuit, and it seems from his notes that he was in charge of this circuit for three years. He was transferred back to the Louisville Conference and appointed to the Columbia Circuit for two years, and at the Conference of 1870 he was made presiding elder of the Columbia District, where he served three years; La Fayette Circuit, 1873-75; Madisonville, 1875-77; Greenville, 1877-79. At the Conference of 1879 he was made presiding elder of the Princeton District, but in August, 1880, he had to give up the district work on account of his health. Beginning again that fall, he took up his work and served the following charges: Adairville Circuit, 1880-81; Hartford Circuit, 1881-83; Calhoun Circuit, 1883-84; Greensburg Circuit, 1884-86; Mannsville Circuit, 1886-87; Munfordville Circuit, 1887-89; Loretto Circuit, 1889-91; Vine Grove Circuit, 1891-92; Slaughtersville Circuit, 1892-95; Kuttawa Circuit, 1895-96; Livermore Circuit, 1896-98; Sharon Grove Circuit, 1898-1900. This closed his active ministerial career of nearly fifty years, and at the Conference held at Elizabethtown in September, 1900, he was granted the superannuate relation. After this he lived for a while on a farm in Marshall County, Ky. In 1906 he bought a home at Central City, Ky., moved there, and lived to the end of his long and useful life. His ministry from the very beginning was attended with gracious revivals, and in almost every charge he ever served there were many conversions and additions to the Church. During his ministry he built many churches and parsonages, and in many cases he did much of the work with his own hands. On September 11, 1857, he was married to Miss Mary C. Emerson, and to this union were born seven children, all of whom still live. After the death of his first wife he was married to Mrs. Sympton, and to them was born one son, John Alexander, of Central City, who, after the death of his mother a few years ago, came to Central City and moved into the home with his father to care for him, and no daughter was ever more tender or kind to her own mother or father than was Mrs. John Alexander to her father-in-law, Rev. R. C. Alexander. Brother Alexander died in great faith. We had his funeral services in the Methodist church in Central City, and laid his body to rest in the cemetery at Central City, Ky., by the side of his second wife.—J. R. McAfee.

WADDY THOMPSON DUNCAN finished his work and passed to the home above on March 27, 1919. On April 20, 1919, his wife, Mrs. Rebecca Green Duncan, fell on sleep and joined him in the city of God. Both were buried at Fountain Inn, S. C. Waddy Thompson Duncan, son of Benjamin Franklin and Emiline Duncan, was born in Anderson County, S. C., May 18, 1867; was brought up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord and was taught first the things of God; was further educated at Patrick Military Institute and Wofford College. Graduating at Wofford in June, 1894, he entered the South Carolina Conference at the end of the year.

His call to preach was clear and final. He looked to this high vocation for years, but was not licensed until a little while before his graduation at college. His first appointment was to his home people—those who had known him from his birth. They received him as warmly and profited as fully as they could have done under the ministry of experienced strangers. From year to year he was steadily advanced until in December, 1905, he was appointed to Cokesbury District—one of the youngest among us ever intrusted with such charge. But here, as elsewhere, he made good. After a year on Cokesbury District he was sent to Sumter District, and served there four years. About the year 1909 his health failed. He was never a well man again. While he seemed to improve, his strength did not come back, and an attack of influenza last winter brought the end. He was a preacher of unusual gifts and grace. His messages were thoughtful and effective. Handsome in face and form, his presence added to the effectiveness of his preaching. He was heard with pleasure and had success in winning men to Christ and in building up the Church. He was a great reader and gathered wide information on all subjects, especially pertaining to the kingdom of God. Our brother married early; first to Miss McDonald, of Anderson County, in 1894, and after her death to Miss Rebecca Green, of Sumter County, on December 15, 1898. He and his wife were not divided in their deaths, but almost together passed to their reward. A son and two daughters survive them. He served for a time as trustee of Wofford College, and was also at one time a member of the Board of Managers of Epworth Orphanage. Only a little more than fifty years Brother Duncan lived; only twenty-five years it was our privilege to have his service. His was a short life, but he lived long enough to be widely loved and missed. We sorrow, but have consoling hope.—John O. Willson.

DAVID PETUS BOYD answered the last call of his Lord and Master on Sunday night, November 2, 1919, at Lancaster, S. C., in the home of his son, David Albert Boyd. Brother Boyd was the youngest son of Rev. Mark Moore Boyd and Elizabeth Epting Boyd. He was born in Newberry County, S. C., September 14, 1848. He was therefore a little more than seventy-one years of age when the heavenly summons came. He was preceded to the spirit world by his parents and all his brothers and sisters, except his youngest sister, Mrs. Fannie Riser, of Walterboro, S. C. Brother Boyd was married December 24, 1868, to Miss Sarah Caroline Thompson, of Newberry County, S. C. Of their three children, only one, David Albert, survives him, with the wife of his youth. Brother Boyd was a real Christian from childhood. He joined the Methodist Church at the age of ten, and at sixteen passed into a state of sweet assurance. While young he was impressed with a call to enter the ministry; and although he deferred this matter, he did not backslide, as he was constantly engaged in some church work, as steward, Sunday school superintendent, or engaged in song and other most helpful work in revival meetings. But in 1881, while I was pastor on the Saluda Circuit, he became melancholy and could not see why God had taken away his peace. I was enabled to lead him to see that it was because he refused to go forward and preach the gospel as the Holy Spirit was moving him to do. After much prayer, he went forward and took up the work. He was licensed to preach at Emory Church in July, 1882, during the memorable District Conference held there. He served as junior preacher with me on Saluda Circuit during 1883, and was admitted into the South Carolina Conference at Sumter in December, 1883. For the first twenty-three years he served only six charges, in every one, with one exception, the full four years, which was an unusual record. Since then, because of failing health, he has not served any work so long. His health continued to grow worse, he was placed on the honored roll of the retired, and during the last few years of his life both body and mind gave way, but his spirit remained calm and full of divine peace. He was a deeply spiritual man, a good preacher, gifted with song, a deeply sympathetic nature, a manly man, a real friend. When Petus Boyd went away, he was the last of the preachers of that interesting family of preachers that has given us preachers continuously for more than a century. What a shout of triumph when all that family meet in our Father's home! His body was laid to rest in the cemetery at Lancaster, S. C., his pastor, Rev. E. R. Mason, assisted by Rev. W. F. Gibson, conducting the funeral services.—J. B. Traywick.

JAMES HERBERT THACKER was born April 28, 1862, of pious parentage. His father was a minister of the gospel, and his early training was under the best Christian influence. The War between the States having left his father a physical and financial wreck, it was practically impossible for him to aid his ambitious and promising son in obtaining an education. Not to be daunted by this misfortune, he entered the preparatory department of Wofford College at twenty-two years of age, and thus began a heroic struggle for an education that has had few equals in the history of that great institution. By doing the janitor's work and other small jobs during the college sessions, and by selling books and teaching school during his vacations, he succeeded by close economy in making money enough to support himself. He finally finished his college course, and not without honor, and received his diploma in June, 1891. He was then twenty-nine years old. His career under such adverse circumstances should prove an inspiration to all young men thus handicapped by poverty and misfortune in aspiring to obtain a college education. Brother Thacker, like many others, did not surrender at once to the call of God to preach the gospel, though he felt the call immediately after his conversion. He tried to evade the issue by reading law and studying medicine, promising God to do liberal things with all the money he could make from either profession he would choose; but God had called him to preach and not to make money. After quite a long struggle, one morning before day he surrendered his life to the call of the Master. He never wavered after he made the surrender; but, like the great apostle, he ever afterwards "pressed toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." A few days after his graduation, in June, 1891, he was appointed by the bishop to supply the North Greenville Circuit, to fill an unexpired term. Having decided to join the South Carolina Conference, he was received on trial at the session of the Conference held in Darlington, S. C., December, 1891, together with the following young men: Alexander N. Brunson, Andrew Jackson Cauthen, C. Hovey Clyde, John D. Crout, J. Clarence Spann, and William C. Winn. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Granbery at Darlington, S. C., in December, 1891, and elder by Bishop Hargrove at Sumter, S. C., in December, 1893. A mere recital of the appointments for the many years he served the Church on circuits and stations would be but a small part of the splendid and efficient service he rendered his Church. In the very midst of his career, in the very prime of his ministry, disease attacked him, and at the Conference in Charleston in 1910 he asked for the superannuate relation. It was no doubt the saddest hour of his life when he felt forced to retire from the active work, and the scene will not be forgotten by many of us when he bade farewell to his brethren. His health having improved, he was restored to the effective list after two years of superannuation. He rejoiced to get back into the active ranks, but he was never a well man again; and while he rendered faithful service in the several years that followed, yet his work was often done under difficulty and oft-times in pain. He was a man of splendid physique and fine personal appearance, robust and hearty, until stricken with disease. He made a brave fight, but the odds were against him. His last charge was Lancaster Station, where he had served very acceptably for about six months when the end came. He held his last public service at prayer meeting on Wednesday, May 14. The following afternoon his wife found him unconscious in his study. He never rallied again, but grew weaker each day, and the following Sunday morning went home. Brother Thacker was a most zealous worker and faithful pastor. He made strong and lasting friendships in every charge he served and was ever recognized as a true man of God. His sermons always showed careful preparation, were well delivered and sometimes with unusual effect. He loved to preach and the people loved to hear him. His pastorates not only marked spiritual growth, but strides in material development. In many of his charges, churches or parsonages were either built or repaired. The work of the Lord always went forward in his hands. He was married to Miss Annie M. Goddard, of Laurens County, S. C., July 15, 1891. He was most fortunate in the selection of a life companion, for she proved a true and faithful helpmeet in all his ministry. Their devotion to each other was striking and their home life unusually beautiful. Four girls and three boys were born of this union. Five of the children, with the mother, survive him. One son died in infancy and a beautiful daughter, in the prime of young womanhood, preceded him to the better land by only one month. No doubt the death of this beloved daughter, to whom he was devotedly attached, hastened the end. His body rests in the cemetery at St. Matthews, S. C., until the resurrection morn.—A. N. Brunson.

REUBEN LAWSON DUFFIE was born in Blackstock, Chester County, S. C., January 7, 1840. As a boy he felt the call to preach and requested his father to help him secure an education which should equip him for his high calling. His father, a school-teacher, taught him Latin and Greek in addition to the usual branches of education, and had prepared him to enter college when the war came on. The unusual conditions at the close of the war prevented his securing further education. Brother Duffie served throughout the war. He was once wounded and was for part of the time assigned to light duty. On April 12, 1864, he was married to Miss Ella Stott. Eight children were born to them. Mrs. Duffie and all of the children survive him. He was admitted on trial at the Marion Conference, in December, 1866, under Bishop Wightman. His name is second on the chronological roll of our Conference as it now stands. The South Carolina Conference then embraced part of North Carolina, and his first appointment was to Charlotte Circuit. He served Heath Springs, Abbeville Circuit, Waccamaw Circuit, Conway Circuit, Effingham, Salters Circuit, Georgetown Circuit, East Lancaster Circuit, Columbia Circuit, and then was sent back to Georgetown Circuit, where he found it necessary to take the superannuate relation. Two years later Brother Duffie undertook work, but after two years on the Walhalla Circuit was forced to give up the itinerancy, in 1891. Brother Duffie served large, hard circuits during the trying conditions following the War between the States. His experiences remind one of the pioneer days of Asbury's preachers. Some of the older members of Walhalla Circuit recall to this day, nearly thirty years after his pastorate, the persistence with which he battled against bad roads and distance in reaching the most outlying homes of the large territory. He was successful as a soul winner, and I have heard him state that there were several years in which over one hundred members were gathered into the Church. He resided most of the time after his superannuation at Westminster. In the beautiful hill country at the foot of the Blue Ridge he passed the evening time of life, known and loved by many. His influence for good did not end when he left the itinerancy. There were often calls to preach or demands were made for his counsel. His pure, cheerful life was a sermon in itself. The end came peacefully and not unexpectedly on January 2, 1919.—J. W. Lewis.

Ques. 11. What preachers have died during the past year? Elbert W. Fisher, Benjamin F. Nuckolls. 2. Bishop Elijah Embree Hoss (honorary member).

ELIJAH EMBREE HOSS was born April 14, 1849, in a country home four miles south of Jonesboro, Tenn.; and passed to his reward at the home of his son, Dr. H. S. Hoss, in Muskogee, Okla., on April 23, 1919, where the body was given its resting place beside that of his beloved wife, who preceded him less than one year. He was well born. His father, Henry Hoss, had in his veins the blood of Michael Boone, an ancestor of Daniel Boone, the famous Indian fighter. His mother was Anna Maria (Sevier) Hoss, a granddaughter of General John Sevier, a pioneer of the "Watauga Settlement," the most successful Indian fighter of his day, the only Governor of the State of Frankland; the first, and several times, Governor of Tennessee, and a Representative of his State in Congress; a hero, and probably the hero, as claimed by his descendants, of the battle of King's Mountain, which turned the tide of the Revolution. Thus, it appears, the Bishop came not only from valorous, but of very distinguished stock; and all who knew him will testify that he kept up the traditions of his forbears. His father removed to Jonesboro while Embree was yet a lad. Henry Hoss was a man of sterling qualities, and was a most useful and highly respected citizen. The mother was finely endowed and splendidly cultured, and was a deeply pious woman. Embree was the second child of eight. He was a precocious youth, and, withal, was a good boy who followed closely the Godly precepts of his mother, whom he almost adored through all his life. His reverence for his parents was profound; and it is not believed he ever caused a shadow to rest upon the brow of either parent. He was reared in the rather aristocratic town, at that time, of Jonesboro, and had the advantages of good society and excellent schools. He professed religion and joined the Church in 1859, under the pastorate of the late Grinsfield Taylor. He was licensed a Methodist preacher in 1866. In 1869 he joined the Holston Conference of the M. E. Church, South, was ordained a deacon in 1870 by Bishop Kavanaugh, and an elder by Bishop McTyeire in 1871. In 1866 his father sent him to the Ohio Wesleyan University, but during the second year at that institution, some negro students having been admitted, the father, though an intense Unionist during the War between the States, promptly recalled his son and placed him in Emory and Henry College, Virginia, where he graduated in 1869. E. E. Hoss was married to Miss Abbie Belle Clark November 19, 1872, by Rev. George D. French, later his brother-in-law. Of this union three children were born: E. E. Hoss, Jr., of Birmingham, Ala., Mrs. Mary Headman, of Collinwood, N. J., and Dr. H. S. Hoss, of Muskogee, Okla. The first pastorate to which the young preacher was assigned was to the Jonesboro and Greenville Station, in 1869. Among the first members received by him into the Church, if, indeed, not the very first, were his father and his brother-in-law, the late Judge S. J. Kirkpatrick, of Jonesboro, Tenn. In 1870 he was assigned to the Knoxville Station, and in 1871 to Church Street, Knoxville, and during that Conference year was transferred to the Pacific Conference and stationed in San Francisco. In 1874 he was elected President of the Pacific Methodist College. In 1875 he was transferred back to the Holston Annual Conference and stationed at Asheville, N. C. In 1876 he was made a professor in Martha Washington College, Abingdon, Va.; in 1878 he was elected its president, and served until made professor in, and vice president of, Emory and Henry College, Virginia, in 1881, and served to the close of the scholastic year in June, 1885, when he was elected president of that institution. Before entering upon the duties of president, he resigned to accept the professorship of Church History in Vanderbilt University; he remained in that capacity until elected, by the General Conference at St. Louis, in 1890, editor of the Christian Advocate, the general organ of the Church; for twelve years he was its peerless editor, until, in 1902, at Dallas, Tex., he was elected a bishop on the first ballot by an unusually large majority. He was retired to the superannuate list in Atlanta, in 1918, on account of feebleness and failing health. The honorary degrees of Doctor of Divinity and Doctor of Laws were conferred upon him by his alma mater, who was proud of her distinguished son. So runs the early working life of E. E. Hoss down to his election as a bishop, or general superintendent in his Church, though all of his activities in Church work, both before and after his election to the episcopacy, cannot be here enumerated, for his life covered a field of remarkable scope and of various and varied transactions. Dr. Hoss was a reserve delegate to the General Conference of 1882, a delegate to the five succeeding General Conferences, and led the ministerial delegations to the last three General Conferences, and to the one, inclusive, that elected him a bishop; the last time he was elected a member of the General Conference he lacked only six votes, besides his own, of being unanimously elected. He represented our Church in the Ecumenical Conference in Washington City in 1891, in London in 1901, and in Toronto in 1911. In 1910 he represented our Church at the British and Irish Wesleyan Conference, and on the same trip served the missions in China, Japan, and Korea; he served those missions again in 1915. He traveled extensively throughout England and Ireland, making speeches and preaching at the request of the Methodists there. He was a fraternal delegate to the Canada Methodists; and fraternal messenger, in 1890, to the General Conference of the M. E. Church. He represented his own Church, and also the M. E. Church, at the request of her bishops, in 1916, in Australia, and traveled 4,000 miles over that island, preaching, it being the centennial of Methodism there. His labors there are said to have been very effective. Bishop John W. Hamilton, of the M. E. Church, at Traverse City, Mich., in 1917, speaking before the Commission on Unification, in regard to a message to be wired Bishop Hoss regretting his absence from the committee on account of personal and family afflictions, after tenderly referring to him as a "great man," said: "Bishop Hoss is an honorable man. He represented the M. E. Church in the Orient as faithfully as he did his own. He knows more Methodists than does any other man. He is known by more Methodists than is any other living man. He is, in fact, the leader of world-wide Methodism to-day." In 1905, 1906, 1907, and 1908 he presided over the Brazil Methodist Conferences. He crossed the seas eight times in the service of his Church. He was a member of the joint committee that formulated the Methodist Hymnal used by the two leading Methodist Churches. He was a member of the Joint Commission for the Unification of American Methodism, and was easily as great as the greatest of the distinguished members of that body, and the most beloved of them all. He wrote a life of Bishop McKendree and of Dr. Morton. He wrote a book on "Methodist Fraternity and Federation," which issued from our

Publishing House. His fraternal addresses were published in book form. He read widely the works of great authors, and current literature; wrote extensively for secular and religious papers and for first-class magazines and reviews. He wrote the comments on the Sunday school lessons appearing in our quarterlies while Dr. Cunyningham was Sunday School Editor; and later Hoss' "Notes on the Sunday School Lessons," published in book form. He was appointed by the College of Bishops to write a history of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, commenced to do so, but the life-current was cut before he had made much progress in that important undertaking. He was an enthusiastic leader in the long and strenuous fight which resulted in State-wide prohibition in Tennessee. He led the van in the memorable judicial contest, wherein the Church sought to wrench her great university from the clutch of Cæsar, secured a victory in the Chancery Court, but failed in the Court of Last Resort; but the defeat, as subsequent facts revealed, proved a splendid failure, for the Church, from the loss of one great university, in its stead acquired two greater still. But the puissant leader had overtaxed body and brain, his soul agonized over the loss his beloved Church had sustained, and then was marked the beginning of the end of that eventful life. Thus is enumerated in part only what the indomitable worker did while discharging the duties of pastor, professor, president of colleges, editor of the general organ of his Church, and general superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Did ever a human being pack more of the good and great into a working life of fifty years? One explanation, which reveals another wonder, was related to this writer by Bishop Hoss, who said: "During the twelve years that I was editor of the Christian Advocate I never re-wrote a single editorial." Those editorials that placed him in the very forefront of the greatest editors of his generation were given to the reading public just as they flew from brain to pen, except, very infrequently, one word was substituted for another. As to general and special information he was a living encyclopedia. With history, sacred and profane, his familiarity was remarkable. His intellectual powers were massive and his attainments phenomenal. Able writers have already essayed to measure and to analyze them. It is into the realm of the soul of him we loved so dearly that we wish to look more particularly just now, and present for consideration those hidden and finer virtues which were the most potent in the formation of the grand character of the man. The life of E. E. Hoss was a busy and a fruitful one. He never learned to rest or to work leisurely, for his nature was impulsive. He was combative for a principle, but was as chivalrous as any knight-errant of history or legend or song. He lived in an atmosphere of love, and his sympathies took in all suffering humanity, for the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man was a religious axiom by which all his acts were squared. His life was clean, and as pure, so far as indicated by word or deed, as the morning dewdrop on a spear of grass. The spirit of benevolence enriched his soul. He dispensed charities beyond his means, and until he left an estate little more than that of the widow of sacred writ who cast her all into the treasury of the Lord. He was as humble as the publican immortalized by Bible history. When the vote was announced that recorded him a bishop-elect he burst into tears, bowed his head to his knees, uttered a prayer to God to make him worthy of the sacred duty imposed, and to give him strength to bear the new responsibilities cast upon him. His life was as transparent as the limpid waters of his native heath. Envy never smirched his soul. He took delight in the advancement of others, and would lend a helping hand even against his own promotion. It is well known, and a fact worthy of record, that he was earnestly endeavoring to secure the election of a friend to the editorship of the Christian Advocate at the very time he was chosen to that exalted position. He was human, was fallible, and made mistakes, but they were of the head—his heart was always right. He gave his confidence without reserve, but too easily, for frequently it was misplaced and caused him pain. In the social circle, anywhere, everywhere, he was always the central figure, the royal entertainer by his charms of speech, his depth of thought, his broad and accurate information, or his inexhaustible fund of humor, as the occasion demanded; and this leadership in social discourse was not by assumption but by unanimous consent of those delightfully entertained. He scattered sunshine all along his pathway, and never brought sorrow to a human heart nor needlessly put a shadow on a human brow, though he occupied positions most exacting in duties to be performed. He was deeply pious and intensely religious, and had a faith in the Crucified One that was sublime. He was anchored so firmly to the God he so faithfully served that he could contemplate his passing without a tremor, and in anticipation of his final and crowning victory could say: "Death, where is thy sting? Grave, where is thy victory?" He was a hero of exalted type. Have I magnified his virtues? I have spoken of his inner life, and from the secret chambers of his being, from what was revealed by the mirror of his soul. And yet, he was a man of sorrows. The afflictions, some of them from tragedies of those he loved as dearly as he did his own life, bore heavily on his great spirit, and often he was bowed with grief, but every heartache drove him closer to the throne. From experience he learned every phase of human life except that of depravity. He drank from every fountain, sweet and bitter, but not befouled by sin. As a husband and father love and devotion formed the crown jewel of the family life. He loved his Church beyond measure, especially his Holston Conference, as was manifest at its 1918 session at Johnson City. Although technically he ceased to be a member of the body on his elevation to the episcopacy, yet its love and affection for him manifested by keeping his name on the membership roll, by unanimous vote, touched him deeply. Next to his Church, and the Holston Methodism of that Church, the Holston country and her people were objects of his affection. Neither ever had a more loyal son, nor one more ready to defend, nor one so able. And now that his pen has dropped, and his voice is hushed, and he is numbered with the dead, the history of Holston Methodism—aye, of world-wide Methodism—will be largely unwritten until a full chapter is devoted to the life and work of the loftiest son of Holston Methodism. And more, Holston Methodism will never show a proper appreciation of him who wrought so gloriously and so imperishably until a shaft, suitably inscribed commemorative of his deeds, shall have been erected by her over his sleeping dust in the far-away State of Oklahoma.—E. C. Reeves.

BENJAMIN FLOYD NUCKOLLS.—On April 4, 1919, at Cleveland, Tenn., another honored veteran of the Holston Conference crossed over death's silent river. He was born at Old Town, Va., October 20, 1838. He was married to Miss Mary Fletcher Goodykoontz, of Floyd County, Va., November 6, 1865. To them two sons and two daughters were born. The two little boys died in childhood. The two daughters, Mrs. B. G. Witherow, of Galax, Va., and Mrs. J. E. Johnston, of Cleveland, Tenn., survive him. Knowing the grief of Brother and Sister Nuckolls over the loss of their little boys, a loved sister, Mrs. B. E. Ward, on her deathbed left to their care her infant son, Ballard Ernest Ward. He was loved and reared in their home as their own son and now lives in Pocahontas, Va. Brother Nuckolls was the son of Clark S. and Rosa Bourne Hale Nuckolls and a member of a family of eight daughters and four sons, every one of whom has blessed the world by an honorable and useful life. In the sacred influences of such a home as this the childhood of Brother Nuckolls was spent. He was educated at Jefferson Academy, Ashe County, N. C., and early in life he entered business with his father at Old Town, Va., with bright prospects for a successful career before him. But the hand of the Lord was upon him calling him to the high and holy work of the Christian ministry. "He was not disobedient to the heavenly vision," but while the dark clouds of civil war were spreading over our Southland, and our native State was calling her young manhood to the defense of her constitutional liberties, there was a more imperative call to him to enter the ranks of that host that fights not against flesh and blood. On May 31, 1861, he was licensed to preach by the Quarterly Conference of Grayson Circuit, held at Independence, Va., Rev. J. M. McTeer, presiding elder, and admitted on trial into the Holston Conference at Greeneville, Tenn., in October of the same year. From this Conference he was returned to his home circuit as junior preacher, and here began the active work of an itinerant preacher that continued without intermission for twenty-four years, during which he was pastor of the Grayson, Hillsville, Floyd, and Wytheville Circuits in Virginia and the Athens and Concord and other circuits in Tennessee. During the years 1867, 1868, and 1869 Brother Nuckolls's work was in Upper East Tennessee, and he was frequently locked out and forbidden to preach in his own church. His friends frequently opened the closed churches by climbing into windows, and while the service was being conducted parties stood on guard outside the church, but not an appointment was missed. In 1871 he was sent back to his old home as the pastor of Grayson Circuit, and here, among the companions of his boyhood days, he did the most efficient work of his ministerial life. For four years he traveled this large circuit, which covered about all the territory now embraced in seven pastoral charges, and scores of the strongest men and women of this hill country were brought into the Church under his ministry. At the Conference held at Cleveland, Tenn., in October, 1885, he was given a supernumerary relation and came to his home at Old Town, Va., to spend the declining years of his life, but not to suspend his active work as a Christian minister. In the homes of affliction and places of sorrow as well as at the marriage altar his presence was continually in demand. He was active in revival meetings and efforts to save sinners up to the last days of his life. During the last ten years of his life he collected material and wrote that valuable book, "Pioneer Settlers of Grayson County." Copies of this book are in the library of the Daughters of the American Revolution and in the Congressional Library at Washington and in the State Library at Richmond, Va. Brother Nuckolls recognized the value of Christian education, was always the friend of schools, and before his death he gave his personal library to the school library in Galax. As the shadows of age and infirmities gathered about him his Bible was his constant companion. On the flyleaf he made a record on his eightieth birthday that he had read it through sixty-two times. As death approached he did not "shrink and fear to die," but gave directions for the burial of his body and spoke of the rest of heaven being so much better for him. During his last illness he often asked his nurses and those who came to minister to him if they loved the Lord and if they were Christians. The most tender care and faithful nursing made the journey down to the last river as free from pain as it could possibly be. It was a beautiful April Sunday morning when the train bearing his remains, accompanied by Rev. James A. Burrow, Mr. J. E. Johnson, and other friends, reached the station at Galax, and the great company of relatives and friends and the long procession of Masons that awaited its coming attested the high esteem in which he was held at his old home. The body was taken to the church, where a beautiful service, conducted by Dr. Burrow, assisted by Revs. J. A. Bays, J. W. Byrd, and T. C. Vaughan, was held. We then went to the cemetery on the summit of the hill overlooking the place of his birth and the home of his childhood.

where the members of Old Town lodge, A. F. and A. M., of which Brother Nuckolls had many years been chaplain, with many visiting brethren from other lodges, gathered around the open grave and the beautiful burial service of the order, led by Dr. B. S. Dobyns, was most impressively rendered. The grave was filled and piled high with floral tributes of love that came from many friends in many places. Under the flowers we left the precious body to sleep till Jesus comes.—T. C. Vaughan.

ELBERT W. FISHER was born in Wythe County, Va., February 14, 1885. He was converted at the age of twelve years, at Siloam Springs Church, during services conducted by Rev. S. T. M. McPherson, and was licensed to preach in the Wytheville District on September 8, 1909, under Rev. J. O. Straley as presiding elder. He was admitted into the Holston Conference on trial in October, 1911. He was admitted into full connection in 1915 and ordained elder in 1917. He died at Roderfield, W. Va., December 22, 1918, when beginning work on his fourth charge. He was married to Linda Brown Richardson, of Wythe County, Va., on December 28, 1911, the writer officiating. To this union were born two boys, Harrill, aged five, and Reginald, about three, both of whom are living. His first charge was Coveton Mission, where he served one year. The next fall he was sent to Mora Circuit, where he served two years. From here he was sent to Coalwood, where he served most faithfully for four years. Last fall he was sent to Big Sandy, where he had labored for only a few weeks when the end came. Brother Fisher was a young man of more than the usual piety and devoted to Christ. It was very properly said of him that his chief characteristic was being religious. Certain conditions prompted him to enter his ministry with less preparation than he wanted to have, but he developed into a most faithful, earnest pastor in spite of this. His people loved him and regretted the four-year limit when the time came for him to leave Coalwood. He was splendidly received and kindly welcomed to the charge on which he did his last work. His life was one of more than ordinary promise, and he, with his many friends, looked to the future for many years of service. He held the confidence of his own people and the esteem of others. His faith in God was strong but simple, his character was blameless, and his influence was always wholesome. His last conversation with the writer, just before the last session of the Holston Conference, breathed a child-like trust in God that was beautiful. His conversation, of course, was of his future ministry and of tender concern for the boys and his companion. But there was always evident his earnest desire to be of the largest service to the Church that he loved so dearly. Viewed from a purely human standpoint, Brother Fisher's death was very untimely, for his life was cut off while yet in the strength of his manhood and in the midst of useful labor. But God seeth not as man seeth, and who shall question either the wisdom or the goodness of the Lord's harvest? Who knows but that in the light of that perfect life upon which he has entered he has found opportunity for a service that is useful and joyous and without earthly limitations?—W. M. Bunts.

WILLIAM MARSHALL HINER, son of Bailey and Joanna Hiner, was born March 30, 1842. He was married to Miss Clara T. Woodrum on December 31, 1867. To this union one girl was born, who died at the age of about two years. This first wife lived only a few years after their marriage. Brother Hiner was married a second time on January 25, 1875, to Miss Nannie Cackley. To this union two children were born, one of which died in infancy, and the other, their son Marvin, was a very promising young man, but his death at the age of twenty-four left Brother and Sister Hiner all alone in the latter part of their life. Brother Hiner was converted as a mere boy and early in life felt himself called of God to preach the gospel. He was licensed to exhort on December 23, 1865, at Franklin, W. Va., under the pastorate of Rev. Samuel H. Griffith. The Quarterly Conference of the South Branch Circuit licensed him to preach on September 5, 1866, at Oldfields. At the session of the Baltimore Conference, March 9, 1870, he was ordained to deacon's orders by Bishop Pierce. On March 9, 1879, Bishop Wightman ordained him to elder's orders. The first years of his ministry were spent in the bounds of the Baltimore Conference, during which time he served the following charges: South Branch, 1866-67; Salem Circuit, 1867-68; Roanoke Mission, 1868; Sugar Grove Circuit, 1870-71; from 1871 to 1873 the records kept by the deceased show preaching at numerous points and work done in the capacity of Bible Agent; Summers Circuit, 1873-74; White Sulphur, 1874-75; Morgan Circuit, 1875-76; Sinking Creek Circuit, 1876-77; Green Valley Circuit, 1877-78; Millboro Mission, 1879-80; Edray Mission, 1880-81; Mount Grove Mission, 1881-82; Ronceverte Circuit, 1882-83; Hebron Station, 1883-84. In the year 1885 he transferred to the Western Virginia Conference and served the following charges: Fayetteville, 1885-86; Cedar Grove, 1886-87; Ripley, 1887-89; Buffalo, 1889-90; Meadow Bluff, 1890-92; Sewell, 1892-93; St. Albans, 1893-95; Kavanaugh, 1895-96; Glenville, 1896-98; Jacksonville, 1899-1900; Cleveland, 1900-02; East Bank, 1902-03. At the close of the last-mentioned appointment he moved to Barboursville, where he resided until his death, which occurred on Easter Sunday, April 20, 1919. During this period of superannuation, which is a time of trial to those who love the ministry, Brother Hines never lost his interest in the work of the Church he loved so much. It was his greatest joy to go to the Conferences and keep in touch with the work in general. He was especially interested in the work of the Church at Barboursville and in Morris Harvey College, which is located there. He was always loyal to his pastors and the management of the college. He was at one time acting as Bible teacher in this college; was always an enthusiastic Sunday school worker, but especially did he enjoy the work of the League. It was, perhaps, in this capacity he found his greatest joy and was most effective. Many of the young people of Barboursville and Morris Harvey College will remember the inspiration of the life and leadership of Brother Hiner in the Epworth and Junior Leagues of the local Church. The funeral services were held in the Barboursville M. E. Church, South, with Rev. O. F. Williams, presiding elder of the Huntington District, in charge. Rev. W. L. Reid, of Ashland, Ky., paid tribute to the life of this good man, laying special emphasis on the interest which he always took in the young preachers of the Conference. Rev. W. I. Canter, of Clarksburg, W. Va., a man whose boyhood life was influenced by Brother Hiner, delivered the memorial address, dwelling on the beauty of such a life and the glory of such a death. A number of the preachers of the Conference were present and took part in the services, after which they lovingly bore the remains of this father in Israel to the cemetery, where they were laid to rest to await the general resurrection.—Guy Coffman.

JOHN MARTIN was a Kentuckian by birth and was reared in that good State. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Martin and was born April 19, 1840, in Carter County, Ky. He passed to his eternal reward at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Thomas Dugan, at Huntington, W. Va., on June 25, 1919. His early life was spent in Carter and Boyd Counties. His educational advantages were confined to the public schools of his State. At the age of nineteen he joined the Church under the ministry of Rev. J. T. Johnson. In 1861 he was licensed to preach at Quincy, Lewis County, Ky., B. F. Tague being the presiding elder. During the War between the States he was employed as a teacher in the public schools of his home county and acted as a local preacher. During the war the Church work was interrupted, but on February 26, 1877, Bishop Kavanaugh called the Western Virginia Conference to convene at Greenup, Ky., and Brother Martin was received on trial into the traveling connection of this Conference and remained an honored member of the same until his death. Brother Martin served as pastor and presiding elder for nearly fifty years, and on account of bodily infirmities, due to advanced age, he took a superannuate relation in 1911. Not being content to lay down his beloved work as long as he could possibly carry on, he continued to serve as supply until his health broke completely down and he was forced to quit all work. During his long ministry he served without murmur such charges as were assigned to him. His name became known throughout the Conference as a man who elevated the office of pastor, while his preaching was always of a high order, free from any unsafe or unsound note. No man in the Conference has made greater contribution to his Church and community than he. Although not very successful financially as the world would count success, Brother Martin has had large success in showing others how to invest their money for God and the good of man. People had confidence in him as a man and as a minister, and would listen to him and act upon his suggestion when they would turn a deaf ear to others. On September 17, 1863, Brother Martin was united in marriage to Miss Julia Gilkerson, who preceded him in death some six years ago. To them were born nine children, eight of whom survive, and whose ministries and devotion made his last days comfortable and sweet. The funeral service was held at his home in Huntington and his body was laid to rest beside that of his wife in the beautiful cemetery at Ashland, Ky. His passing was unlike death; it was a triumphant entry of a world-weary soul into the place of its lifelong dreams. It was the reality of a firm faith. He met death not as one meets a fearsome antagonist, but as the conqueror meets his foe, with a glorious smile of confident victory. In the death of Brother Martin our Conference has lost one of its oldest and beloved members, but heaven has gained in the conquest of another spirit, "washed and made white in the blood of the crucified."

Ques. 11. What preachers have died during the past year? J. F. Roberts. 1.

JOHN FLETCHER ROBERTS was born in Kentucky and reared in Missouri. He came to California when a young man, and on May 27, 1884, he was married to Miss Elizabeth Howell, in Ukiah, Cal. To them were born three daughters—Alice, Jessie, and Mary—all of whom, with their mother, survive. On November 10, 1918, Brother Roberts passed from his home in San Jose, Cal., to his home above. He was licensed to preach at Tangent, Oreg., February 7, 1876. He was admitted on trial into the Pacific Conference in the fall of 1879, and traveled the following charges: Anderson Valley, Chico Circuit,

Arbuckle, Gridley, Ion Mission, Anderson Valley, Potter Valley, Mariposa, Cloverdale, Corning, Orland, Galt, Snelling, Sonora, Sanger, Academy, Los Banos, Orland. After that he was placed on the supernuante list, and continued in that relation till his death. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Kavanaugh at Petaluma, Cal., October 2, 1881, and elder by Bishop Hargrove at Colusa on October 14, 1883. Modest, unassuming, earnest, sincere, and devout, he was loved by all. The Christian virtues of his character made him a friend to be trusted and a companion whose fellowship was a joy. There was never a trace of taint or stain on his name in all the years of his ministry among us. A thoughtful, instructive preacher in the pulpit, he preached still more eloquently by his example. He was a careful and devout student of God's word, and drew from that unfailing source strength for life's needs. Christ was a real presence to him, not a belief simply. Life with him was life "hid with Christ in God." It was an inspiration to listen to him talk of his fellowship with the Master. There came to him visions of marvelous beauty as he contemplated redemption's full meaning; and as he came nearer the end these grew more frequent. He had great breadth of vision and deep insight into the things of God. Listening to him, one felt that he was standing on the threshold of heaven. The "gentleness of God" made this servant great in a true sense. There was reproduced in his character something of that divine gentleness that is so manifest in Christ. Those closest to him appreciated him most. As a pastor he was respected, honored, and loved. It could not have been otherwise; for all who knew him saw the sincerity of his faith and the consistency of his walk. With loyal devotion he served the Church in every place where he was appointed. He has left to this Conference a legacy of greater value than if he had left vast sums of perishable wealth; for he has left us a record of fidelity which we may well emulate. The day before the armistice was signed that ended the great war, this soldier of the cross won his last battle and received his final discharge from the conflicts of earth. It was an honorable discharge, and at the same time a transfer to a nobler sphere of action. We shall expect to find him in that realm where both angels and men are moving on to larger things in the kingdom of God.—J. N. Kenney.

JOSEPH BIRCHFIELD DODSON was born at Poplar Bluff, Mo., November 11, 1856. His parents were Rev. N. C. and Julia Ann Dodson. His father was a prominent minister in that part of the State, and to his influence and his mother's tender love and teaching Brother Dodson attributed much of his success. He was one of ten children, but only three brothers are now living: Revs. K. W. Dodson, of Minden, La., F. E. Dodson, of Cabot, Ark., and L. H. Dodson, of Duvall's Bluff, Ark. There were three older half-brothers, one of whom was a preacher. In early manhood Brother Dodson married Miss Nancy Jane Baker. One son and four daughters of this marriage survive him. They are J. L. Dodson and Mrs. James Lease, of Rush Springs, Okla., Mrs. Mattie Golden and Mrs. Ruel Newkirk, of Duvall's Bluff, Ark., and Mrs. John Bishop, of Clarendon, Ark. Brother Dodson was converted at the age of eighteen, licensed to preach at nineteen, ordained deacon by Bishop John C. Granbery on December 16, 1883, and worked as a teacher and local preacher until after the death of his wife. At the age of thirty-six he joined the St. Louis Conference and was ordained elder by Bishop Charles Galloway on October 2, 1892, at Kirkwood, Mo. In 1891 he was married to Miss Olivia Vineyard, of Belgrade, Mo. To this marriage were born two sons, C. F. Dodson, of Thurber, Tex., and O. L. Dodson, of Sweetwater, Tex. This marriage was of short duration, the wife dying suddenly while he was away filling an appointment. On May 21, 1898, Brother Dodson was married to Miss Amy Lee Vineyard, of Belgrade, Mo., who walked close by his side for twenty-one years. To this marriage there were no children, but she accepted the responsibility of mother to the two baby boys who were already so near and dear to her. After traveling in the St. Louis Conference for twelve years Brother Dodson transferred to the North Texas Conference, and was stationed at Sherman. After two years in that Conference he transferred to the Northwest Texas Conference, where he served Hale Center, Snyder, and Sweetwater. He was then sent to Groesbeck the year the Conference was divided, and that left him in the Central Texas Conference, where he remained until his death, which occurred at a sanitarium in Dallas on July 22, 1919. In the long months of his illness his sweetness of disposition and character was shown in the patience, bravery, and cheerfulness with which he bore so much suffering. During the last day of his life his interest and anxiety were for his family. In talking to his devoted wife, he said: "I hope the people will be good to you." He then requested that his body should be carried back to Thurber, saying that a little slab in the cemetery there might remind the people of the work he had tried to do. When told in January that an operation was necessary, he requested that it might be postponed until his son, Clifton, who was in France, could return. A few weeks after Clifton returned, he accompanied his father and mother to Dallas, and was present when his father passed away. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. S. J. Vaughan, his presiding elder, assisted by Rev. S. P. Gilmore. The funeral was largely attended, showing the high esteem in which he was held by the citizens of Thurber. After the services at the church, the Masonic Lodge, of which Brother Dodson was an honored member, took charge of the remains and his body was laid to rest according to the rites of that ancient and honorable order. Brother Dodson was an able preacher, a successful pastor, a faithful friend, a kind father, and a devoted husband.—E. P. Williams.

G. W. HARRIS died at his home near Bangs, Tex., on February 16, 1919. On the 18th his body was laid to rest in Bangs Cemetery, after services held in the Bangs Methodist Church, conducted by Revs. S. G. Thompson, W. B. Vaughn, and Warner Moore, each of whom paid a sincere tribute to the memory of the deceased. Brother Harris was born in Lumpkin County, Ga., in 1852, the son of Rev. George and Margaret Tyler Harris, but moved to Texas while still a boy. He was converted under the ministry of W. T. Melugin in 1871, and immediately joined the M. E. Church, South. In 1882 Brother Harris was licensed to preach under Thomas Stanford, presiding elder, and remained in the local ranks for several years. In 1889 Brother Harris supplied Clifton Mission, at the next session of Conference was admitted to the Northwest Texas Conference on trial, and at the same session ordained deacon; also he was returned to Clifton. The other works served by our brother were, in order, as follows: Dripping Mission, 1891; Valley Mills, 1892-94; Rodgers Circuit, 1894-98; Moffat Circuit, 1899; Bertram Circuit, 1899-1903. While serving this charge, it was placed in the West Texas Conference and appointed to Childress Circuit. In 1904 he was sent to Bangs, remaining there four years. In 1908 he was sent to Indian Creek, and from there, in 1910, was superannuated. After superannuation, Brother Harris and his wife purchased a home near Bangs, where he resided until his death. In 1872 Brother Harris was married to Miss Maggie Ulmer, who bore him eight children, four of whom survive their parents: Herman Harris, of Bangs; Mrs. Rose Griffin, of Houston; Mrs. Mamie Newberry, of Childress, and Mrs. Opal Winborne, of Childress; while one son, George, lived to maturity and is survived by a son, Jesse Harris, of Rodgers. In 1902 Sister Maggie Harris fell asleep in Jesus, a faithful wife, loving mother, and true Christian. On December 11, 1904, Brother Harris was married to Miss Mary Clements, who, with two children, Georgia and Edwin, survives him. Brother Harris needs no greater eulogy than the simple recital of the results of his labors for the Master and the Church of his love. Between 1,600 and 1,700 conversions sealed his ministry, over 1,400 people were received by him into the Methodist Church, and as an additional crown fifteen young men heard and heeded the call to the ministry under his leadership, while in material things six churches and one parsonage were built, together with the overhauling of four churches, the fruit of his labor.—Warner Moore.

SAMUEL C. BAIRD, son of C. J. L. and Matilda Baird, was born February 12, 1861, in Wilson County, Tenn. When a small boy he came to Texas with his father and settled near Waco. In 1878 he was soundly converted and joined the M. E. Church, South, at Stanford's Chapel, under the ministry of Rev. W. T. Melugin. He returned to his native State, and was admitted on trial into the Tennessee Conference at Fayetteville, Tenn., on October 17, 1888, Bishop John C. Keener presiding. For sixteen years he was a faithful and efficient pastor in this Conference. When this Conference was divided, he fell into the Central Texas Conference. Here he labored faithfully until released by death. He was married to Miss Mattie Stowe, of Lebanon, Tenn., October 16, 1884. Two children were born to them: Claudine, now Mrs. Albert McElroy, of Mart, Tex., and Frazier F., of Winthrop, Ark. His faithful wife lives to mourn her irreparable loss. He belonged to a prominent Methodist family in Middle Tennessee, all of whom have passed away, except a brother, J. V. Baird, of Waco, and a sister, Mrs. Sallie Tracy, of Lagoona, Tex. It was the pleasure of the writer to know Brother Baird intimately through most of his ministerial life. A cleaner man I never knew. He went uncomplainingly to the work assigned him and labored faithfully. He never received what may be called a living salary, yet he managed to live free of debt, educate his children, and lay by something against the day of his superannuation. His health had been impaired for several years. He debated often with himself as to whether he should retire and seek a restoration of health or labor on, and "cease at once to work and live." He loved the work of a Methodist preacher, and did not know how to quit. He had a very moderate estimate of the value of his service to the Church. In 1916 he wrote: "There is nothing in my life worthy of especial mention. Two new churches and two new parsonages, divers repairs, and debt-paying have made up the round of my life. Under my ministry there have been about 900 conversions and nearly as many received into the Church." At the last session of his Conference he was appointed to Bethel charge, in the Waxahachie District. This was perhaps the most desirable appointment he ever received. Immediately he adjusted himself to the tasks before him, but in two short months his health broke down and it became necessary for him to submit himself to a dangerous surgical operation. He was taken to the Baptist Sanitarium at Dallas, where, on March 4, 1919, his noble spirit went home to God who gave it.—W. H. Doss.

ELISHA WESLEY HANCOCK was born in Tallapoosa County, Ala., November 5, 1894. He was the only and much-loved son of Brother and Sister S. J. Hancock, of Gorman, Tex. Having been reared by these Christian parents, it was but to be expected that in early life his heart should be given over to Jesus. When about eight years of age he was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. When nineteen years of age he felt the call to the holy ministry, and consecrated his life to it. He was licensed to preach by Rev. E. P. Williams, presiding elder. He was admitted on trial into the Central Texas Conference at Mineral Wells on November 21, 1918. Prior to this he had supplied Staff charge one and a half years with great acceptability and success. At the Conference at Mineral Wells he was sent by Bishop Ainsworth to Caddo charge. On his way home he was happy, talked with great enthusiasm of the difficult work that lay before him, and planned with his presiding elder to give his very best for the year. Before reaching his work he fell a victim of influenza. He died at the home of his devoted father and mother, at Gorman, December 9, 1918. For one so young, he was a thoughtful gospel preacher and a fine pastor. I think I have not known a young man more loved than was Brother Hancock by the people he served. He gave promise of great usefulness to the Church. Besides his father and mother, he leaves three sisters—Mrs. Lillie J. Stephens, Jennie, and Era. He was laid to rest in the Gorman Cemetery by Rev. R. B. Hooper, pastor.—S. J. Vaughan.

HERBERT YANCY BAGBY was born in DeCATUR County, Tenn., August 2, 1883; died in Ripley, Tenn., January 7, 1919. He was a descendant of one of the pioneer families of the State, his paternal grandfather and grandmother having come from North Carolina at an early date. His parents were James L. and Martha (Rushings) Bagby, and he was the youngest of ten children with which God blessed this union. One of his brothers, Rev. James T. Bagby, is a valued member of the Memphis Conference. When Herbert was but a lad his father moved to a farm in Henderson County, Tenn., where the boys worked upon the farm and attended the country schools. He afterwards attended Scott's Hill Normal Institute, where he finished the twelfth grade. While he was not an educated man in the sense of having a college education, yet he was a close student, having read history extensively; he also went into and understood the technicalities of grammar, and became a philosopher of some ability because of his careful study. He was happily married to Miss Emma Lee Blackmon on March 27, 1904. To this union three children were born: One son, James L., and two daughters, Thelma and Mary Witt. Early in life he felt the call to preach. Like many others, he fought it for a while, but finally yielded, and was licensed to preach by the Lexington District Conference on July 12, 1912, and was received on trial into the Conference that met at Brownsville in November, 1912. He was ordained deacon at Trenton on November 21, 1915, by Bishop Murrah. He was ordained elder on November 24, 1918, at Jackson, Tenn., by Bishop James Atkins. He served the following charges: Crainsville Circuit, 1913; Saltillo and Oakland, 1914; Tiptonville Circuit, 1915-17; Ripley Circuit, 1918, and had been returned for the second year and begun the year's work very happily and successfully. Brother Bagby was an honest, earnest, intelligent man and was always ambitious to do his full share of the work as a member of the Memphis Conference. He took a deep interest in the spiritual growth of the charges to which he was assigned from time to time and in the advancement of all interests that combine to make our people and Church great and prosperous, and his desire was plainly manifest to do everything in his power as a minister to secure the greatest possible good to every member of his charge. For the work of the Methodist itinerancy he was well qualified by natural disposition and training. He was a tireless worker, positive in his convictions, and had a great contempt for any kind of sham and insincerity. Being dignified in bearing, gentle in his manners, and courteous to all, he invited the confidence and friendship of his brethren in the ministry.

He was candid and bold in his opinions, and was in sympathetic touch with the detailed work of the Church. His genial humor, agreeable wit, and sympathetic nature fitted him for association with men in all walks and stations of life. He lived a noble life. As far as opportunity afforded, he did all that a faithful pastor could, and left as a heritage to his children and as a cherished memory to his wife a spotless reputation and an honored name. He desired to be "planted where he fell," so it was befitting that his remains should rest in the cemetery at Ripley. On Friday, January 3, he contracted pneumonia and on Tuesday morning his spirit took its flight. The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon in the parsonage, conducted by W. C. Waters, presiding elder, assisted by J. W. Joyner, Syl Fisher, S. B. Morrison, and R. A. Clark. Just a little while before he fell asleep he called for his wife and said that he must go home. On being told that he was already at home, he said: "O no, this is not home; my home is a much brighter place than this." And so he entered into the home of eternal sunshine prepared for God's faithful souls.—Robert A. Clark.

GEORGE KIRKBY BROOKS, second child of John and Susan Brooks, was born at White Pitts, Swaby Parish, Lincolnshire, England, July 29, 1837; passed to his heavenly home on January 10, 1919, from his abode in Paris, Tenn. There were four brothers (William, John, Richard, and Thomas) and five sisters (Sarah, Bettie, Susan, Rachel, and Nellie). He was educated in English public schools and in Marshall Male Academy, in Mississippi, U. S. A. His people were devout Methodists. His father, so said the son, "was gifted in prayer above any he had knowledge of; he had heard him pray in his own room until the whole place was moved." Now his grandson says: "If my father is to be measured by one single excellency, his greatest gift or talent was that of prayer." No finer index to character can be found. His first marriage was to Miss Lizzie H. Brooks, daughter of Gen. J. J. Brooks, of Jackson, Tenn., Bishop Paine officiating, on November 13, 1866. The children born of this union were Chester, Eugene, Cleanth, Lucretia, John J., and George K., the first and last having preceded the father to the home above. Mrs. Brooks died at Fulton, Ky., in 1894. Brother Brooks was converted in early youth at a six-o'clock prayer service, and joined the Church the same day. He was licensed to preach in 1853. In 1854, with Rev. Amos Kendall, he came to America via New York, and came directly to Memphis—thence, after a short time, to Hernando, Miss., where he was naturalized, becoming an American citizen. He was recommended by the Quarterly Conference of Hernando, Miss., for admission into the Conference, and was admitted in 1855. He was received into full connection and ordained deacon by Bishop Paine at Holly Springs, Miss., in 1857. He was ordained elder by Bishop Paine in 1862, at Covington, Tenn. In 1860, while pastor at the First Church, Jackson, Tenn., there were 150 conversions. In many places his ministry was wonderfully blessed. About that time he helped to secure a hospital for soldiers. Joining the Confederacy, he went to Aberdeen, Miss., where he was stricken with typhoid fever. In this sickness he was greatly strengthened by Bishop Paine's prayers and visits. He returned to Memphis and operated from there to Corinth, Miss. Thrice he located at his own request. One year was taken to visit England and recuperate, and again to fulfill a trust imposed by General Brooks. This was conscientiously done. On each return, he received an appointment that ranked lower than he left. His appointments ranged through Mississippi, West Tennessee, and West Kentucky, as follows: 1855, junior preacher on Chulahoma Circuit; Marshall Circuit, Iuka Station, Union Station (Memphis), Greenwood and Collins Chapel (Memphis), First Church (Jackson, Tenn.), Holly Springs, Brownsville, Prospect, Mayfield, Big Spring, Denmark Circuit, Lexington, Jackson Circuit, City Mission (Jackson), East Jackson, West Jackson, Humboldt, Paris, Ripley, Durhamville, Mount Zion, Bethuel, Hays Avenue, Clinton Station, Fulton Circuit, and Sharon Circuit. He was superannuated on November 20, 1899, at Brownsville, Tenn. His power of making friends, and that among the lowly, was a genuine gift. In a very inconspicuous place, one remarked recently that when she was an orphan girl and he a young preacher he spoke words of such cheer and confidence to her that they had been like a banner of victory through all the long years. All along his career you can hear of similar expressions. He was a diligent student of God's word and possessed in a degree beyond the average the power to express his views. He was a dear lover of flowers, and to him they were a constant wonder and delight. His second marriage, in February, 1896, to Miss Peytona H. Hamilton, of Clinton, La., was most fitting. For twenty-three years he was ever near, and ministered to him as tenderly as a child. She never wearied in watching and working with and for him. She remains with this assurance: she did what she could, and, together with his three sons and one daughter, looks to the future with a glorious hope. He was singularly free from any effort to advance at the disadvantage of another. Although he served in many places that called for great suffering, his preacher son says: "I was ready to go away to college before I ever heard of any trials, policies, or politics of the Conference discussed by him." His devotion to his family was beautiful. It is shown in various ways. I note this: after Bishop Hendrix had drawn a beautiful picture of a friend, he arose and with great tenderness said: "I have a friend. He is at once my son and my friend, and a fellow-servant in the ministry." He loved God, his home, his Church, and his country. In the darkest hour of this great war, he had no doubt as to the final result. A brief service in the home, the funeral was preached from the First Church, Jackson, Tenn., and his body was laid away at Hollywood.—H. B. Johnston.

PETER HUNT FIELDS, son of Ambrose P. and Catherine Whitesell Fields, was born at Fulton, Ky., June 14, 1860. He had the fourth place in a family of seven brothers and five sisters, and learned the great lesson of service and sacrifice that a large family only can teach. He came from one of the best families Fulton County ever had. There was good blood on both sides of his ancestral house. His home was a religious home, giving careful diligence to the upbringing of the children, hence his early conversion and entering the ministry in his teens may be attributed to this fact. He was converted under the ministry of Brother J. T. C. Collins, of sainted memory, long since gone to his reward. He was admitted on trial into the Memphis Conference on November 18, 1882, at Dyersburg, Tenn., and in full connection on December 5, 1884; ordained deacon on December 7, 1884, by Bishop J. C. Keener at Memphis, Tenn., and elder on December 12, 1886, at Jackson, Tenn., by Bishop W. W. Duncan. He took the supernumerary relation on November 20, 1911, at Memphis, Tenn. In diction, in thought, and in delivery Brother Fields ranked among the first of our preachers. He had a splendid physique and commanded attention whenever and wherever he arose to speak. His manner was gracious in the pulpit, comforting in the home, and pleasant in the social circle. He was twice married. His first marriage took place in November, 1882, to Miss Allie Hunsacker, and to this union two children were born: Misses Lolla and Mary Fields, the latter now being Mrs. H. T. Collier. On December 25, 1900, he was married the second time, to Miss Josephine Lockore. Willard and Elizabeth Fields are the children of this union. After a lingering sickness of several months, with a disease which seems to baffle the best medical skill, he crossed over to the other side from his home near Paducah, Ky., on February 11, 1919, and was carried to Fulton, Ky., the home of his youth, and laid to rest.—R. M. Walker.

THOMAS E. FOUST was born May 18, 1867, in Henry County, Tenn.; died December 31, 1918, in Selmer, McNairy County, Tenn. At the Annual Conference held in Murray, Ky., in 1917, he was sent to Whiteville Circuit, where he preached about one month, when his health failed. His brethren then preached for him until May, 1918, when he surrendered his charge to Rev. H. B. Terry, who served as pastor until the Annual Conference, which met in Jackson, Tenn. Brother Foust remained in the parsonage at Whiteville till early in November, when he moved with his wife and six children to the home of Mrs. William Lockman, his wife's mother, at Selmer, Tenn. Brother Foust professed faith in Jesus Christ when he was about thirteen years old and joined the M. E. Church, South, at Shiloh Church, Manleyville Circuit, Paris District. He was licensed to preach by the Paris District Conference in 1902, and recommended to the Annual Conference for admission. He was admitted on trial at the Annual Conference which convened at Paris, Tenn., in 1902. He was ordained a deacon by Bishop Duncan in 1905, at Mayfield, Ky., and elder by Bishop Hendrix in 1907, at Greenfield, Tenn. He served the following charges: Crainsville Circuit, Prospect Circuit, Saltillo Circuit, Decaturville Circuit, Milburn Circuit, Woodville Circuit, Denmark Circuit, Bethany Circuit, and Whiteville Circuit. On June 21, 1903, he was married to Miss Jessie Lockman, of McNairy County, Rev. J. W. Wallace officiating.

His devoted wife and six children now mourn their great loss. Brother Foust was a devout Christian—fearing God with all his heart and praying to God always. He was pure in heart, clean in life, prudent in speech, letting his light shine every day. He was a loving husband and a good father, commanding the respect and obedience of his children. He endured as a good soldier of Jesus Christ, being a model itinerant preacher. His was a conquering faith, because he was able to remove all obstacles out of the path of life, and overcome evil for good. He walked constantly in the light of Christ, and finally came off more than conqueror over the last enemy. Truly he could say: "Thanks be unto God, who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ." It was an inspiration to any one, especially to those of little faith, to be in his presence and hear him talk. While the outward man was fading away day by day, the inward man was being renewed by the power of the indwelling spirit. On January 1, 1919, appropriate funeral services were conducted in the home of Mrs. Lockman by the pastor, assisted by Rev. B. J. Russell, presiding elder. Three other ministers, T. F. Maxedon, J. B. Maxedon, and J. W. Wallace, were present and took part in the services. His body was laid to rest in Oak Hill Cemetery, at Selmer, Tenn.—B. J. Russell.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN PEOPLES was born in Henry County, Tenn., March 6, 1838; died at his residence in Brownsville, Tenn., October 7, 1919. He was the son of Benjamin Peoples, a local Methodist preacher and practicing physician. His mother was a sister of the late Rev. John Randle, a woman of unusual intelligence and saintly character. Five of her sons became ministers of the gospel. Brother Peoples was converted at the age of fourteen years. He had a fair education. He passed through the common schools, and finished his education at Andrew College under the presidency of Dr. Guilford Jones. He was licensed to preach by the Quarterly Conference of Trenton Circuit in 1858, Rev. Nathan Sullivan, presiding elder, and Rev. R. H. Burns, preacher in charge. In November of that year he was admitted on trial into the Memphis Conference at Aberdeen, Miss., and appointed junior preacher on the Somerville Circuit with Rev. B. Malin in charge. In November, 1860, he was appointed junior preacher on the Dyersburg Circuit with Rev. N. P. Ramsey. It was customary in those days to appoint all young preachers as juniors for ministerial training. In 1861 the Civil War began and our brother was among the first to enlist in the Southern Army. He enlisted as a private in a company organized at Newbern, Tenn., which was incorporated in the Twelfth Tennessee Infantry. In course of time, however, he was transferred to the Fifth Tennessee Infantry, commanded by Col. Buck Davis, of Paris, Tenn., and was soon promoted to be captain of a company, in which capacity he served until the close of the war. He was in many great battles—Belmont, Shiloh, Perryville, Murfreesboro, Franklin, Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, and on until the army was surrendered in April, 1865, at Greensboro, N. C. In all these he escaped uninjured except a slight wound in the arm. A more faithful, courageous soldier was not in the army. Amid all the demoralization of army life he maintained his purity and integrity as a minister of the gospel. At the Conference in Aberdeen in November, 1860, he was ordained deacon by Bishop Pierce and admitted into full connection. After the close of the war he resumed his ministerial labors and at the Conference at Covington, Tenn., in 1865 he was ordained elder by Bishop Paine and was at that time appointed to Somerville Station. During this year his health failed, and he was for a year or two on the supernumerary list. Whether caused by exposure during the war or not, he was attacked by a virulent bronchitis which became more or less chronic, and proved to be a great hindrance to his ministry during his entire life. He soon resumed his work in the regular ministry, but lacked that invaluable asset of a preacher, voice. By great care and caution he managed to preach through forty years. On account of this bronchial trouble his voice was thin, often weak, and greatly impaired his efforts at preaching—still he was an acceptable and useful preacher. His devotion was such that the people gladly heard him and esteemed him as an example of ministerial rectitude worthy to be followed. Most of his labors were on circuits. He seemed to prefer to labor among the rural people, and to this he was well fitted—both in the character of his preaching and his social qualities. Our people were greatly impoverished by the Civil War. It was by the most rigid economy and much self-denial that the preachers carried on the work of the Church. There were no parsonages then, and the compensation of the ministers was small. Our brother bore his part in this period of reconstruction without murmur or complaint. In 1867 he was married to Miss Elizabeth Wilkins, of Henry County, Tenn., who still survives him and who proved to be a helpmeet indeed. With great cheerfulness she shared in all the sacrifices of this itinerant life. They reared a most delightful family, all of whom are now in their years of maturity and in the ways of righteousness, and one of whom is a member of the Conference. In 1902 he voluntarily asked to be given the superannuate relation. During the seventeen years of retirement he preached occasionally, and rendered such service as he could. In the community where he lived his life was a benediction. He passed away as if going to sleep, full of joy in hope of eternal life.—R. H. Mahon.

WILLIAM ALBERT RUSSELL was born near Dyer, Gibson County, Tenn., July 21, 1864, his parents being Stephen Harris and Dorothy Russell. He was reared in a genuinely Christian home, and at the age of eighteen years professed faith in Christ and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. He entered the ministry in 1885, and gave to the Church, in zealous and unselfish service of the highest type, the remaining years of his life. He took advantage of the best educational opportunities that were offered him, and, having a passion for knowledge and an indomitable will to acquire it, became a most proficient preacher. His appointments were: Campbell Street (Jackson), Lexington and Saltillo, Lexington Station, Campbell Street (Jackson), Bells, Spring Creek Circuit, Bolivar Station, Middle Avenue (Jackson), Third Street (Paducah), First Church (Shawnee, Okla.), Millington Circuit, Brownsville Circuit, Somerville Station, Murray, Tiptonville, Epworth (Memphis), Trinity (Memphis), Hays Avenue (Jackson), and Fulton Station. From the Fulton parsonage on January 13, 1919, his spirit winged its way to God who gave it. On October 25, 1893, he was married to Miss Mary Graper, of Lexington, Tenn., who survives him together with their children, Graper (then in France), Mary Bernice, Will Albert, Dorothy, and Beth. Brother Russell was never a robust man. I doubt if he had known a well day in five years. And yet, if by nature he was endowed with a frail body, he had a strong mind and a heart of great tenderness. He had for many years been the Secretary of the Board of Missions of the Conference, and so thoroughly was he conversant of the workings of Conference and General Boards, and so great was the need of our mission work upon his heart, that for several quadrenniums the Conference mission work was largely in his hands. After the funeral services had been conducted in the First Methodist Church at Fulton, Ky., the body was carried to Lexington, Tenn., for interment. The services at Fulton were in charge of Revs. W. W. Armstrong (his presiding elder), W. C. Sellars, R. W. Hood, Dr. A. B. Jones (many years President of the Board of Missions), T. C. McKelvy, and the writer. —John T. Myers.

THOMAS FRANKLIN SAUNDERS was born August 1, 1846, in McNairy County, Tenn.; died May 13, 1919, at Jackson, Tenn. His father, William C. Saunders, a stanch member of the Missionary Baptist Church, was a leading citizen of his county. His mother, whose maiden name was Martha Hepzibah Moore, was a pious and intelligent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and took special care in training her sons and daughters for usefulness and happiness in the Church of God. In his boyhood Brother Saunders attended the literary schools of his community, and afterwards went to Grove Academy, Corinth, Miss., in charge of Prof. B. H. Malone, a popular and successful educator. In this school he achieved success as a public speaker and won the medal for oratory. Later in life he was for three years Superintendent of Public Instruction in McNairy County. During his term of office as superintendent the schools of the county were well organized and brought to a higher degree of efficiency and prosperity. After a hard struggle he accepted Christ as his personal Saviour in November, 1867, and united with the M. E. Church, South, at Pleasant Hill, on the Purdy Circuit, in the spring of 1868. At the third Quarterly Conference of his circuit, in September, 1868, he was licensed to preach the gospel. He was admitted on trial into the Memphis Conference on November 22, 1870, at Brownsville, Tenn. He was received into full connection on November 23, 1872, during the session of his Conference at Somerville, Tenn., and ordained deacon at the same Conference by Bishop Wightman, two days later. He was elected elder as a traveling preacher during the Conference at Jackson, Tenn., and ordained by Bishop Paine on December 8, 1878.

His active service in the Conference ranks as follows: First year, 1870-71, junior preacher on the Jackson Circuit (during this year, the health of the pastor of Humboldt and Milan Station having failed, Brother Saunders was appointed to this charge and filled out the year); Adamsville Circuit, three years; supernumerary, three years; Newbern Station, four years; President of Lane College, in Jackson, fifteen years; Middle Avenue (now called Trinity), Jackson, four years; Bemis Station, one year; Big Sandy Circuit, two years and six months; Martin Circuit, one year and six months; Ralston Circuit, three years; Dresden Circuit, three months; South Fulton Circuit, one year and nine months; Beech Bluff Circuit, one year. At the last session of our Conference Brother Saunders asked for the superannuate relation. He wished to travel two more years and fill out fifty years of service, but an all-wise Providence had decided otherwise. After Conference he gradually went down till he came to the end of his journey. In January he wrote in a sad tone, saying that he had no sermons to prepare, no appointments to fill, and no special work to excite his energies; hence there was a collapse of his nervous system which hastened his death. He was tried and true in all the relations of the itinerant ministry. During his active ministerial career, while he served some good stations, he was also sent to some of our hardest circuits. But he always went, and with heroic spirit and unswerving fidelity met his obligations. He was a good pastor, looking after the backslidden and disorderly, with gentleness and kindness ministering to the sick and afflicted and comforting the dying. He was also a good preacher, judged by all true standards of preaching. He studied his Bible closely. He took real pleasure in studying critical passages, going down into these rich mines of divine truth and bringing out beautiful pearls that shone with a radiant luster. He had a well-selected library of our best theological works, and he made himself acquainted with them. In his more active life a great many were converted and brought into the Church under his ministry. Trinity Church, at Jackson, Tenn. (formerly known as Middle Avenue), was first organized as a little mission church in the southeastern part of the city through his untiring labors, and it is now one of the strong Churches of the city. Dr. Saunders was not only a close Bible student, but was well versed in ancient and modern history. In his library were found books on science, psychology, biology, and general literature. Hence he was well prepared for the work of teaching. For fifteen years he was President of Lane Institute, Jackson. With that self-sacrificing spirit that characterized his whole life, when he was asked to take charge of this school he did so as a matter of Christian duty, feeling that the Lord was leading him into this field of real service. And he so shaped the policy and molded the character of the school that it is now one of the leading institutions of the Colored Methodist Church. He was a brave and valiant soldier in the Civil War, serving under Gen. Bedford Forrest, who was the most successful cavalry fighter in the Confederate army. On one occasion, while at home on furlough, he was attacked by a Federal soldier, who, after a three hours' battle, was defeated and driven away by Brother Saunders. He was in spirit as gentle as a woman and in courage as brave as Richard the Lion-Hearted. In all his dealings with his fellow man he was as just as Aristides and in his philanthropy loving like John the Apostle. In 1872 he was married to Miss Elizabeth Gilchrist, of his native county, who walked hand in hand with him for more than forty-six years. He is survived by his wife, three daughters (Misses Bertha and Pearl, of the Conservatory of Music and Art of Nashville; Miss Mary Evans, of McFerrin College, Martin, Tenn.), and one son (Dr. Gilchrist Saunders, of Jackson). His funeral service was held in his home, at Jackson, presided over by Rev. W. D. Jenkins. Revs. S. B. Love, W. A. Freeman, A. B. Jones, and J. W. Waters made fitting remarks concerning his life and character, and Rev. A. C. Bell read his favorite poem, "Crossing the Bar." The Methodist ministers of Jackson served as active pallbearers, his Confederate comrades in arms as honorary pallbearers. He has gone from us for a while. He is not dead, but liveth.—S. B. Love.

ROBERT VENABLE TAYLOR died at his home, near Taylor's Chapel, Fayette County, Tenn., February 19, 1919, in the ninety-seventh year of his age. The infirmities of age had been upon him for years, and his natural strength gradually abated until in extreme debility he simply fell asleep in death. His going away was without pain or suffering of any kind, and his hope exultant. Having lived a long life of great sanctity and devotion to God, he had only to gather up his feet and fall asleep. Brother Taylor was the son of Edmund and Elizabeth Taylor, and was born in Mecklenburg County, Va., on September 14, 1822. When he was ten years of age his parents moved to West Tennessee and settled in Fayette County, pioneers in that region. The family connection was large, some of them living in Haywood County, and have been noted all along as people of the finest type, and devoted Methodists. Brother Taylor was converted at a camp meeting near Brownsville, Tenn., when fourteen years of age. It is needless to say that he at once joined the Methodist Church. His training would have allowed nothing else. Having passed through the common schools, he entered La Grange College, in Alabama, under the presidency of Rev. Robert Paine, D.D., who was afterwards one of the bishops of the M. E. Church, South, and was graduated there in 1845. He was licensed to preach by the Quarterly Conference of Wesley Circuit at Belmont in 1845, Rev. Moses Brock being presiding elder. He was admitted on trial into the Memphis Conference at Grenada, Miss., in November, 1845. He was ordained deacon in 1847 by Bishop Soule at Jackson, Tenn., and elder in 1849 by Bishop Capers at Holly Springs, Miss. His first appointment was Salem Circuit, in North Mississippi. He was subsequently stationed at Oxford, Miss. All his other ministerial labors were in Tennessee. He was stationed at Paris, Trenton, Somerville, and Bolivar. He labored abundantly on circuits. There were no parsonages in the days of his active ministry, and preachers were given a scant support. Being a man of considerable estate, he never moved his family, but traveled such circuits as were somewhat contiguous to his home, such as Whiteville, Somerville, Dancyville, Belmont, and others, alternating from one to another, and gladly used his own private means to enable him to serve the Church. In all these charges and relations he was most acceptable. Such was his integrity and the purity of his life that he was esteemed, honored, and beloved by all. He was for years a sort of patriarch, not only among the large circle of relations who delighted in his kinship, but among the neighbors, and even the colored people held him in lasting affection. In 1853 he was married to Miss Sarah Chunn, of Hardeman County, and a most worthy companion she proved to be. The fruit of the marriage was a large and happy family, most of whom survive to revere his memory. She preceded him a few years to the other life. Brother Taylor was of a lethargic temperament. While he took life in many respects seriously, he never fretted nor worried, but maintained his composure under the most trying conditions. To this perhaps must be attributed that long life that stretched almost to a century. He loved God, and loved the Church and all its institutions and ordinances. He considered his obligations to the Church as paramount to all others. If his days were many, his labors were also many, and his reward great.—R. H. Mahon.

ALSTON MADDEN WEST, son of Dr. Alston Madden and Mrs. Eva Walton Clapp West, was born in Holly Springs, Miss., in 1881; died July 3, 1919, of tuberculosis, after a lingering illness and a heroic fight. He was one of three children, a sister and a brother surviving, and was blessed with the influence of a devout Christian mother, who was a faithful member of the Second Presbyterian Church of Memphis. He was convicted and soundly converted after days and nights of struggling for victory over self and sin, in his room, alone with God, in 1906, and soon thereafter united with the Mississippi Avenue Methodist Church of Memphis, the writer being pastor, and it was not long until he felt called of God to give his life in holy consecration to the ministry, and to this call he yielded himself without the least hesitancy or reservation. He was first licensed to exhort by the Quarterly Conference of Mississippi Avenue Church, serving in this capacity one year. He was an active member of the Sunday school and of the Epworth League, always ready and anxious to serve in any capacity to which he was called. He was licensed to preach by the Memphis District Conference at Collierville, Tenn., in the summer of 1908, Rev. W. G. Hefley, presiding elder, and in November of the same year was admitted on trial into the Memphis Conference at Covington, Tenn., Bishop Hoss presiding. He was admitted into full connection and ordained deacon at Brownsville, Tenn., Bishop Kilgo presiding, and served with great acceptability the following charges: 1909, Whiteville Circuit; 1910, Lake County Mission; 1911, Randolph Circuit; 1912-13, Third Street, Paducah; 1914, Highland Heights and Kentucky Street, Memphis; 1915-16, Greenland Heights, Memphis—and it was here that he was compelled to cease from active work and take the superannuate relation, which he held at the time of his death. It was during this last pastorate that he had the pleasure of receiving his own father into the Church, which to him was sufficient compensation for all his labors. A change of climate was recommended and, with his loving and devoted mother, he went West in the hope of regaining lost strength. Finding no permanent relief, they returned to Asheville, N. C., but gradually, though surely, the little remaining strength wasted away, and on July 3 the weary wheels of life stood still, and the pure spirit of one of our most promising young men went up to dwell forever in the presence of his Lord. On July 6, in the home of his sister, Mrs. White, of Memphis, the writer, assisted by Rev. L. H. Estes, in the presence of a host of friends, held the funeral services, after which the body was laid to rest to await the resurrection morn.—George H. Martin.

JOHN RICHARDSON MOOD, the third son and fifth child of Rev. Francis Asbury and Sue Logan Mood, was born in Chapell Hill, Tex., June 29, 1869. On August 29, 1869, he was dedicated to God in holy baptism by Rev. W. G. Connor, D.D. Our father moved to Georgetown to take up his work in connection with Southwestern University, and there "Richie," as he was affectionately known by all of us, grew to manhood. In June, 1889, he graduated from Southwestern University with the A.B. degree and the next fall entered the Theological Department of Vanderbilt University, from which he graduated in June, 1892, with the degree of Bachelor of Divinity. Immediately following his graduation from Vanderbilt he took charge of Honey Grove Station, in the North Texas Conference, and served there as supply until the next session of the Conference, filling out the pastorate of Rev. J. R. Allen, who had been called to a professorship in Southwestern. That fall, 1892, he joined the Northwest Texas Conference and was assigned to the Killen and Nolanville charge. At the conclusion of that year's work he entered the work in the mission field of Mexico, where he served some ten years. Just before going to Mexico he was happily married to Miss Ruth John, of Nashville, Tenn., whose distinguished father was for some years editor of the Texas Christian Advocate and later Secretary of the General Board of Missions. After some ten years of work in Mexico, Richie's health began to fail, his constitution having been weakened by a prolonged and severe attack of typhoid fever in the city of Monterey. Hoping that a change would prove beneficial, he transferred to the West Texas Conference and for one year was stationed at Del Rio. His health showing little improvement, he requested that he be given work in the Llano Mountains and was assigned to the Cherokee Circuit. This year of outdoor life seemed to restore him completely to health, and that fall he was elected President of Clarendon College and entered upon his work there with enthusiasm. He had a most successful year there and was looking forward to doing a large service for the Church. That summer, while traveling in the interest of the college, he was taken with violent hemorrhages from the lungs and it was soon evident that his active work was done. He was given the superannuate relation by his Conference and moved to Channing, Tex., where for some twelve or fourteen years he made a brave and valiant fight for life. Some weeks ago he became much worse and it was evident to those who loved him that the end was not far off. Just a few days prior to his death he said to his wife: "I had a queer experience last night. I saw my father's face as clear as it ever looked in my childhood. In fact, we exchanged glances of recognition." A few days later, talking to his brother, A. M. Mood, of Amarillo, he spoke freely of his departure and among other things asked the date of mother's death. When told that it occurred on November 13, 1916, it was evident that he did not care to live beyond that date, and so on November 13, 1918, he went home to be with God. He is survived by his wife and four girls, all of whom are honoring his memory in their lives and service. His only son died when only a few days old. I do not suppose he knew when he first consciously gave his heart and life to God. I remember with great vividness when, at a class-meeting, held in the old chapel at Georgetown, he announced very modestly and quietly his purpose to answer the call to the work of the ministry. No one seemed at all surprised, for it was just what we all expected. In very early manhood he was licensed to exhort, later to preach, and then followed the regular course of a Methodist preacher, through the course of study and probation for deacon's and elder's orders. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Hargrove at Waco, Tex., on November 27, 1892, and elder by Bishop Key at Morelia, Mexico, on October 25, 1896. Just a year or so before he transferred from Mexico he was granted a leave of absence by the Mission Board and took the trip to the World's Fair at Paris, France, later on visiting Italy, Switzerland, and other countries on the Continent. In fulfillment of his expressed wish, his body was taken to Clarendon, after a brief service held at his home in Channing. The body rested overnight in the home of Mr. A. M. Beville, who with other friends showed every kindness to his family, and on Friday morning the remains were taken to the Methodist Church, where funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. W. Story, assisted by Rev. A. W. Hall, Rev. S. E. Burkhead, Rev. George S. Slover, and other brethren of the ministry, following which the Masons, of which order he was a member, took charge and conducted the services at the grave.—Robert Gibbs Mood.

J. A. SWEENEY was born May 29, 1870; died February 28, 1919. In early manhood he professed religion and joined the Methodist Church. He was licensed to preach on July 31, 1902, Dr. Paul Whitehead being the presiding elder. He attended school at Sunnyside Academy, also Macon College, at Bedford City, Va. He supplied the Stanton River Circuit. He was married to Miss Annie Daniel in 1893. To this union was born one daughter, Hattie Odell, who is now the wife of Rev. B. W. Wilkins, of Lorenzo, Tex. Mrs. Sweeney died in August, 1895. Brother Sweeney came to Texas in 1903 and entered Clarendon College. The latter half of the year he supplied Stratford work, and in November he joined the old Northwest Texas Conference at Mineral Wells and served the following works:

Gomez Mission, 1903-05; Stanton and Lamesa, 1905-06; Lamesa Mission, 1906-07; Westbrooks, 1907-09; Bovina, 1909-10; Hale Center, 1910-14; Lockney Station, 1914-18. In November he was stationed at Aspermont. He was married to Miss Pearl Lide on November 13, 1906, and to this union were born two children, Frances Elizabeth and John Alexander Sweeney. He suffered much. He died as he lived, with unlimited faith in God. He was patient in all his sufferings. He quietly passed away on February 28, 1919, and we laid him to rest in the Stamford Cemetery.—J. T. Hicks.

H. C. EDMONDSON, son of Robert and Amarilla Edmondson, was born at Pontotoc, Miss., March 5, 1860. He was converted in January, 1884, joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and was licensed to preach the same month. He was educated at Vanderbilt University, and was admitted on trial into the North Mississippi Conference in December, 1889, at Holly Springs, Miss., having been ordained a local deacon in 1888 by Bishop Galloway and having served Huntington and Beulah the following year as a supply. As a member of the North Mississippi Conference, he served the following charges: Panola Circuit, 1890; Ashland Circuit, 1891; Eagle Springs Circuit, 1892; Chester Circuit, 1902; Corinth Circuit, 1903; Blue Springs Circuit, 1904; Toccopola Circuit, 1905-06; Randolph Circuit, 1907; Slate Springs Circuit, 1908-09; Marietta Circuit, 1910; Tishomingo Circuit, 1911. He was transferred to the White River Conference at the close of 1892 and served there for ten years. At the Conference of 1911 he was granted the superannuate relation, which he sustained to the time of his death, residing at Iuka, where he triumphantly passed to his eternal reward in January, 1919. One familiar with the appointments of his Conference will note at a glance that he served his entire ministry on the hardest of circuits. He was forced to live on the most meager of salaries, though he was born and reared in comfort and had the tastes and interests naturally belonging to one in such station. His last illness was protracted, but he bore his sufferings with the patience of a saint and the resignation of a martyr.

He well knew of his approaching end, but the great summons found him ready to go, and his ascension was peace. May the benedictions of heaven rest on his lonely and sorrowing wife and children.
—J. R. Countiss.

JAMES ASBURY BOWEN, son of Randall A. and Sarah Ann Bowen, was born near Waterford, Miss., December 18, 1850. He was converted in August, 1867, under the ministry of Revs. Elias Jackson and Charles B. Harris. While many of the school buildings in his home community were destroyed by the Federal Army during the Civil War, he was fortunate in having a good neighborhood school and in securing better advantages in a school of higher grade in Tennessee, where he enjoyed many favors at the hands of his uncle, Rev. John W. Bowen, a Baptist minister. On his return to his home, he was honored by his neighbors by being chosen teacher of their school. During several years he taught there, rendered material assistance to his own family, and improved his own education. He was licensed to preach at Asbury Church, on the Holly Springs Circuit, in 1872, and did much active work for four years as a local preacher. In 1876 he was admitted on trial into the North Mississippi Conference and ordained deacon by Bishop Pierce. His first appointment was Ashland Circuit, in the Holly Springs District, which he served two years. He was received into full connection at Macon, Miss., on December 13, 1878, and appointed to Early Grove Circuit, which he served one year. He was ordained elder by Bishop Pierce at Columbus, Miss., on December 19, 1880. He served Ripley and Falkner in 1879-80; Corinth Station, 1881-84; Kosciusko and Durant, 1885. At the close of this year he was appointed Agent for Grenada College, which position he filled for two years. Later he served Greenville, Aberdeen, Macon, Water Valley, Columbus, Tupelo, and Winona. From Winona he was transferred to the North Alabama Conference. He served Holmes Street Church, Huntsville, for two years and was appointed Conference Evangelist. After six months in this work he was appointed to First Church, Ensley, to fill out the year in place of Dr. J. D. Simpson, elected President of Birmingham College. At the close of the year he was again made Conference Evangelist and served for five years. At the close of 1915 he was transferred to the North Mississippi Conference and appointed Conference Evangelist, holding this appointment to the time of his death, at Tupelo, Miss., on January 24, 1919. He was a member of the great Prohibition Convention in Jackson, Miss., which settled the policy for all later work done in this cause in the State, serving there with Bishop Galloway, C. H. Alexander, and other distinguished men. He was highly honored by the Masonic fraternity of his State, being at one time Chaplain of the Grand Commandery of the Knights Templar. He assisted in founding and building the Mississippi Methodist Orphans' Home at Water Valley (now at Jackson), and was one of its faithful trustees until his transfer to the North Alabama Conference. He also served for a number of years as trustee of Grenada College, and was successively a member of the Sunday School Board, the Board of Missions, and the Board of Education of his Conference. As pastor, he was tireless in his efforts to seek and to save the lost. Few men made more calls at the homes of parishioners. He found the strangers and welcomed them to his church. He was a fervent gospel preacher and was gifted with rare power in prayer. Without such educational advantages as many of his day enjoyed, he nevertheless filled the leading appointments in his Conference. Endowed with unction and sometimes with great power, his words won many hearts to Christ and left impressions for good as lasting as life itself. His preëminent passion was evangelism. Even while a pastor, he was much used by others in revival meetings, both in his own and in adjoining States. He is said to have held meetings in ten States and to have witnessed 20,000 conversions and 12,000 additions to the Church. He was genial, courteous, cheerful, optimistic. His fights for moral reforms left his State cleaner and richer and helped remove temptation from the paths of the weak and erring. His last illness continued for a full year, but brought no complaints nor expressions of impatience. Of his immediate family, his wife, two sisters, and a son, Rev. C. A. Bowen, a member of the faculty of the Woman's College of Alabama, survive him.

—O. W. Bradley.

JOHN HUDSON MITCHELL, son of Rev. William B. and Mrs. S. Mitchell, was born in Lafayette County, Miss., February 10, 1855. He received his primary education in the country schools; was converted at Abbeville, Miss., in August, 1871; was granted license to preach at Water Valley,

Miss., by the Quarterly Conference of that charge, Rev. Amos Kendall being presiding elder. Thus at the early age of seventeen he felt the call of God to his life mission. By appointment of his presiding elder, he spent the latter part of the year 1872 as junior preacher on the Grenada Circuit under Rev. James M. Hampton, preacher in charge. He spent 1874 in business pursuits, endeavoring to secure funds to prosecute his studies in his high calling to preach the everlasting gospel. In 1875 he served Greenwood Circuit, Greenwood then being a straggling village on the Yazoo River and all the contiguous territory a pioneer field for the itinerant. Some twenty years later he returned to Greenwood, then one of the strongest stations of the North Mississippi Conference, and did a monumental work in building up the spiritual and other needs of the Church. He was instrumental in erecting one of the handsomest and amplest church buildings in the Conference, and it now stands as a signal mark of his prescience, industry, and skill. At the end of his first pastorate at Greenwood he was discontinued, at his own request, to enter Vanderbilt University. Brother Mitchell was admitted on trial into the North Mississippi Conference at Aberdeen in 1877, was received into full connection in 1879, and ordained elder by Bishop Paine on November 20, 1881. At the Conference of 1876 he was appointed to Snow Creek Circuit, where he remained two years. He then served the following appointments: Pine Mountain, 1879; Early Grove, 1880; Booneville and Rienzi, 1881; Iuka Station, 1882-85; Corinth Station, 1886-89; Macon Station, 1890-93; Kosciusko District, 1894-97; Greenwood Station, 1898-99; Winona District, 1900-03; Greenwood Station, 1904; Aberdeen District, 1905-08; Water Valley, First Church, 1909-11; Corinth District, 1912-15; Indianola Station, 1916-17. At the close of this year his health forbade his continuing in the active work and he was superannuated and remained in this relation until his death, August 10, 1919. Brother Mitchell was a delegate to the General Conference of 1902 and an alternate in 1906. He was an honored trustee of Grenada College for twenty years and gave to it his fullest strength and devotion. As a pastor he was diligent, wide-awake, and untiring in his love and care for all within his reach. As a man he was manly, cultivated, warm-hearted, and always approachable by any, the poor or the rich. As a presiding elder he was wise, energetic, and faithful, giving himself with all he had to the Master's flock and cause. In his ministry of thirty-five years he served circuits, stations, missions, and four of the districts as presiding elder, and in every station of life he was true, effective, progressive. He was a prodigious worker, a strong, evangelical preacher, a wise councilor, a loyal and diligent servant of the King. In 1881 he was happily married to Miss Mary Viola Cawthon, of Holly Springs, Miss. In his marriage he was most wise and fortunate, for his wife was a woman of rare common sense, splendid training, high ideals, and made him a worthy and helpful companion. Of this union five children blessed their home: Mrs. J. B. Wadsworth and Mrs. Ruth Gray, of Winona, Miss.; Mrs. C. C. Boyd, of Louisiana; Mary Lucile, who died in childhood; and J. Hendrix, who is one of the teachers in the public schools of Greenwood, Miss. Brother Mitchell fell on sleep peacefully and nobly after a long and strenuous life in the active itineracy to which he gave all the powers of his mind and soul from his youth. He spared not his strength, his time, nor his life, but counted all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus our Lord.—L. M. Lipscomb.

THOMAS GILLILAND FREEMAN, son of Rev. Alfred Freeman (a local elder in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South), was born near Cageville, Tenn., January 27, 1835; died at Grenada, Miss., August 13, 1919. He was educated in the public schools of Tippah County, Miss., and at Denmark, Tenn. Converted in 1847, he felt a divine call to the ministry in early youth and was licensed to preach in 1860, admitted on trial into the Memphis Conference in November, 1864, at Aberdeen, Miss., and ordained deacon by Bishop Paine at the same session of the Conference. He received his elder's orders at the hands of Bishop Doggett at Water Valley, Miss., in December, 1870, at the first meeting of the newly organized North Mississippi Conference. From the foregoing dates it will be seen that he gave fifty-nine years of his life to the Methodist ministry, having been in the local ranks for four years before joining the traveling connection, and also having been granted this relation for the years 1878-80. He was twice given a supernumerary relation for one year, and was a superannuate for the last nineteen years of his life. For thirty-one years he was in the thick of the fray as an itinerant Methodist preacher, serving hard circuits at a meager salary. Converted in childhood, he never faltered in the faith nor slackened his hold on God to the day of his death. He was no "reed shaken by the wind." Soft raiment and sumptuous fare made little appeal to his sturdy soul fired with zeal to carry the evangel of his Lord to the perishing children of men. Physically he was of such mold as the Master had need when Methodism was seeking the lost on frontiers and establishing the kingdom on immense circuits traversed by wretched roads. No weakling could have endured the hardships to which he was subjected in these fields. At one time he walked forty miles to an appointment. His preaching was expository in type. Brother Freeman was twice married. Sons of his first marriage are Mr. Edward Freeman, of Hazelhurst, Miss., and Rev. W. A. Freeman, an honored member of the Memphis Conference, now stationed at Brownsville, Tenn. His second wife, with their daughter, Mrs. Bertha Sanders, of Charleston, Miss., survives him. After his superannuation, in 1900, he made his home in Grenada, where he conducted a small grocery business, and by industry and frugality managed to provide reasonable comforts for himself and his devoted, loyal, and efficient wife, without whom his lot would have been sad indeed. A good man and true has gone from among us.

JOHN EVANS THOMAS, son of Rev. Nathaniel and Mrs. Pattie Thomas, was born in Halifax County, Va., February 5, 1852. Soundly converted on May 6, 1866, he was licensed to preach on January 29, 1876. Admitted on trial into the North Mississippi Conference on November 28, 1876, he was received into full connection and ordained deacon at the hands of Bishop Paine at Macon in December, 1878, and ordained elder by the same bishop at Columbus on December 19, 1880. He served the Columbus Circuit, 1877-78; Okolona Circuit, 1879-82; Shannon Circuit, 1883-84; Batesville and Wesley, 1885-87; Grenada Station, 1888-91; Oxford, 1892-95; Starkville, 1896; Greenville, 1897-1900; Greenville District, 1901; Greenwood, 1902-03; West Point, 1904; Macon, 1907-09; Columbus District, 1910-13; Ittabena, 1914-15; Amory, 1916-18; Aberdeen, where he died suddenly in the first year of a richly influential and beloved pastorate, Monday morning, November 3, 1919. He ceased at once to labor and to live. His last sermon, declared by all who heard it to have been all but angelic, was upon Heaven. His latest breath was expended upon provision for the comfort of the servants of God soon to assemble at Conference. Thus he passed literally from an ecstatic contemplation of his eternal home to its abundant realization by the way of unselfish, devoted, and practical service, which is to say that he died as he had lived. He had long walked with God, and it was easy for his feet to turn in at God's gate. Almost surely without pain, and probably without a premonition of his impending translation, he felt the touch of God's finger and stepped within his Father's house. The lamp of life was extinguished in its fullest flame, and he passed at once into the meridian blaze of that city whose light is the Lamb.—I. D. Borders.

HERBERT PARHAM BALDERSON was born August 22, 1886, near Montross, Va.; died December 22, 1918, at West Point, Va. He was the son of Corra L. and Elvira White Balderson, who are devoted Christians; and being reared in a pious atmosphere, it was not strange that he had his call early in life to the ministry. He was converted when a mere boy, and joined Andrew Chapel Church, Montross Circuit, where for several years the writer had the privilege of teaching him in his Bible class. It was in the Epworth League, with which the writer was associated, that Herbert, as we loved to call him, received the first impressions that determined his life's work. He was educated in public and private schools until 1904, when he entered Bedford Academy. In 1906 he entered Randolph-Macon College as a ministerial student, and made splendid progress. In November, 1907, he applied for admission into the Virginia Conference, was accepted, and received his first appointment as supply at Taylor's Island, Eastern Shore District. In 1909-10 he served Branch Memorial and Highland Springs, Va. In 1911 he entered Vanderbilt University. In 1913 Bishop Waterhouse asked him to accept the pastorate of First M. E. Church, South, Missoula, Mont., which he served one year. Again he entered Vanderbilt University, in the meantime serving Humphreys Street Church, Nashville. In December, 1915, he was transferred back to the Virginia Conference and sent to Urbanna, where he served two years, and from November to January 1 on the third year, when he was sent to West Point to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Rev. J. W. S. Robins. He served this his last charge well, as was attested by a substantial raise of $400 in his salary. He was reappointed to this charge at the Conference held in Charlottesville in December, 1918, and reached home Tuesday night in apparent robust health, where he was lovingly greeted by his wife and two children. He was happy in the thought of his year's work before him. He talked of his plans for the coming year, and how, with God's help, he intended to make it the banner year of his work. But lo! in the morning the dread influenza had fastened its deadly fangs upon him. Pneumonia developed, and on Sunday morning, December 22, his life went out. He was married on December 24, 1912, to Miss Willie Anderson Crouch, of Nashville, Tenn. This union was blessed with two children, Herbert Parham, Jr., and Jesse Crouch Balderson, all of whom now reside in Nashville and remain to mourn the loss of a tender and loving husband and father. The funeral service was held in the church at West Point on December 24 (the sixth anniversary of his marriage). The services were conducted by his presiding elder, Rev. R. F. Gayle, assisted by his college chum, Rev. L. D. Stables. The remains were then laid to rest in the Masonic Cemetery at West Point.

THOMAS MAYNARD DESHAZO, son of John Copeland and Josephine Smith DeShazo, was born in King and Queen County, Va., August 5, 1882. Born of godly parentage, reared in a Christian home, and a regular attendant at Sunday school, it is not surprising that at the early age of eleven years the boy was converted, and under the pastorate of our venerable brother, J. P. Woodward, joined old Providence, the Church of his parents. He attended the public schools of King and Queen County, later spending three years at

William and Mary College. Like many another young man who has been called to the ministry, he tried to bury the call, and so chose teaching as a profession. He taught with success in King and Queen and Essex Counties, but even here the Spirit of God was striving with him, and finally, through the death of a beloved sister, he rededicated himself to the service of God and determined to equip himself as best he could to carry forward the banner of the cross. With this in view he taught three years more, one in Southampton County and two in Halifax County, thus earning enough money to enable him to enter the Theological Department of Vanderbilt University. Here he spent three years in study, doing such local evangelistic work as came to his hands. During the summer vacation of 1913 he was appointed a field worker for the Sunday School Board in Tennessee, and in 1914 he left Nashville to take up the same kind of work in the bounds of the Virginia Conference. In November of the same year he applied for admission on trial into the Conference, which was in session in Portsmouth, Va., Bishop J. C. Kilgo presiding. He was accepted and assigned to West Bedford charge, where he labored with great success for four years. It was while he was pastor of West Bedford Circuit that he was married, on January 20, 1915, to Miss Frances Winfield, of Southampton County. At the close of his pastorate in West Bedford, Conference met in Charlottesville, and Bishop E. R. Hendrix read the name of Thomas Maynard DeShazo for Whaleyville and Somerton charge; but before the Conference adjourned Brother DeShazo was taken ill and removed to Martha Jefferson Hospital, in the Conference city, where on December 16, 1918, he "fell on sleep." His remains were carried to the old family home in King and Queen County, and there Rev. J. C. Beasley, assisted by Rev. J. W. Arthur, laid him to rest in the quiet cemetery adjoining old Providence Church. Besides a wife, Brother DeShazo leaves a father, J. C. DeShazo; an aunt, Mrs. Emma V. Pynes, who had been a mother to him since the death of his own mother; two sisters, Mrs. R. J. Vaughan and Miss Frances DeShazo, of Daisy, Va.; and three brothers, Dr. J. N., of Center Cross, Va., R. Mason, a lawyer of Greenville, S. C., and W. Payne, of Walkerton, Va.

JOHN THOMAS PAYNE, the son of Thomas E. and Louisa Stiff Payne, was born in Richmond County, Va., in August, 1851. Being born of deeply pious parents and reared in a religious atmosphere, in early life his thoughts turned toward God, and he was enabled by faith in Jesus Christ to avouch the Lord to be his God. He felt the call to preach while a mere child. His father died when he was but a boy, and soon thereafter he was adopted by his uncle, Bishop John Payne, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, who started with him to Africa to become a missionary among the blacks of that distant land. God, however, had other work for him, and on reaching Philadelphia his physician declared that his constitution could not stand the climate of that tropical country. He was placed in school at Philadelphia, where he remained for one year, and was then sent to the Episcopal High School near Alexandria, Va. At the age of eighteen he became troubled about the doctrine of "election," and abandoned the idea of preaching. He entered the University of Virginia, and after fitting himself for the profession of law entered upon its practice in the counties of King George and Westmoreland. But God needed him for a nobler calling. Again he heard the voice of the Lord, in clear and compelling accents, saying, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" He answered, "Here am I; send me." He joined the Methodist Church and was licensed a local preacher in 1879. In November, 1884, he was ordained elder by Bishop Granbery. He came to his life work well equipped, and gave his best to his Lord's cause. After serving in the pastorate for several years, he was appointed Principal of Bowling Green Seminary, then to Gordonsville Seminary. After remaining there five years he returned to the pastorate and served with marked fidelity and success some of our chief country charges. While on the Cumberland Circuit he had a very severe attack of illness, and it was thought that his labors were at an end. He rallied from this attack and seemed to regain his normal condition. But evidently that sickness was the beginning of the end. From the Cumberland Circuit he was sent to Mecklenburg, and served this charge for nearly two years with his accustomed zeal and fidelity. In the summer of his second year his health failed and he declined rapidly. At the Conference in Charlottesville, in December, 1918, he was placed on the superannuate list. On December 23, 1918, his spirit returned to the God who gave it. In early manhood he was married to Miss Ellen C. Jones, of King George County. She, with three sons and six daughters, survives him. His youngest son, Corporal Maurice L. Payne, fell in battle on the bloody fields of France. Brother Payne was a strong and effective speaker. He feared not the face of man. He suffered much in his last illness, but bore it with Christian fortitude and patience. His end was peace.

WALTER WESLEY SAWYER was the son of William and Catherine Reed Sawyer. He was born in Perquimans County, N. C., on October 1, 1855. His mother was a devout soul who believed in God and in prayer. Like Hannah of old, she believed in a mother's prayer for her boy and she would take her young son often into a quiet room and there kneel down and pray with him and for him. She did not pray in vain; her prayers were answered. She asked that her son might become a good and useful man. He did. In a few years he became conscious of the call to the ministry. And he felt that with this call there came a call for preparation for the ministry. Under this impression he entered Randolph-Macon College to prepare for his life work. He continued his studies there until he graduated with the A.B. degree in the spring of 1880. The following fall he was received into the Virginia Conference on trial. He never left this Conference, but for thirty-nine years he went at her orders to the appointments to which he was assigned. His first appointment was Bethany; then he served the following appointments in the order given: Charlotte, South Campbell, North Pittsylvania, Orange, Fluvanna, Chuckatuck, Boykins, West Mathews, Cumberland, Bowling Green, Pungoteague, Bloxom, Gloucester, Prince George, and Dinwiddie. In each of these he faithfully did the work of a minister, both as pastor and preacher. He was a good evangelist, and under his preaching many souls were brought to the feet of Jesus. Some of the most successful meetings of his ministry were conducted only by himself. On November 7, 1883, he was married to Miss Anna Virginia Thomas, daughter of R. H. Thomas, of Appomattox County, Va. This marriage was blessed with four sons and four daughters. All have lived to be grown, and, with their mother, survive their father. He filled his regular appointments on Sunday, March 16, and returned to his home on Monday morning, after some pastoral visiting. He seemed to be as well as usual during Monday and Tuesday, but his frail body was not so strong as many supposed. After retiring Tuesday night he was taken with violent pain, and after but a few minutes of suffering passed away in the presence of none but his wife. The immediate cause of his death was apoplexy. Few of his friends knew that for several years he had been working with a body which was racked with disease; yet on he went. On March 21 his body was quietly laid to rest in the little churchyard at Salem, near Spout Spring, Va.

CHARLES C. WERTENBAKER, son of Edward and Anne T. Wertenbaker, was born in Albemarle County, Va. He died in Birmingham, Ala., November 8, 1919. From his birth he was dedicated to God and the ministry by his parents. He received training in good schools and was a diligent student all his life. He thus became a "workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." At the age of seven, he lost his father by sudden death. In 1857 he was converted at a service held in the Southern Methodist Church in Buchanan, W. Va., and immediately felt the divine call to preach the gospel. In 1861 he was deputy in the Circuit Court Clerk's office. He enlisted in the Confederate Army in April, 1861, and was captured at Philippi, W. Va., by an unlooked-for attack on the Confederate forces. When his parole expired he entered again into the Confederate Army. Resigning a Quartermaster-ship, to which he had been appointed, he was elected a Lieutenant in the 62d Regiment of mounted infantry and fought in that brave band until the surrender of the Confederate forces to "overwhelming resources and numbers." He was in many a hot-fought battle, and was called to the command of his regiment, a senior officer, in one of these engagements. He was wounded severely, but was again at the front before the unhealed wounds could get a surgeon's certificate that he was fit for duty. He was a man of heroic mold. Brother Wertenbaker was licensed to preach on March 10, 1866, by the Quarterly Conference of Charlottesville Station, Rev. Lemuel O. Reed presiding. He at once entered the itinerant ranks as a supply in the Baltimore Conference and joined that Conference in March, 1868. He was transferred to the Virginia Conference in 1873, and served with marked fidelity and success the charges to which he was appointed until the infirmities of the body demanded that he ask for the superannuate relation. He was a man of prayer, living in constant communion with his Lord. The children loved him. He was pure in speech and pure in heart. From his first charge to the last he served he left the impress of a man of God. He was one of the singers of our Israel. Gifted with a melodious voice, he used it to praise his Maker. He was married in 1868 to Emily Birding, of Baltimore, who blessed his life with her loving care. Of this union one son and six daughters were born. The son died in youth. The daughters survive, with the mother, to mourn their irreparable loss. The funeral services were held from the home of his son-in-law, Mr. John W. Brazeal, on Sunday, November 9, at 3:30 P.M. The pastor of Highland Church, where he was accustomed to worship, conducted the service, assisted by Drs. Morris, McFerrin, and Johnson. His favorite hymns, "How Firm a Foundation," "Face to Face," "O Come, Angel Band," were sung at the service. His tired and worn body was laid to rest in Elmwood Cemetery, Birmingham, Ala., to await the resurrection of the just.—J. C. Reed.

JOHN DUNCAN BUIE was born in Cumberland County, N. C., May 22, 1837; passed to his eternal reward at the home of his daughter, Mrs. May Nicholson, San Bernardino, Cal., October 9, 1919. He was licensed to preach at Bethesda Church, on the Danbury Circuit, in October, 1857, so that his ministry covered the unusually long period of sixty-two years. He was admitted on trial into the traveling connection at Raleigh in December, 1862, and was appointed as chaplain in the Confederate army. He continued to labor as a chaplain in the army until the war closed. Following is the list of his appointments: 1863, Chaplain in the C. S. Army; 1864, Chaplain in the Seventh Confederate Cavalry; 1865, Chaplain to the Tenth Georgia Cavalry; 1866, no list of appointments given; 1867, Montgomery Circuit; 1868, Yadkinville Circuit; 1869, Onslow Circuit; 1870-71, Cokesbury Circuit; 1872, Topsail Circuit; 1873-74, supernumerary; 1875, superannuated; 1876-77, Mattamuskeet Circuit; 1878, Williamston Circuit; 1879-81, Halifax Circuit; 1882-83, Roanoke Circuit; 1884-85, Rolesville Circuit; 1886-87, Yanceyville Circuit; 1888-90, superannuated; 1891-92, Enochville Circuit; 1893, Table Rock Circuit; 1894, West Haywood Circuit; 1895, Hayesville Circuit; 1896, Polkville Circuit; 1897, Iredell Circuit; 1898, Catawba Circuit; 1899, Old Fort Circuit; 1900, Jonesville Circuit; 1901, superannuated; 1902, Thermal City Circuit; 1903-19, superannuated. Thus it seems that this man served in more than twenty-five different charges, covering a period (including four years in the superannuate and two years in the supernumerary relation) of about forty years. The territory included in these various fields stretched from the seashore to the mountains, and many of these charges were among the most trying and difficult fields in the State. I had the privilege of a somewhat intimate association with Brother Buie when he was serving the Enochville Circuit. I was impressed with him both as a preacher of great force and as a man of piety and zeal. He knew our doctrines and could present them with great power and effect. In 1863 he was married to Miss Hattie Rowles, who was a faithful helper in all his work, and who still survives. When at last it became evident that he must retire permanently from active service, he and his faithful companion went to Southern California, where they found opportunity to bear witness to the power of our religion in a beautiful home life which did not fail to impress itself upon those with whom they came in contact.—H. M. Blair.

CLARENCE RICHARDSON CANIPE was born near Palm Tree Church, in Cleveland County, N. C., February 9, 1877; died at Columbus, Ohio, July 1, 1919. After a pilgrimage of forty-two years, he came back to the old church to sleep with his fathers till the resurrection day. In 1892 he professed faith in Jesus and joined the Methodist Church at Palm Tree. After attending the local schools, he was for a while at Rutherford College, and taught at intervals in the local public schools. He was licensed to preach at the District Conference of the Shelby District at Gastonia in 1902. In December, 1903, he was appointed junior preacher on the Summerfield Circuit, and at the following session of the Western North Carolina Conference, held at Charlotte in November, 1914, he was admitted on trial into the Conference, and was appointed to the Stoneville-Mayodan charge. At the next session of the Conference he was appointed a student at Trinity College, where he remained three years. During a part of the time that he was at Trinity College he served as supply for one of the Durham churches. In 1907, while still at college, he transferred his membership to the North Carolina Conference. His regular pastoral work may be said to have begun when in 1908 he was appointed to the Aurora Circuit, in the Washington District. He was married on December 23, 1908, to Miss Leila Finger, of Lincoln County. To this union were born three sons: Clyde Asbury, Walter Grigg, and Clem Lee. He served the Aurora charge three years, and in 1912 the Troy Circuit; 1913, Tar River Circuit, where he stayed for three years; 1916, Person Street and Calvary charge in Fayetteville. It was here that his leg was broken, and it was so long in healing that he was compelled to take the superannuate relation at the session of 1916. At the close of the Conference year he was transferred back to his old home Conference, the Western North Carolina, and was appointed to the Polkville Circuit. This charge is so near to his boyhood home that it is no small tribute to his personality that he should have been so willingly received. And it is greatly to the credit of the people of Polkville charge that they so heartily cooperated with him, a neighbor boy, in his efforts to lead the Church onward to better things. It was not surprising, therefore, that his pastorate here was successful. It is probable that neither Brother Canipe nor the Polkville charge ever had a more successful pastorate than the one which was suddenly terminated by his untimely death. The work accomplished by Brother Canipe during the last eighteen months of his ministry marked him as a man of more than average ability. There was marvelous advance along all lines. The salary was almost doubled during this period; Conference collections, although greatly increased over previous years, were secured in full for the first time in twenty-seven years; successful revivals were held in a majority of the churches of the charge; but the greatest achievement, and the one in which he took most pride, was the raising of the full Centenary allotment, with a good surplus, without using any of the credits. He was happier over this accomplishment than over any other in his pastoral experience, and his trip to Columbus was made in the spirit of celebration over the success in the Polkville charge. The trip was, in some sense, characteristic of the man. In service to the Lord, he was ever fervent in spirit. Success in the Master's work gave him great joy; failure bore down upon him and greatly depressed him. He said in the presence of the writer that he considered the raising of the Centenary quota as the greatest achievement of his life, and that he greatly desired to go to Columbus to round out the achievement in proper and fitting form. Not only was he fervent but at times really eloquent in his preaching, and in revivals his preaching was especially effective in reaching the unconverted and stirring the Church members to renewed zeal and consecration. Though a comparatively young man, he was an old-time Methodist preacher; he believed in the old doctrines, in the old songs, and in the old methods. He believed in and used the old-fashioned mourners' bench, and he said he found it the most efficient means of getting sinners genuinely converted to God. He was a true itinerant. He was especially suited to the circuit. Not every man fits into the work of a big country circuit; Canipe did. A pastor that can succeed anywhere, can usually succeed on the average middle-class station, but success on a big country circuit requires special fitness and ability. He was succeeding admirably on one of the largest and most difficult circuits in the district. It seems a strange providence that suddenly snatches away a man who is just coming into his best achievements, who is just arriving at the full development of his powers, but we rest assured that God knows best.—John F. Kirk.

MELVILLE CHAFIN FIELD was born in Randolph County, N. C., April 5, 1851; fell on sleep at his home, near Greensboro, N. C., August 31, 1919. He was the son of William and Cleopatra Henley Field. His father died when the son was only two years old. At this early age he was taken into the home of his aunt, Mrs. Mary Craven, who lived near Bethlehem

Church, in the vicinity of Climax, N. C. This splendid woman gave him godly training and no doubt did much of the foundation work upon which was built his subsequent career of usefulness in the Church. During this period he enjoyed the advantage of such educational facilities as the public schools of the day, and an occasional subscription school, afforded. Having reached the years of early young manhood, he went to Burlington, where he clerked for a while in a store. Then we find him a little later in the Bingham School at Mebane pursuing his studies in that well-known institution. About this time he decided to go to Texas. Whether influenced by the spirit of adventure or in pursuit of some definite goal, it does not clearly appear. At any rate, soon after his arrival in the Lone Star State he took a school at Chapel Hill, Tex., and taught with acceptability for about two years. However, his life work was to be in another direction. He had felt the call to preach the gospel—clear, distinct, unmistakable—and after the usual struggles incident to such a conviction, he finally yielded his life to this highest of all human callings. Accordingly, having been previously licensed to preach, he joined the Texas Conference in the year 1872, and served two years in that Conference. Then in 1874 he transferred to California, where he served the following charges: Sacramento, 1875; Yuba City, 1876-77. In the fall of 1877 he transferred to the North Carolina Conference and was sent to Straits, where he remained one year only, at the expiration of which time, and having married during the year the Tar Heel girl of his choice, he decided to return to California, which he did in 1878. He remained in the far West about eight years this time, serving the following charges: Anderson Circuit, in Shasta County, 1880-81; Arbuckle, 1882; Santa Rosa Circuit, 1883; Santa Clara Circuit, 1884; Sonora Circuit, 1885-87. During this period he found his heart turning back to his native State and to the people of his ancestry, so he returned to North Carolina in 1887, making his last transfer and settling down to spend his remaining days upon his native heath. We find him on the Pleasant Garden Circuit in 1888-89; then in 1890-91 he was on the Lewisville Circuit. In the fall of 1891, his health being somewhat impaired, he asked for a nominal appointment the next year, so that he might rest for a brief period; but during this year a vacancy occurred on the Jamestown Circuit by the death of Rev. J. T. Crocker, and Brother Field was asked to serve the circuit for the remainder of the year, which he did. Then he spent the years 1893-94 on the Yadkinville Circuit; 1895-97, Forsyth Circuit; 1898, Waxhaw Circuit; 1899, McDowell Circuit; 1900, Broad River Circuit. Realizing that he was not physically able to do full work, he asked for and obtained the superannuate relation at the Conference session held at Greensboro in the fall of 1900, since which time he has held this relation among us. While holding the superannuate relation for twenty years, he never allowed his interest in the Church to wane for one moment of the time. Indeed, he was alert to every movement of the kingdom as expressed in the fuller activities of the Church under modern conditions. He was refreshingly cheerful and optimistic in his disposition all the way through. On April 23, 1878, Brother Field was married to Miss Flora Ledbetter, of his own native county, who, after sharing his responsibilities and joys for more than forty years, survives. To them were born ten children, all of whom preceded him to the better world except three: James Melville Field, Miss Lynette Field, and Mrs. J. Thad Weatherly. Another son, Capt. Bascom Field, after serving with distinction abroad with the American forces in the great world war, fell upon the field of honor at his post of duty, in the famous battle near Bellecourt, September 29, 1918, the battle which broke the Hindenberg line and forced the cessation of hostilities less than two months later. It is a matter of just and pardonable pride to all our itinerant brotherhood that when the titanic struggle was on between world forces to determine the character of future civilizations, none fought more heroically or died more bravely to establish those principles upon the earth for which Methodism has thundered through the years than did the noble sons of our parsonage homes throughout the land. Then his son-in-law, Mr. J. Thad Weatherly, also gave his life to the cause of freedom in the same great conflict, having fallen victim to a fatal malady in Camp Sevier, October 11, 1918. These sorrows weighed heavily upon the heart of this hero of many spiritual battles, but he bore his trials with Christian fortitude and resignation. The passing of Brother Field was sudden, yet he was ready. It occurred on the last Sunday in August. He had attended Sunday school at Zion Church, and later divine worship at the same place, conducted by his pastor, J. E. Woosley, and after returning to his home and performing the afternoon duties around his home, the messenger called as the sun was sinking out of sight, and, without a fear or a struggle, he yielded his spirit into the hands of God and was gone. Thus ended a day of usefulness spent in his Father's courts below and at the same time a long career of useful service in the ranks of militant Methodism. His body rests in the cemetery of Bethlehem Church, on the Pleasant Garden Circuit, awaiting the resurrection of the just.—J. H. Barnhardt.

WILLIAM THOMAS USRY was born at Wilton, Granville County, N. C., July 30, 1873; died at Rutherford College, N. C., August 30, 1919. For nearly a year he had been confined to his bed with a tumor on the brain, yet he bore this intense suffering with patience and Christian fortitude until death relieved him. At an early age he was converted and joined the Methodist Church, and during his boyhood and young manhood lived a devout Christian life. When a small boy he attended the various schools of the community and ranked above the average in intellect and desire to obtain an education. At the age of thirteen he won a competitive scholarship to the A. and M. College at Raleigh. But even at this early age he evinced a desire to spend his life for righteousness and high and useful service; so he declined the scholarship and instead attended Franklinton Classical Institute, where he prepared himself for college. Here he made a brilliant record as a student, winning the declaimer's medal as well as several honors in debate. Then, in 1894, he entered the State University, made his way entirely by his own efforts, and graduated in 1898. For several years following his graduation he taught school. The Cokesbury Conference School, Cokesbury, S. C., and the Franklinton Classical Institute are two of the schools in which he taught with industry, capability, and the highest degree of satisfaction to his patrons. In 1904 Brother Usry joined the North Carolina Conference, in which he served the following charges: Hamlet, 1904-05; Elizabeth City, 1906; Oriental, 1907-08; Milton, 1909-10. In 1905 he was married to Miss Maude Merrimon, of Cokesbury, S. C. Four children blessed their union, who, with their mother, survive him. In 1910, in an attempt to improve his health, he transferred to the Western North Carolina Conference. Here he filled the following charges: Marshall, 1911; Cherryville, 1912-15. The Conference then appointed him teacher in Rutherford College, where he held the position of Vice President and Professor of Latin and Bible until his fatal illness. As a preacher Brother Usry was true to all the interests of Christ's kingdom. The work of the Lord prospered under his ministry. He was uniformly successful as a builder. During his pastorate at Hamlet he built a splendid church. This beautiful structure stands to-day as a monument to his energy and zeal. The church at Cherryville was remodeled and improved by his efforts. He was a preacher of more than ordinary ability. He was a close student of books. His sermons were gems of truth garnered here and there from the field of knowledge and polished and refined by a rich Christian experience. So, in spite of his frail body, his ministry left behind it a holy influence that sweetened, enriched, and enheartened the souls of men. By his death Rutherford College lost its best teacher and most devoted friend. He was a scholarly man and a successful teacher. The students respected and loved him; all mourn his loss.—W. F. Starnes.

GEORGE WILLIS NACKLES, son of William and Nancy Nackles, was born April 16, 1869, in the western part of Henderson County, Tenn., in the second civil district, known during the war as South Carolina. He came of sturdy religious people, who firmly believed in God and sincerely worshiped him. The simplicity of his surroundings had much to do with the development of a strong body and an inquiring mind. He embraced all the opportunities which his day offered for the improvement of his talents and was a most diligent and painstaking student to the end of his days. On July 31, 1880, he was converted at the tender age of eleven years and joined Poplar Springs Methodist Episcopal Church, in the above-named county. The Church was on the Lexington Circuit of the Central Tennessee Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Building early upon a good foundation, he grew up into a strong Christian character. He did not assume the vows of Church membership lightly, for they were to him the interpretation of a vital work of grace which brought to him a consciousness of sins forgiven and of the indwelling presence of the Holy Spirit. His conversion typed his whole ministry, which was always zealous, fervent, and evangelistic. He despaired of no one, but labored for and believed in the salvation of the most wicked and degenerate among men. Brother Nackles was married to Miss Mary Ann Isbell, daughter of William and Amanda Isbell, of Cookeville, Tenn., in October, 1896, and to this union there were given three children—Barbee, Edith, and William Manley, the latter living only six months. In Cookeville, Tenn., on January 20, 1893, he was initiated into Mount View Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. Last summer at a public service held at the Methodist church in Cookeville this lodge presented to him an Odd Fellows' veteran jewel, one of the most honorable decorations of this order, in recognition of his twenty-five years of extraordinary faithful and active service as a member of the order. He was also for many years an active member of the Masonic fraternity. Brother Nackles was licensed to preach by the Huntingdon District Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, at Palmer's Shelter, in Carroll County, Tenn., October 17, 1887; admitted on trial into the Central Tennessee Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, at Dickson, Tenn., October 21, 1887; admitted into full connection at McMoresville, Tenn., October 18, 1890; ordained deacon at McMoresville, Tenn., by Bishop J. M. Walden, October 19, 1890; ordained elder at Dowelltown, Tenn., by Bishop John F. Hurst, October 14, 1894. His first appointment to preach was at Union Hill. He filled Brother Creasy's appointment. His text was 1 Corinthians xv. 58: "Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord." His appointments were as follows: Bloomington Mission, 1890; Cookeville Mission, 1892 (he served this charge for five years and did faithful work); Huntingdon Mission, 1897; Tullahoma Mission, 1898. Brother Nackles did eight years of faithful work in the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was received on his credentials from the Methodist Episcopal Church into the Tennessee Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Clarksville, Tenn., on October 24, 1898. His first appointment in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was the Vervilla Circuit, and he served this work for two years, from 1899 to 1901; Beech Grove, 1901; Cookeville Mission, 1902-05 (making eight years at Cookeville); Alexandria and Watertown, 1905-09; Portland and Fountain Head, 1909-11; Erin Circuit, 1911-12; Hendersonville Circuit, 1912-13; Erin Circuit, 1913-17; Lynnville Circuit, 1917-19. He was painstaking in the preparation of his sermons, so that he was never hard to understand nor tiresome to listen to, but made himself clear to all, his chief aim being to convince the mind, stir the heart, and lead men to an immediate acceptance of the truth. Brother Nackles was ripe for heaven. He often expressed a desire to depart and be with Christ. The end came very unexpectedly on January 7, 1919, while serving Lynnville Circuit, but he was ready. He has gone to live with God and his dear wife, baby, and friends forever.—Simon M. Ensor.

THOMAS H. WOODWARD, son of Rev. R. M. and Nancy A. Woodward, was born in Lincoln County, Tenn., on February 7, 1850, and died in great peace at Dyer, Tenn., March 20, 1919. Brother Woodward was converted at the early age of fourteen and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. He was licensed to preach by the Quarterly Conference of Richland Circuit on September 4, 1869, Rev. B. M. Stephens being presiding-elder. He was admitted on trial into the Tennessee Annual Conference at Lebanon in October, 1871. He was ordained deacon at Franklin on October 12, 1873, by Bishop H. N. McTyeire. Two years later he was ordained elder by Bishop W. M. Wightman at Fayetteville, Tenn. He was married to Miss Mary E. Jackson on September 20, 1876. To this happy union were born three children—John Barbee, Mattie Tom, and Willie Elizabeth. Little Mattie Tom died in infancy. He leaves his good and devoted wife, Barbee, and Elizabeth to mourn his death. Brother Woodward served as an active itinerant preacher more than thirty years. He loved the itinerancy, but, owing to declining health, he was forced to take a superannuate relation. For several years he had made his home in Dyer, Tenn. There he was useful in many ways, and he leaves a host of friends to sorrow because of his departure. Brother Woodward was a faithful itinerant minister. He was a sound gospel preacher, methodical in all his work, and a conscientious pastor. He was not only faithful, but he was efficient in the work to which his Lord called him and to which he gladly gave the best years of his life. His preaching was marked by originality. He put no faith in mere excitement. A successful ministry to him did not consist in crowded churches, full aisles, or approval of the public; but the evidence of ministerial success was found in altered lives and in obedient and humble hearts—the unseen work revealed only at the judgment seat. All this was vouchsafed unto him. He left no means untried by which to win men and women to the love and service of the Master. Brother Woodward was no ordinary man, measured by any just standard. He was a splendid Christian gentleman without a particle of parade or ostentation, yet he never for a moment declined to avow his religious convictions nor hesitated to defend the doctrines of his Church. He was an excellent citizen and a devoted friend. He gave himself to his friends whole-heartedly, without reservation. His home life was beautiful. No wife ever had a more devoted husband, nor children a fonder parent.—J. T. Blackwood.

MOSES J. MABRY, son of Dr. W. H. and Margaret Barr Mabry, was born in Shelby, N. C., on February 10, 1847. He was converted and joined the Church in 1859, when only twelve years of age. His father was a practicing physician and also a local preacher of merit. His mother was a strong and faithful Christian and a good keeper of her home. These good parents gave much attention to the early religious training and instruction of their boy. The family moved to Talladega County, Ala., soon after the conversion of their son, and it was there that Moses, while yet a lad, enlisted in the Confederate Army as a soldier for his country. As a soldier he remained consecrated and true to God and the Church to the close of the war. Returning to his home after two years of exposure and manly courage, it was reported of him that he was the youngest member of his company and that his daily conduct was without a flaw. His father died before the son returned to the grief-stricken home. A season of profound sorrow pervaded and gripped the manly heart of the dear boy as the scenes of devastation on every side spread out before him. He prayed, as was his habit from childhood, but with the more serious thought of what life was now demanding of him. The mother and his sister must be cared for. It was after one of these most serious approaches to God that he conceived the idea of leaving the old home place and of moving his mother and sister into other surroundings. After a brief consultation with his mother on the subject the plan was soon determined. The move was made to Tennessee, and the home was located in Lawrence County six or seven miles out from Lawrenceburg. Here in the new home Brother Mabry worked, prayed, and exercised his gifts in public religious gatherings until licensed to preach. On entering the ranks of the local ministry he had, as he told me, "new springs" put into his old purposes and religious desires, and now he felt that God wanted him for more constant use in the field. Accordingly, in Franklin, Tenn., in October, 1873, he applied for and was admitted on trial into the Tennessee Annual Conference. His forty-five consecutive appointments were: Loweryville Circuit, two years; Wayland Springs Circuit, one year; Savannah Circuit, four years; Wayland Springs Circuit, three years; Hampshire and Pisgah, three years; Stones River Circuit, three years; Hickory Creek Circuit, three years; Antioch Circuit, one year; Stones River Circuit, two years; Smyrna and Antioch, one year; Smyrna and Walnut Grove, one year; Christiana Circuit, three years; Rich Valley Circuit, four years; Medium and Petersburg, two years; Centerville Station, four years; Tullahoma Station, two years; Cornersville Station, four years; Smyrna and Hollandale, two and a half years, where on April 18, 1919, at the parsonage in Smyrna, Tenn., he fell on sleep in the presence of the loved ones of his home. His last moments were radiant with a spirit of resignation to the will of his divine and ever-present Comforter. His wife and some of his children were permitted to catch the last words of his cheer and hope while they administered lovingly and tenderly to his suffering body. Brother Mabry had not for several years preceding his departure a strong and robust body, but was never disabled to such an extent as to think of resting from his loved employ. Untiringly and successfully he moved on and met every engagement and duty. His last illness was of short duration and found him ready for life or death. His quarterly meeting was at hand and found all his reports ready and waiting when Rev. W. H. Johnston, the presiding elder, came on Saturday to hold the Quarterly Conference. Brother Johnston took charge of and conducted in a most impressive manner the funeral service of the faithful dead pastor in Smyrna Church, before a great throng of members of his charge, with other people who knew and loved our brother, together with a large assembly of Masons in regalia, all of whom sat with bowed heads and subdued spirits while the presiding elder, Rev.

J. P. Funk, and others spoke words appropriate of the dead pastor, friend, brother, comrade, husband, father, and citizen. Brother Mabry was three times married. His first wife was Elizabeth Jane Beasley, of Lawrence County, Tenn. To this union there were born six sons, four of whom went back to God while infants. Two, R. Marvin and Rev. John J. Mabry, yet live to honor the memory of father and mother. Brother Mabry's next marriage was with Emma McLaren, of St. Florein, Ala. One child, a son, Oscar, was the fruit of this marriage. He yet lives a useful and manly life as the result of parental love and training. The last wife was Pattie Brown, of Smyrna, Tenn. To them were born four children, three daughters and one son. One of the little girls went to heaven when just a child. Those surviving the father's death are Mrs. Frank Faulkenberry, of Howell, Tenn., Ollie Brown Mabry, of Birmingham, Ala., and Miss Mary Clark Mabry, of Smyrna, Tenn., who, with her mother and the greater number of his stricken children, were present that Good Friday with aching hearts to witness the beautiful rays and behold the gentle departure of their loved one's setting sun. As a man and citizen Brother Mabry was loved by all. Dignified, tall in stature, affable, pure in speech, he received the respect of all classes. It was a part of his everyday life to live his gospel before the world. His education was a result of a manly recognition of certain limitations and insuperable obstacles that would interfere mightily with such a work as seemed to lie out before him and would greatly hinder him in his contemplated purposes for his life work. Fortunately, he had a good mental and English training while a boy. To meet in some way what seemed to him most needed, and as the only way to approach a most helpful plan for getting this help, he sought the best company and the best books. By this method he obtained in absorption much that supplied the personality and magnificent decorum that adorned his after life. Moses Mabry was truly a man of God. In very simple soul-stirring speech he would often recall the time of his conversion. That period to him was the pivot around which all else revolved. At these times the swelling floods would sometimes overflow. I remember at one of our "side talks" he said to me, while speaking of his conversion, which finally terminated in his call to the ministry:

"Will, I know whom I have believed and am certain the good pleasure of God was revealed to me in his Son Jesus Christ." He loved to talk and preach about "being in Christ." With him the bedrock of all righteousness was love. This love of God in Christ Jesus became a holy fire as it was believed in by Moses Mabry. In fact, his ministerial life to the very end was made and kept radiant because of his close intimacy with an abiding and Supreme Presence.—W. J. Collier.

THOMAS SCOTT RANDLE was born in Natchez, Miss., October 17, 1842. His father, Rev. Richmond Randle, was a member of the Mississippi Annual Conference at the time, and afterwards became a charter member of the Louisiana Conference. His mother, Mary A. (Scott) Randle, was a very devout woman. It could only be expected that from such a Christian atmosphere a boy would be good while young and would become religious early in life. Such was the case with Brother Randle. He made a definite decision and joined the Church at thirteen years of age, but did not experience conversion until eighteen years old, when a soldier in the Confederate Army. He was admitted on trial into the Louisiana Conference in 1873 and was ordained deacon in 1875 and elder in 1877. He served the following charges: 1874, Floyd; 1875-76, Lind Grove, now Bonita; 1877, Rayville; 1878-79, Winnsboro; 1880, Mooringsport; 1881, Oak Ridge; 1882, Plaquemine and Gross Tete; 1833-84, Vermillionville, now Lafayette; 1835, Pleasant Hill; 1886, Lind Grove; 1887-89, Oak Ridge; 1890, Lake Providence; 1891-93, Opelousas; 1894-95, Lafayette and Rayne; 1896-99, superannuated; 1900-01, Wesley Circuit; 1902, Zwolle; 1903, Fort Jesup and Many; 1904-05, Pleasant Hill; 1906-07, Eros; 1908, Lanesville, now Sibley; 1909-11, Gilbert; superannuated, 1911 until his death. He was married to Miss Sallie Ross, daughter of Maj. E. W. K. Ross, of Bastrop, La., August 6, 1867. Eight children were born to them, three of whom, with his wife, survive. Brother Randle was a consecrated, sweet-spirited man. He was not only a good preacher, but he was also a good revivalist. After his father's death it is said that his mother prayed daily that God would lay his hand upon her two boys, call them into the ministry, and endue them with the Holy Spirit to take up the work of their father. They both believed that in answer to their mother's prayers they were divinely called. He was a sufferer a long time before he went away, but he leaned upon the "Everlasting Arms" and was sustained unto the end. His last words were words to his son, expressing the hope that he would be a blessing to the world. He gently "fell on sleep" in Yoakum, Tex., January 23, 1919.—A. S. J. Neill.

VIRGIL D. SKIPPER was born in Clarke County, Ala., December 9, 1853. His parents, John W. and Martha J. (Stanford) Skipper, moved to Stewart County, Ga., when he was an infant. In his boyhood days he attended the common country school during the summer months and worked on the farm the remainder of the year. When he was nineteen years of age his father sent him to a good school, where he learned rapidly because he applied himself diligently. While attending this school he was converted. Soon after his conversion he felt a call to preach, which he kept to himself; but it grew on him clearer and clearer for eight years. During this time he was a class leader, would pray in public, and occasionally make little talks in the prayer and class meetings. He was a school-teacher and taught in both public and private schools. On July 27, 1881, he was licensed to preach. At this time he was living near old Spring Church, within the bounds of the DeKalb Circuit, in the Mississippi Conference. After two years as a local preacher, he was admitted on trial into the Mississippi Conference, at Crystal Springs, Miss., in December, 1882. His appointments were as follows: Brandywine Circuit, 1883-84; Meadville Circuit, 1885-87; Mayersville Circuit, 1888-89; Rocky Springs Circuit, 1890; Walnut Grove Circuit, 1891; Sharon Circuit, 1892-93; Clinton Station, La., 1894; Homer Station, La., 1895; Alexandria District, 1896-98; Louisiana Avenue, 1899; New Iberia Station, 1900. In August, 1900, Bishop Galloway transferred him back to the Mississippi Conference and stationed him at Edwards, Miss., where he spent the remainder of 1900 and all of 1901, 1902, and 1903. He was stationed at Morton in 1904, West End (Meridian) in 1905, Hazlehurst in 1906, and Wesson Station in 1907. In 1908 Bishop Key transferred him to the Missouri Conference and appointed him to Canton Station, in Northeast Missouri. The climate was too cold for him; so in 1909 he was transferred back to the Louisiana Conference and was stationed at Mer Rouge. He was stationed at Leesville in 1910-12, at Tallulah in 1913-16, then back to Leesville in 1917-18. After thirty-six years of continuous service, finding himself afflicted and his strength failing, he was granted a superannuate relationship at the 1918 Conference. Brother Skipper was a most remarkable preacher. Some of his sermons were masterpieces and people would ask to have them repeated time and again. He assisted in many revivals and numbers joined the Church under his ministry. He died on Friday, July 11, 1919, and was buried at Hazlehurst, Miss., on Saturday, July 12. He leaves a widow and three children to mourn their loss.—Albert S. Lutz.

MOUNGER FAVRE ADAMS was born August 20, 1891, the youngest child and the only living son of Rev. T. W. Adams and his wife, Mrs. Julia Thompson Adams. This boy came to them during their sojourn at Pearlington, Miss. He was named for Dr. E. H. Mounger and for a family of devoted Methodist friends at Pearlington, and was baptized in infancy by Dr. Mounger. He was a worthy representative of that splendid army of men and women which the Methodist parsonage has given to the world in all its walks of life. When he was converted no one can remember, for as early as nine years Favre, in the absence of his father, was conducting the family worship, and his call to the ministry, clear and unmistakable, was one of the earliest facts of his consciousness. With steadfast purpose he set about preparation for his life work, receiving an A.B. degree from Millsaps College and the A.B. and A.M. from Trinity. He had also spent several months in graduate work at the University of Chicago and at Vanderbilt, and at the time of his death was doing Biblical work in Emory University. Brother Adams was licensed to preach in June, 1910, while yet a college student, and in December, 1913, he was admitted on trial into the Mississippi Conference and was ordained a local deacon by Bishop Candler. During the previous summer and fall he had served the Harriston charge as a supply, making his home at Lorman. During 1914 he was pastor at Fayette, in Jefferson County, and his pastorate there forms one of the brightest pages in the history of the charge, his removal to Flora at the end of the year being a matter of sincere regret to the people of that community. He served Flora three years immediately preceding our last Annual Conference, when he was ordained elder by Bishop Kilgo and was appointed, at his own request, as student at Emory University. On June 4, 1915, Favre was married to Miss Era Jenkins, the daughter of Brother and Sister J. M. Jenkins, at their home in Lumberton, and in this noble consecrated young woman he found a devoted partner in the sanctified ambition of his life. Some six weeks before his death there came to them a splendid baby boy to bear the name of Mounger Favre, Jr., and, we trust, to wear the mantle so early dropped by his earnest and lamented father. Brother Adams leaves three devoted sisters to share the grief of their bereaved father and mother, and the sorrow of the crushed wife and bereft baby. They are Mrs. Lera Toler, of Brookhaven, Mrs. W. R. Butler, of Gloster, and Mrs. P. M. Buie, of Driver, Ark. He died at Wesley Memorial Hospital, Atlanta, Ga., on January 10, 1919, and we buried him at Lumberton on Sunday afternoon, January 12, the service being conducted in the church in which he had preached to the delight of our people two Sundays before. At his funeral affectionate tribute was paid him by a number of his brethren.—H. B. Watkins.

HENRY POPE LEWIS, the eighth child of Quinne Lewis and Martha Spoir Lewis, was born in the old home in Marion County, Miss., April 1, 1836. He joined the Church when he was ten years old and in 1855, when nineteen years of age, was soundly and happily converted. He used to say of his experience: "I got a full start in my early Christian life and I have never willfully departed from my God." As an itinerant preacher Brother Lewis's strength was found; not in the possession of any one conspicuous gift, but in a combination of gifts that made possible a well-rounded and symmetrical character and a type of unusual efficiency. He was always safe, always available, always useful, always popular. Entering the ministry at a time when in our Conference there was scarcely any other character of appointment than the large and important circuits among the rural population, he found in these the field of his happiness and usefulness. He was licensed to preach in July, 1856, and received on trial into the Mississippi Conference in November, 1857, at a session of the Annual Conference held in Brandon and presided over by Bishop Early. His gentle and susceptible spirit was strongly impressed by his contact with his brethren, and he mentions with reverence the names of the strong men then prominent in the Conference. His appointment was Black Creek Circuit, comprising thirteen preaching places and covering all of Harrison County and parts of Perry and Marion. He used to say, with a smile, that his appointments on the circuit began with New Hope and ended with Good Hope. For ten years he traveled circuits, principally in the southeastern section of the Conference, his charges being Columbia, Franklinton, Cayuga (colored charge), Warren Mission (colored), Tylertown, and Mt. Carmel. In 1867 he was made presiding elder of the Paulding District, which he served two years, and after this, as preacher in charge, he served Franklinton, China Grove, Holmesville, Magnolia, and Amite Circuits. In 1883 we find him on Providence Circuit, where he labored three years, during which pastorate he was wounded and narrowly escaped death in a cyclone which destroyed the church in which the services were being held. Then came the pastorates at Lauderdale, Benton, Caseyville, Summit, Lake, Carthage, Yazoo, Fannin, and Gallman Circuits. At Gallman came the greatest sorrow of his life in the death of his noble wife, whose wise and loving ministry had been his joy for more than forty years. In 1905 he served the Vicksburg Circuit, shadowed by his sorrow in the death of his wife, but sustained by his unwavering faith. To him the same pastoral charge the next year was given, and then came the last stage of the itinerant journey—Liberty Circuit, where three years were spent, and where the pleasure of the Lord prospered in the hands of the veteran preacher. The last day of the itinerant life had come. It was known that the farewell sermon would be delivered and a great congregation gathered to hear the message of the beloved pastor. After the sermon the doors of the Church were opened and eight persons joined the Church. In 1909 he was granted the superannuate relation and moved to Jackson, where he spent the remaining years of his life. Everywhere his work was marked by revivals among the Churches and everywhere he so walked among his brethren that when his name was called at the Annual Conference sessions the answer was always given, "There is nothing against him." Brother Lewis was twice married. In his youth he met and loved and wedded Rebecca Ann Tillery, of Wilkinson County, Miss. She was the pride of his young manhood, the sharer of the fortunes of his long itinerant life, and the wise and devoted mother of his children. After the death of his wife, which occurred in August, 1904, he was married to Mrs. Louisiana Langston, a native of Mississippi, but for some years a resident of Arizona and Texas, where her first husband was a member of the Los Angeles and North Texas Conferences. They were married in 1907, and for twelve years this noble and devoted woman was the stay and comfort of his old age and the sympathetic and helpful mother of his children. The home life of Brother Lewis was especially happy. The mother was the center around which the congenial circle moved, but mother and children alike looked with affectionate pride to the father whose influence bound the happy group together. There were eleven children—seven boys, of whom the oldest, William Bryant, died in his childhood, and four daughters, one of whom, Ada, died in infancy. Of the surviving sons, the oldest, Charles, is a railroad yardman and lives in Meridian, Miss. The others, Barney W., John Tillery, Henry P., James M., and Osmond Summers, are Methodist preachers; and all but John Tillery, of the North Mississippi Conference, are members of the Annual Conference in which their honored father spent his life. The daughters are Elizabeth, Pattie, and Lela. Elizabeth, the eldest, was happily married, first, to Rev. James E. Jagers, a local preacher who died in 1889, and later to Mr. W. H. Griffin, of McComb City, Miss., and the youngest, Lela, is the wife of Rev. W. A. Terry, of the Mississippi Conference. Four of the sons and the preacher son-in-law are honored and loyal alumni of Millsaps College, and the four sons who are members of the Mississippi Conference are known throughout the State as the Lewis Brothers Quartette. It is pleasant to look upon these young men as examples of the promised blessing of God upon the children and grandchildren of the righteous man. Brother Lewis attended the session of the Conference in December last; but with the opening months of the new year came the evidence of increasing weakness and the signs of approaching dissolution. He became too weak to attend church and spent most of his time sitting on his front porch, ready to greet his passing friends, to talk of the great transition that was approaching, and to declare his confident trust in the Lord, who had redeemed him and to whose service his life had been given. A day came when a fall from a chair so injured him that he was confined to his bed, and on Saturday morning, July 26, he quietly passed away. The funeral services were held in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends in the great auditorium of the Galloway Memorial Church, after which his body was conveyed by train to McComb City, to rest beside the wife of his youth, the six sons acting as pallbearers from the train to the grave. Rev. W. M. Sullivan, of Columbia, Miss., conducted the services, assisted by Rev. Charles W. Crisler, Rev. J. M. Morse, and the writer of these lines.—A. F. Watkins.

EDWIN HARTFIELD MOUNGER was born, if not in "pioneer days," at least sufficiently near them to have tasted something of their lessons in hardihood and courageous living, for soon after his birth, in 1838, the family records show that his father, Judge Henry Mounger, and his mother, who had been Miss Ceila Millsaps, daughter of Judge Uriah Millsaps, moved to that portion of Jasper County which is now the site of Vossburg, and there cleared virgin forest land for the establishment of a home. Added to the advantage of thus being the foster child of vigorous nature, Dr. Mounger was rich in the heritage of wisdom, piety, and scholarship received from his own parents. Of his father, Dr. Mounger wrote: "He was an excellent scholar, and I had no other thought than that I must study and acquire an education." How full of meaning is that sentence! All his life, his mind was so filled with right ideals that he had no other thought than that he must live up to them to the best of his ability. He thought his mother was "a woman of rare good sense" and one who encouraged and aided him in every way. She provided for his youth a home atmosphere which was "wise, tender, elevated, beautiful, and refined"—where religion was the chief concern and the fire on the family altar was kept burning morning and evening. From such a home we are not surprised to find him make a successful entry into the next realm of his existence—the school world. In the common schools of his neighborhood and in several academies of the vicinity he secured such good instruction and applied himself so well that when he entered Centenary College, in 1857, it was found that he was prepared to do junior work. In this institution he excelled all of his classmates in scholarship, but was not awarded an honor because he had been only two years in residence at the college, while an honor required an attendance and study of four years. But his training had brought him more lasting pleasure than any "honor" could give, for during these days of study he had acquired a taste for and a knowledge of good literature which was to be an abiding joy throughout his years. His literary inclinations were toward the classic. Besides his mother tongue, he was proficient in French, Latin, and Greek. To the close of his life he read his Bible in Greek. Indeed his scholarship was so thorough and so comprehensive as to make him easily superior, in this particular, to most men of this day. After his graduation, a little more than a year was devoted to the study of law and to teaching for a few months in the Deaf and Dumb Institute at Baton Rouge. Then he answered the call to preach and, in November, 1860, was received into the Mississippi Conference. Four years previous to this time he had been "clearly and joyously converted" during a meeting at Pleasant Hill. During a period of about fifty years he served the Conference with zeal and ability. At the end of this time he superannuated. While in the Conference, he served some of the most important pastorates and was for many years a presiding elder. His Conference conferred upon him the distinction of making him delegate to the Ecumenical Conference. Dr. Mounger was especially interested in the educational work of the Church. He was a frequent visitor to all the Church schools of the State and was known throughout the Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences for his able commencement addresses. It was very fitting that his Alma Mater bestowed upon him the degree of D.D. The same month that he entered the Conference Dr. Mounger was married to Miss Mary Jane Jones, daughter of Rev. R. J. Jones, Sr., of the Mississippi Conference. For thirty-seven years she shared with him the joys and hardships of an itinerant minister's life. Among the special trials which they underwent together were the terrible days of yellow fever epidemic in 1867 at Yazoo City, and in 1878 at Port Gibson. On both these occasions they were found at their post of duty, holding high the banner of their King as they ministered to the sick and dying. Death claimed Mrs. Mounger in 1897. She left five children, all of whom now survive their father. They are: Judge Henry Mounger, of In-dianola; Mr. William Mounger, an enterprising merchant of Natchez; Mr. Edwin L. Mounger, a prominent lawyer of Greenwood; Mary Ethel Mounger, wife of the late Dr. J. J. Stevens, of Hattiesburg; and Dr. Harvey T. Mounger, a successful physician of Hattiesburg. In 1899 Dr. Mounger was married to Mrs. Sallie Folkes, a daughter of George Markham, of Warren County. After seventeen beautiful years of companionship she preceded him to the other world. On October 8, 1919, in the eighty-first year of his age, his spirit, too, was called to join the "choir invisible of the immortal dead." Immortal? Yes. We may think of him as enjoying a twofold immortality: the immortality of the spirit made perfect through continued service in another and brighter world; and that earthly immortality which comes through the silent force of influence.—I. W. Cooper.

Ques. 11. What preachers have died during the year? M. B. McKinney, S. C. Nunley. 2.

MARK BARRETT MCKINNEY was born in the State of Arkansas on March 19, 1869; died at Allen, Okla., January 2, 1919. The writer, assisted by Rev. Wallace M. Crutchfield, pastor at Ada, conducted the funeral services from the Methodist Church at Allen on January 3, after which the Masonic fraternity took charge of the body and deposited it by the side of his son, Marvin Armstrong, in the cemetery at Allen, there to await the morning of the resurrection. Early in life Brother

McKinney manifested decided inclinations to piety. At the age of thirteen he was converted and the next year united with the Missionary Baptist Church. His call to preach also came early, and at the age of twenty he was licensed in that Church and continued in its ministry for three years. For what reason I do not know, but about the year 1894 he left the communion of the Baptist Church, united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and entered the Northwest Texas Conference on trial. About this time "the second blessing theory" of sanctification was at its flood in Texas and he became an advocate of it. This brought on friction, and after two years of service, on Lebanon and Richland charges, he was discontinued at his own request. In 1901 he came with his family to the Indian Territory and took up work again in our Church, serving Antlers as a supply. In the fall of 1902 he entered the Indian Mission Conference on trial and has since served as follows: Chapel Circuit, 1902-03; Grove Circuit, 1903-04; Oakland and Mannsville, 1904-06; Kingston and Woodville, 1906-08; Colbert and Calera, 1908-12; Kenefic and Coleman, 1912-14; Milburn, 1914-15; Stonewall, 1915-17; Allen, 1917-19. His credentials show that he was ordained elder at Tulsa on November 18, 1906, by Bishop Key. This is the Conference at which Bishop Tigert died. Had he not died, Brother McKinney would have been ordained by him. During his pastorate at Oakland, Brother McKinney joined the Masonic fraternity, being initiated, passed, and raised by the lodge at Madill. Later he was made a Knight Templar at Durant. At the time of his death he was Master of the lodge at Allen, where he was held in great esteem for his many Masonic virtues as well as for his Christian character. On August 2, 1888, Brother McKinney was united in marriage to Miss Emmaline Harris. To this union the following children were born: Arrena Elizabeth, Charles Edmond, Mary Ann, Enola Emmaline, Charlotte May, Lula Belle, Mark Edgar, Normah Olive, John Wesley, Marvin Armstrong, Melvin Thomas, Sarah Abigail—five sons and seven daughters. Of these, Charles Edmond, Mary Ann, Charlotte May, Arrena Elizabeth, and Marvin Armstrong have died. The others, with their mother, survive him. Last October Brother McKinney fell a victim to influenza. Though he rallied for the time, and was even able to attend our last session of the Conference, he never completely recovered from the effects of that sickness. He frequently complained of a severe pain at the base of his skull behind his left ear, in consequence of which he asked for and obtained on the first day a leave of absence from the Conference for the remainder of the session. After Conference he continued to complain of this pain, though he went on with his work. He consulted a specialist and took treatment, but all to no purpose. In severe pain he filled his regular appointments at Calvin on December 29, went home on Monday, and that evening was installed as Master of the Masonic lodge. Tuesday morning he ate breakfast as usual, had a light luncheon at noon, and in the afternoon took to his bed and soon lapsed into unconsciousness, from which he never rallied. Early Thursday morning his spirit left its earthly house and swept out into the eternal world.—Thomas L. Brooks.

SAMUEL C. NUNLEY.—I deem it one of the blessings of my life to have known and loved S. C. Nunley. He and his estimable wife were close friends of my family, and we knew each other as dear friends know one another. Brother Nunley was a great soul. He possessed a massive mind and he was a cultured gentleman. While laboring with us on a meager salary, he had a standing offer of a position to teach Greek in a college at a much larger salary than he was receiving. He was a great preacher. Often while preaching he made me to think of Bishop Kavanaugh, that prince of preachers whom he resembled. He was but one of the many victims of influenza, having died in Kentucky while on a visit to his wife's kindred. He left a wife and three children.—C. H. Buchanan.

GEORGE FONTAINE was born in Clarke County, Ala., on June 20, 1836. In October, 1918, he had a fall which broke his hip and from the effects of which he never recovered. He died January 21, 1919, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. W. Q. Waite, in Grove Hill, Ala. Between these dates was lived a long life of high ideals and fruitful service. He did not enter the itinerancy until forty-nine years of age; but prior to this time he was for years a useful local preacher, serving many times as supply pastor of different charges in the Alabama Conference. Brother Fontaine was twice married—in 1860 to Miss Margaret Q. Dumas, who died in 1876, and in 1878 to Miss Martha D. Miers, who died in 1906. Both were real helpmates to him, women of high Christian character, who helped their consecrated husband both by precept and example in bringing up their children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. To the first marriage were born seven children, four of whom survive; to the second marriage seven children were given—all of whom are still living. At the time of his death our brother had twenty-two grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. All of his living descendants who have attained years of discretion are filling well their places in the Church and society. Verily they have a goodly heritage in the memory of the record made by this man of God. Brother Fontaine was admitted on trial by the Alabama Conference at Union Springs, Ala., in December, 1885, and served the following charges for the years named: Salem Circuit, 1886; Monroeville, 1887-90; Crawford, 1891-92; Loachapoka, 1893-96; Lower Peach Tree, 1897-1900; Grove Hill, 1901-02; Dayton and Spring Hill, 1903-04; Shady Grove, 1905; Georgiana, 1906-09. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Pierce at Selma, Ala., in December, 1881, and elder by Bishop Wilson at Union Springs in December, 1885, as a local preacher. At the Conference held at Opelika in December, 1909, he was superannuated and remained in that relation until his death. For forty years he served as one of the Secretaries of the Alabama Conference and for thirty-six years as Recording Secretary. He wrote with his own hand the journal of the Conference. This journal was commended frequently by the General Conference Committee on Journals as a model of accuracy, neatness, and beauty of penmanship. He entered the secretarial service when he was a local preacher and remained in it until the end of his life. Before joining the Conference Brother Fontaine was tax assessor of Wilcox County, Ala., in which office he rendered faithful and satisfactory service to his county and State. He served as a Confederate officer with the troops of his State until incapacitated for further service by a severe wound received in the battle of Chickamauga. Brother Fontaine believed with all his heart the gospel of his Lord and preached that gospel in its fullness to his people. He did not cease to preach with his superannuation, but continued that labor of love as opportunity offered as long as he lived. He was a faithful and sympathetic pastor, doing well all the work to which he was assigned. Faithful in every relation of life, a guileless soul, a consecrated Christian, a devoted husband and father, a true friend, his life was a success in the highest sense and his death that of the righteous.—A. J. Lamar.

CHARLES B. PILLEY was born September 2, 1850, and passed to his eternal reward February 2, 1919. He was the son of a Methodist minister in Alabama and hence inherited an excellent character and an extraordinary love for the Church of his father. At an early age he began to preach, and for half a century declared the riches of the gospel of his Lord. Forty-three years of this period were spent in the itinerancy of the Alabama Conference. He was admitted on trial in 1876 and remained in the active ministry until his death, at Florala, Ala. During these years he served many circuits and stations and as presiding elder of the Marianna District. At that time the country was unsettled and almost a wilderness. For miles he rode through the forests to his appointments hearing no sound save the moaning of the lofty pines and the still small voice that spoke to his pious soul. Perhaps more people in Southeast Alabama have heard the gospel of Jesus from his lips than from the tongue of any other preacher of his day. He met his appointments faithfully and discharged with fidelity every trust imposed upon him. He was kind, loving, and considerate, yet he stood boldly for the right and denounced the wrong. He was open, frank, and candid. He was a self-educated man of profound intellect and deep piety. As pastor he was tender, earnest, and untiring; constantly looking after the sick and afflicted. In sorrow he was sunshine and flower; in happiness he was joy and laughter. His personal touch was irresistible and his rebuke biting but sympathetic. He served the Church at Geneva two quadrenniums at different times and left an imperishable monument to his memory in the lives of its people. It was fitting that his last obsequies should be performed in the church he so long and faithfully served, and that his remains should rest in the midst of a people so devoted to his memory. The State has lost a great citizen, we have lost a great friend, and the Church a great preacher; but the celestial city has gained a great saint, and he has inherited a brilliant crown.

WALTER P. DICKINSON was born near Tuskegee, Ala., August 27, 1850; died at Eufaula, March 5, 1919. The son of Rev. R. R. Dickinson, of the Alabama Conference, and his wife, Cornelia Elizabeth Chapman, he enjoyed the inestimable advantage of being reared in a true Christian home, where by precept and example he was taught the supremacy of Christ in all things. The lessons learned here incorporated into the very tissue of his being led to his early consecration of himself to the service of his Lord and fruited in a spiritual life of rare beauty and evenness. When only fourteen years of age (his older brother being away in the Confederate army), the death of his father threw upon him the heavy responsibility of caring for his mother and his younger brothers and sisters, a responsibility which was assumed cheerfully and the requirements of which were faithfully and successfully met. This prevented him from completing his school education; but being a diligent student, by constantly reading good books on many lines of thought, he overcame this handicap and made himself an educated, well-informed, and cultured man. For a while during this early period of his life he taught school at Eclectic, in Elmore County, and learned while he taught. On December 23, 1874, he was married to Miss Virginia Orr, of Atlanta, Ga., with whom he walked in fullest love and sympathy to the end of his earthly life. To them were born three sons and four daughters, all of whom survive except the first-born son, Emmet McCarty, a youth of great promise, who died in Mobile, Ala., in 1890, at the age of fourteen. Their home life was ideal. To be in that home as an intimate guest was a high privilege. Mutual love and confidence reigned in the family circle and characterized all the intercourse of its members with each other. While teaching at Eclectic Brother Dickinson answered the call to preach, which he had felt for some time had been given from above, and received license to preach from the Quarterly Conference in 1875. At the same time he was recommended for admission to the Annual Conference. He was admitted on trial by the Alabama Conference at its session that year held in Greenville. He was admitted into full connection by the Conference in Montgomery in 1877 and ordained deacon by Bishop Keener, and ordained elder by Bishop Paine at Tuskegee, Ala., in December, 1879. In the course of his itinerant career he filled the following appointments: 1876-77, Pollard Circuit; 1878-79, Powelton Circuit; 1880-81, Loachapoka Circuit; 1882-85, Marion; 1886-88, Greensboro; 1889-92, St. Francis Street, Mobile; 1893-94, Eufaula; 1895-98, Court Street, Montgomery; 1899-1900, Government Street, Mobile; 1901-03, St. Francis Street, Mobile; 1904-06, Opelika; 1907-09, Church Street, Selma; 1910-13, Prattville; 1914-15, presiding elder, Dothan District; 1916-18 and 1919 to the time of his tragic death, he served again First Church, Eufaula. The end came suddenly, tragically, unexpectedly; but it found him ready. Instantly killed in the fearful cyclone which swept the city of Eufaula on March 5, 1919, he was on the Master's business when the summons came. Just a moment before the walls of the building into which he had gone on business of the Church fell before the fury of the storm, one who was near him cried out: "Dr. Dickinson, what shall we do?" Quietly he replied: "We are in the hands of the Lord." With this confession of faith on his lips he went away to be with his Lord forever. On the afternoon of March 7 funeral services were held in the church he had built in Eufaula, more than twenty of his brethren of the Conference being present, with a congregation that taxed the capacity of the building. His body was carried from Eufaula to Prattville and Saturday morning, the 8th, was laid to rest in the cemetery at that place.—A. J. Lamar.

W. J. PRICE was born October 24, 1850, and fell asleep in Jesus on November 30, 1919. He gave himself to God and to the Methodist Church in early manhood and was faithful in all the changes of life. He joined the Alabama Conference in 1884 and was received into full connection in 1886. Brother Price was a hard worker, a zealous preacher, and a unique character. He never learned to care for himself, therefore his strength gave way in the days of his usefulness, and he had to stop, to his great sorrow. For years he was supernumerary in our Conference, but was never idle. When he could not preach he worked otherwise; and though he could not go as an itinerant preacher, he did not cease to preach, supplying work when able to do so. Living in Russell County, Ala., his friends elected him to represent them in the halls of said State, and so faithful was he that when his time was out as representative he was elected senator, and again he went forth to serve his constituents. He was employed in the Phoenix-Girard Bank, more for his influence than his work, and his presence did much in building up the bank. When the Citizens' Bank of Girard was organized, he was placed in charge and did most of the work until it was consolidated with the Phoenix-Girard, and he continued with the consolidation. All this time his heart was that of a Methodist preacher, and he often said: "I had rather be a preacher than anything else in the world." His health improved, and he asked for work in December, 1916. He was sent to the Shady Grove Circuit, where he served 1917 and 1918. In December, 1918, he was appointed to the Millville Circuit, and he did his work well, but his physical strength gave way under the strain of the Centenary drive, and he was forced to give up his work in May, 1919. He went home to spend the evening of his life with his children. When the end came he was ready. Sinking, he was thought to be gone; but lingering a little longer, he said: "You have pulled me out of heaven." He did not stay out long. On November 30, 1919, he answered roll call on the other side; and we laid him by the side of his wife at Girard, Ala., December 1, 1919, to sleep in Jesus.—P. M. Guthrie.

GEORGE BUCKNER GRACE, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Grace, was born at Graceville, Fla., October 30, 1890; died at Wilmore, Ky., July 19, 1919. "B.," as he was familiarly known, was converted and joined the M. E. Church, South, when quite a boy. As a boy he was devout, conscientious, never indulging in any questionable amusement, always punctual in his religious life. Feeling in early life the divine call to the ministry, he began preparation by attending the Southern University, at Greensboro, Ala., and then Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky. While there he met Miss Ada Sagener, to whom he was happily married December 28, 1916. She proved to him a helpmeet indeed, sharing alike with him the labor, trials, joys, and victories of the Christian ministry and nursing him with great care in his last illness. During the year 1917 he was given the Coffeeville Circuit as supply. In December of that year, at Dothan, Ala., he was received on trial into the Alabama Conference and assigned to Leon Circuit. He and his faithful wife entered upon their work with great fidelity. In the fall of that year the fearful epidemic of "flu" raged throughout his work. He ministered unto the bodily and spiritual needs of his people until he fell a victim to the dread disease. He was unable to attend the session of the Conference in Mobile last year. He was returned to the work, to the delight of his people. But his frail body was unable to resist the ravages of the fearful disease that had laid hold upon him. In the spring he gave up his work and returned to his home folks in Graceville, in the hope that complete rest would restore him. Then he went to Kentucky, to the home of his wife, with the hope that a higher climate might help him; but God willed it otherwise. When told that the doctor said he could not possibly recover, he gave a message for his brother, told where he was to be buried and whom he wanted to preach his funeral. As a son he was obedient; as a husband, loving; as a preacher he was plain, simple, quiet, scriptural, spiritual. His Bible was his constant companion. His remains were carried back to his native town, and his funeral was conducted by the writer, assisted by Rev. H. M. Andrews, and attended by a large concourse of relatives and friends.—J. B. Tate.

NELSON HINESLEY was born in Carroll County, Ga., August 27, 1885; died January 20, 1919, at Burwell, Ga. His parents were John T. and Harriet E. Hinesley. Possessed of a rugged determination to make the most of himself, he took advantage of such educational opportunities as could be brought within his reach, and so prosecuted his studies at the country school near his home, at the Whitesburg High School, Young Harris and Bowdon Colleges, and for a short time at Vanderbilt University. He entered the itinerancy in 1912, and served the following charges: Resaca, 1913-15; Calhoun Circuit, 1916-17; Subligna Circuit, 1918. At the end of this year he took the supernumerary relation, but did not long outlast his active ministry, falling a victim of influenza. On November 11, 1914, Brother Hinesley was married to Miss Mary Stacy, of Dalton, Ga., who outlived him only five days, succumbing to the same terrible scourge. They are survived by one little daughter. Nelson Hinesley's work, like that of the Apostle Paul, was done under great difficulty. Before he finished school rheumatism left him lame for life. The disease never left him, and he often suffered great pain. But in spite of this thorn in the flesh, he taught school, preached the gospel, visited his people, doing all the work of an itinerant Methodist preacher, and doing it well. His preaching was clear, strong, and convincing, and often bore immediate fruit.—W. T. Irvine.

WILLIS TUCKER CALDWELL was born near Greenville, Ga., August 12, 1840; died at Sparta, Ga., February 12, 1919. His body rests beside that of his wife, in Senoia, Ga., awaiting the general resurrection call. We have no information as to his early life and training, but from his strong intelligence and saintly character we assume that he must have had both intellectual and Christian training of high order. He was admitted on trial into the Georgia Annual Conference held in Columbus, Ga., November 25 to December 3, 1863, three years before the division of the Conference. With him E. K. Aiken, James A. Baugh, J. O. A. Cook, J. R. Deering, and W. C. Malloy were also admitted. From the division of the Conference to the time of his death he was a member of the North Georgia Conference. His appointments were as follows: 1864, Stewart Circuit, junior preacher; 1865, Sumter Circuit, junior preacher; 1866-67, Gainesville Circuit; 1868, Hancock Circuit, junior preacher; 1869, Milledgeville; 1870-71, Dahlonega District; 1872, Sparta; 1873, Barnesville and Salem; 1874-75, Conyers; 1876-77, Putnam; 1878, Troup; 1879-80, Greenville and Trinity; 1881-84, East Putnam; 1885-87, Greensboro; 1888, Norwood; 1889-90, Culverton; 1891, Austell; 1892-93, Acworth; 1894, Douglasville; 1895, Tallapoosa; 1896-99, East Putnam; 1900, Baldwin Circuit; 1901-02, Senoia; 1903-06, Bolton. In November, 1906, he was given the superannuate relation and remained in that relation until his passing away. He was gentle, courteous, true, just, diligent, and faithful. Better still, as the source and foundation of these moral traits, was his devotion to our Lord and his Church, which showed no decline even in the years of his superannuation. He nearly wore his Bible out reading it. His long service as pastor was blessed by great revivals, and under his ministry many were saved and added to the Church.

SAMUEL BYRD LEDBETTER, son of Rev. and Mrs. Lewis L. Ledbetter, was born at Lagrange, Ga., November 12, 1858; died at La Fayette, Ga., February 13, 1919. On January 5, 1885, he was married to Miss Susie Ellis, of Greenville, Ga., who died May 3, 1903. No children issued from this union. On April 11, 1906, he was married to Miss Emma Napier, of La Fayette, Ga., who survives him. This union was blessed with the following children: Cornelia Byrd, Samuel Byrd, Carolina Napier, Katherine Doyle, and Elizabeth Forbes. Born into a parsonage home, he was no stranger to the hardships or to the joys of a Methodist itinerant's life. Here were made the first impressions on him of what a Christian's home should be. No doubt this had much to do with making the home life in his own household so beautiful and happy for all who came into its circle. Taught the fundamentals of Christianity from infancy, and breathing the atmosphere of piety at home, where the fragrant incense of worship ascended to Almighty God night and morning from the family altar, it was natural for him, as he did, to know Christ as a personal Saviour from early childhood. He was instructed in the Holy Scriptures from early youth, and was never disturbed or unsettled in his faith or preaching by "issues" or books that inveighed against the doctrines of repentance, regeneration, the witness of the Spirit, and holy living, as essentials for a child of God. His father having died when he was but a boy, his mother moved to a farm in Polk County, Ga., where it became his duty and pleasure to do what he could to help support the family. Thus he was reared, going to school as he could until he completed the high school course. A little later the way opened for him to go to Emory College, where he spent two years in earnest study. Before he could complete his course, however, and secure his diploma, he had to leave college and go to work again. Securing a position in Columbus, he soon manifested splendid business ability and won the confidence and high esteem of his employers. But God had called him to preach, and so clear was the call and so willing was he to obey it that, contrary to the advice of loved ones who were anxious for him to make money enough to complete his college course, and over the protest of his employers, who told him to name his own salary and they would pay it, he turned his back on the business world, not stopping to confer with flesh and blood, and entered the Methodist itineracy. He joined the North Georgia Conference at Trinity Church, Atlanta, in 1884. He served the following charges: South Rome, 1885; Subligna, 1886; Dallas, 1887-88; Cave Spring, 1889-90; Lawrenceville, 1891-92; East Putnam, 1893-95; Epworth, 1896-98; Covington, 1899; Jackson, 1900; Marietta District, 1901-04; Rome District, 1905-08; St. John, Atlanta, 1909-11; Lagrange, 1912; Buford, 1913; Barnesville, 1914; Dalton, 1915;

Dalton District, 1916-19, until called from there to rest. The outstanding characteristic of his life was fidelity. The soul of honor, he was true in every relationship of life. He manifested the same careful painstaking attention to the details of his work in whatever place he was called to fill. Of open mind, he possessed that broad vision that sought only to know the truth of any question under discussion. He was generous-hearted and sympathetic. Having been left an orphan, he knew the struggles and toils of the poor boys and was never happier than when enabled to make their burdens lighter and their paths a little smoother. He was for years, and until his death, the Secretary and Treasurer of the Widows and Orphans' Aid Society of his Conference, and in no part of his work was he more faithful or took more delight. He was deeply interested in Christian education, and with his pen, his time, and his substance contributed to this cause; serving on the Boards of Trustees of Lagrange Female College and Reinhardt College, being President of the latter at the time of his death. To the interests of these he gave unstinted effort and serious thought. He recognized the value of the Church paper in forwarding the interests of the Church, ever seeking to enlarge its circulation, writing for its columns and giving his best judgment to its management in his capacity as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Wesleyan Christian Advocate for several years. In each relation he was faithful and true. He let none of these things, however, nor anything else, sidetrack or divert him from his one business—that of an itinerant preacher. He loved and gave his life to this call from God, and in this consecration he never faltered or drew back. In the midst of his work he was stricken, and fell under the blow. Away from home, on his quarterly visitation, lodged in the parsonage of the pastor of La Fayette, Ga., he was taken sick. Although unable to go to the church, he called the Quarterly Conference to his room and held it there. Born in the parsonage of his father, giving his life to the ministry, he laid down his work in the midst of his labors and in a few hours from the home of his sister-in-law went to his rest in heaven.—J. W. Quillian.

B. P. ALLEN has passed into the eternal world. He filled many important positions in the Church and Conference. He loved the Church and its institutions, and gave to it his full life, but he loved his fellow man beyond them all. He was converted in early childhood and gave his heart and life fully to God. His life was without ambition, but filled with the noblest aspirations to be and serve. He filled well every place to which he was called by his Church. He was a preacher of high order. His sermons were carefully prepared and delivered with convincing force. His home was the realm in which he delighted to dwell. As a husband and father he was almost ideal. He lived in close communion with God, and when the call came for him to go up higher he went into His presence with great joy. He was born at Fort Valley, Ga., February 26, 1862. His father was Rev. William George Allen, a member of the North Georgia Conference, and his mother was Mrs. Georgia Ann Allen. He was educated at Emory College. While in Florida teaching school he heard the call of the ministry and joined the Conference in 1885. His health failed and he came back to Georgia and taught school in Meriwether County, where he met and was married to Miss Nettie Bray, July 3, 1887. He was admitted on trial into the North Georgia Conference in 1888 and served the following places: Belton Circuit, 1888; Bethlehem, 1889-90; Toccoa, 1891-93; West Point Circuit, 1894-95; Cartersville, 1896-98; Dalton District, 1899-1901; Lagrange District, 1902-05; Elberton, First Church, 1906; Cedartown, 1907-10; Athens District, 1911-14; Lagrange District, 1915-18; superannuated at the Conference in Atlanta in November, 1918. He went to live in Decatur, Ga., from which place he ascended into heaven on July 2, 1919. He was ordained deacon in 1888 by Bishop Keener. He was ordained an elder in 1892 by Bishop Fitzgerald. He was given the degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1911 by Emory College. He was a delegate to two General Conferences, 1906 and 1910. He served as a Trustee of the Lagrange College and the Wesleyan Christian Advocate for several years, was on the General Board of Church Extension, was at the time of his death President of the Widows and Orphans' Aid Society of his Conference, and was in 1915 appointed on the Court of Appeals of the Southern Methodist Church.—R. F. Eakes.

CHRISTOPHER ALEXANDER JAMISON was the son of Dr. E. H. and Mrs. Georgiana Duke Jamison, and was born in Fairfield County, S. C., about 1852. It is impossible to fix the exact date, because his mother died while he was quite young and the family record was lost, but he was about sixty-seven years old. After his mother's death he lived with his grandmother awhile, and when she died he made his home with a sister, leaving that home after staying there for a season. At the age of twelve years, during the Civil War, his two older brothers, who had entered the Confederate Army and who later lost their lives in the war, persuaded him to run away and go where they were. He became a drummer boy, and while with the soldiers received a severe wound in the shoulder. Coming home after the war ended, he drifted to Augusta, Ga., having been converted in early life, and in this city he felt impressed that he ought to preach and was licensed to do so. In 1880, at the Conference at Rome, Ga., he was received on trial, was ordained deacon in 1883 by Bishop Pierce, and was ordained elder in 1885 by Bishop Wilson. On December 27, 1893, he was married to Miss Florence Hill, of Rome, Ga., by Rev. George W. Duval, in the First Methodist Church in that city, and in the same church his funeral services were held, Brother Duval having charge of the services. His appointments were as follows: 1881, Hancock Circuit, junior preacher; 1882-83, Clayton Circuit, junior preacher; 1884-85, Ellijay Circuit; 1886, Dahlonega; 1887-90, Toccoa; 1891-93, Rome, City Mission; 1894-95, Monroe; 1896, Harmony Grove; 1897, Kingston; 1898, Sunday School Agent; 1899-1901, Kingston; 1902-03, Greensboro; 1904-09, Superintendent Orphans' Home; 1910-11, supernumerary. The last six months of 1911 he filled out a vacancy at Battle Hill charge, Atlanta. At the close of that year he was made effective, and his appointments were as follows: 1912, Battle Hill, Atlanta; 1913, Kirkwood and East End; 1914, Villa Rica and Temple; 1915, Mount Vernon, Atlanta; 1916-17, Center Street, Atlanta. At the close of the Conference of 1917 he felt that the time had come to cease active labors as an itinerant, so he asked for and was granted a superannuate relation, after which he made his home near Norcross, Ga., where he passed away November 7, after a protracted illness. His health gradually failing this year, he was compelled to go to Wesley Memorial Hospital for examination and treatment, and there submitted to a major surgical operation, which disclosed very serious internal troubles. He then went home, and after gradually declining he left earth for heaven, surrounded by his family. Brother Jamison was a preacher above the average, though he was not blessed with many early educational advantages. He was clear in his thought, forceful in delivery, and impressive in speech. He was a faithful and devoted husband, true in all the relations of the home, a good father, loving his children and seeking to bring them up in the fear of the Lord. He leaves his stricken wife and two daughters and two sons. Just before he passed away he repeated the twenty-third Psalm, while the last words which were heard to escape his lips were "Jesus, blessed Jesus." His body lies in Myrtle Hill Cemetery, Rome, the sacred dust being watched over by ministering spirits till the resurrection morn, then to arise a spiritual body at the call of the trump of God. But his disembodied and blood-washed spirit is in heaven, that place of which he often sang and thought, for which he lived, and upon which his affections were placed.—Clement C. Cary.

Ques. 11. What preachers have died during the past year? B. G. Vaughan, D. H. Attaway, J. C. Davis. 3.

DREW H. ATTAWAY was born at Blackville, S. C., in the year 1886. His parents were Rev. A. McSwain Attaway and Belle Harris Attaway, and his grandfather was the Rev. John Attaway, of sainted memory. When Drew was fourteen years of age his father died, and he supported his mother, one brother, and six sisters for some years. He grew up in Pickens County, united with the Church at about twelve years of age, was largely self-educated, spending just one year at Wofford College. In 1908 he was married to Miss Gertrude McWhorter, of Liberty, S. C., and she, with two children, Nona Lee and Ruth, survives him. He was especially talented as an architect and builder, and he could have multiplied many times in this line of work the meager salary of the ministry. At Brandon, near Greenville, he was happily reclaimed, and consecrated himself to the service of God and his Church. When entering the ministry he could hardly speak in public at all, but by diligent study and sustained effort he became an effective preacher and successful pastor. He had splendid revivals everywhere he ministered. He served as a supply at Fort Mill in 1914; North Rock Hill, 1915; Brookland, 1916-17; was admitted on trial at Bishopville in December, 1917, and appointed to Aynor Circuit. He built an elegant parsonage at Fort Mill. He loved very much his first presiding elder, the late Rev. R. L. Holroyd, who was a great help to the young preacher. He helped to build a home for Brother Holroyd's widow while on the North Rock Hill Circuit. He built a church at Cayce, on the Brookland charge, and built Sunday school rooms at Brookland. His most remarkable work perhaps was at Aynor, his last charge, a large circuit with five appointments. Finding no church in the new town at Aynor, he enlisted helpers, went into the forests, felled the trees, hauled them to the mill, prepared the lumber, and built a church of his own designing that would be a credit to a much larger town. Besides dedicating this church within the year, he completed his Conference Course of Study for the year and kept up the work of the circuit. Few among us could have done what he did, and the beautiful modern church at Aynor is his monument to-day. At the Conference last year he was reappointed to Aynor, and he had become the leading spirit in the successful campaign for $25,000 to relocate the Horry Industrial School at Aynor. He was stricken with influenza and pneumonia, and with a clean, clear record, and a triumphant faith, he fell asleep February 22, 1919. Two little girls, wide-eyed in wonder and sorrow, clung to mother and said, "Papa is not dead." We can see no further than they into the great mysteries of God's ways with men; but we can say of our friend, as our Lord said of his friend as he stood at his grave, "He is not dead, but sleepeth." The workman has but laid down his tools and gone home to be with the great Architect of the Universe, and we shall hope to see him again.—S. C. Morris.

JAMES CONADE DAVIS, son of Elijah and Ellen Davis, was born in Pickens County, S. C., April 28, 1849; died at Columbia, S. C., April 6, 1919. He attended the common schools of the county until the Civil War, which interrupted his educational career; but after the war he went for a while to a school at Cedar Hill, Spartanburg County; then, after he had been admitted into the Conference on trial, feeling the need of a better educational preparation, he spent two years at Wofford College. This training served him well in his long and useful life as a Methodist preacher. All through life he was a student of the Bible. Early in life Brother Davis heard the call to preach. This impression lingered with him until he was a young man, when, at the age of twenty-one, he was converted, joined the Methodist Church, and felt assured that if it were God's will, preaching the gospel would be his life work. That was in 1870. The next year, 1871, he was given license to exhort, and in the early part of the following year he was licensed to preach. At its session held in Anderson, S. C., in December, 1872, Bishop Paine presiding, Brother Davis was admitted on trial into the South Carolina Conference, with R. W. Barber, C. D. Mann, G. H. Pooser, and W. A. Rogers. With the exception of the two years at Wofford, he served the Conference consecutively for forty-five years on the following charges: Cherokee Mission, 1873; Spartanburg Circuit, 1874; student at Wofford, 1875-76; North Marlboro Circuit, 1877-78; Lynch's Creek Circuit, 1879; Black River Circuit, 1880-81; Lake City Circuit, 1882-84; Walhalla Circuit, 1885; Pickens Circuit, 1886-87; Hanging Rock Circuit, 1888-91; Clifton Circuit, 1892; New Zion Circuit, 1893-94; Scranton Circuit, 1895-96; Williston Circuit, 1897-99; Round-O Circuit, 1900-03; Clyde Circuit, 1904; Conway Circuit, 1905-08; Swansea Circuit, 1909-10; Laurens Circuit, 1911-12; Camden Circuit, 1913-14; Honey Hill Circuit, 1915; Salters Circuit, 1916-17. At the session of the Conference held at Bishopville in November, 1917, he asked for, and was granted, the superannuate relation, which relation he sustained until his death. Brother Davis loved to preach, and his gospel messages were often very effective. He was not only an earnest, spiritual, and effective preacher, but also a faithful pastor. Brother Davis was twice married: first, to Miss Henrietta Patrick, of Marlboro County; second, to Miss Jerusha Anderson, of Horry County. To his first wife were born ten children; to the second, three: Bert Anderson, Gertrude, and Clarence, the latter dying in infancy.—D. A. Phillips.

BENJAMIN GREGG VAUGHAN was born September 17, 1879. He was the son of Rev. Samuel D. and Lou R. Vaughan. It is regretted that the date of his license to preach could not be obtained for this memoir. At the Conference of 1907 he accepted work as a supply, and was appointed to Yorges Island charge. He continued to serve in this capacity for several years. At the Anderson Conference, in 1912, he was admitted on trial into the Conference. Immediately he was transferred to the Pacific Conference, where he served consecutively the Mountain View, Lake Park, and Woodland charges. In his adopted Conference he was rapidly promoted. But he was lonely; his heart yearned for home and the friends of former days, and especially for the companionship of his father and mother, whom he dearly loved. For these reasons he transferred back to the South Carolina Conference in 1916, and was appointed to the Hendersonville Circuit. At the Conference of 1917 he was appointed to Summerville Station, where he was able to preach for only a short while, when his health failed, and he was forced to give up his work. On June 19, 1917, Brother Vaughan was married to Miss Jean Irvin, of Kelseyville, Cal., who survives him. Brother Vaughan had a keen sense of humor. This, as he often said, he inherited from his father. His booklet of humorous stories was written after the dread disease had fastened its grip upon him, when, probably, he had but little, if any, hope of recovery. With his devoted bride of only a few months, with his career cut short and earthly prospects blighted, to have been able to send a message of "Cheer Up" out into the world was evidence of his triumphant faith in God. Thousands in reading his booklet have had "dull care driven away" and their lives cheered and brightened. A few months after the return of Brother Vaughan to the South Carolina Conference God called his father to his blessed reward. On December 28, 1918, he was likewise summoned, and only a few months later his mother joined her husband and son in heaven.—L. L. Bedenbaugh.

ALEXANDER DAVIS BETTS was the son of William and Temperance Utley Betts, and was born in Cumberland (now Harnett) County, N. C., on August 25, 1832. His boyhood days were spent on a farm, and he loved to the end of his days the running brook, the wild flower, and the singing bird. He was educated at Summersville Academy and the University of North Carolina, receiving from the university at different times the degrees of A.B., A.M., and D.D. He was converted at Chapel Hill, N. C., October 15, 1853, and was licensed to preach in 1855. He was admitted on trial into the North Carolina Conference in 1856 and served the following charges: Sampson Circuit, 1857-58; Smithville Circuit, 1859; Elizabethtown Circuit, 1860; Smithville Circuit, 1861. On October 25, 1861, he was commissioned as a chaplain in the Confederate Army and served faithfully through the war. General Lee spoke of him as "that model chaplain." He walked for hours at a time that some footsore, sick, or wounded soldier might ride his horse. He visited and prayed with prisoners. To friend and foe alike he carried the message of God. To the end of his life he was thanked by people back home for his kindness to their men.

who were soldiers, and for letters he wrote, telling of them when sick or wounded or dead—and many of these men claimed him as their spiritual father. He was filled with the Spirit; for in those trying days he records the fact that he was in "perfect peace." He writes of seven days in the saddle from Chapel Hill to Richmond as the happiest days of his life until then. He was a patriot as well as a Christian. When Lee surrendered he went to Johnston's army, and when Johnston surrendered he went, as ordered, to the Federal headquarters and was paroled near Chapel Hill, N. C. After the war he served the following charges: Topsail Circuit, 1866-69; Oxford Circuit, 1870-71; Rolesville Circuit, 1872-73; Ansonville Circuit, 1874-75; Mt. Pleasant Circuit, 1876-77; North Guilford Circuit, 1878-79; Dublin Circuit, 1880-82; Carteret Circuit, 1883; Jones Circuit, 1884-86; Nashville Circuit, 1887-88; Swan Quarter Circuit, 1889; Wilson Circuit, 1890; Goldston Circuit, 1891; Maxton Circuit, 1892-93; Rockingham Circuit, 1894; New Bern, Hancock Street, 1895-96; Rocky Mount Circuit, 1897-98; Ayden Circuit, 1899-1900; Bethel and Jamesville Circuit, 1901; Cokesbury Circuit, 1902; Lillington Circuit, 1903-04; Spring Hope Circuit, 1905; Town Creek Circuit, 1906-07; Shallotte Circuit, 1908. At the Conference held by Bishop A. W. Wilson at Durham, N. C., December 9-14, 1908, he asked and obtained the superannuate relation, being then in his seventy-seventh year. But his work was not ended. From the day of his superannuation he regarded himself free to work in a larger parish. He never got in any one's way, but he went into many charges, preached, visited the people, especially visited in schools and prisons—and everywhere he was regarded as a real benediction. Brother Betts was married May 12, 1855, to Miss Mary E. Davis; on October 26, 1881, he was married the second time to Miss Priscilla M. Debnam, who survives him. Of his eleven children, only six are living—namely, Rev. W. A. Betts, Olanta, S. C.; J. R. Betts, Macon, N. C.; Miss Sallie Betts, Louisburg, N. C.; Dr. J. S. Betts, Greensboro, N. C.; Mrs. L. P. Wilkins, Sanford, N. C., and Mrs. R. L. Davis, Raleigh, N. C. With his son, Dr. Betts, at Greensboro, Brother Betts and his wife lived after his superannuation. Brother Betts always attended Conference, and enjoyed much these annual meetings with the brethren. He went to

Greensboro to attend our last Conference, but sustained injuries from a fall, answered by telephone the Conference roll call, and was taken to his home in Greensboro. All that could be done was done for him, but feebleness of age and the injuries received terminated his life. The funeral services were conducted by Dr. E. L. Bain, pastor of West Market Street, and Rev. J. M. Rhodes, President of Littleton Female College, and the mortal remains of Alexander Davis Betts were interred in the cemetery at Greensboro.—J. T. Gibbs.

CLATOR WINN SMITH was born August 7, 1857, in Rutherford County, N. C., near the present town of Henrietta, and died in Whiteville, N. C., February 12, 1919. He was the fourth of seven children born to Jeremiah Webb Smith and Sarah Jane Smith. He was left fatherless at the age of five and motherless at the age of fourteen years. Young Clator Smith grew up on the farm. With few advantages in the schools and subject to not a few hardships incident to the conditions of his early life, being left without the fostering care of father and mother, the lad of the hills knew not the privileges of many. He did not get a fair start in life. Still, after his conversion, the young man went to Boiling Springs Academy and to Rutherford College in preparation for his life's work. The experience at Cedar Grove Church, Cherry Mountain Circuit, on Saturday, August 6, 1873, marked an epoch in the life of the sixteen-year-old country boy. On Sunday following, August 7, he felt called to preach. To the mandates of this hour he devoted the rest of his life. His birth (August 7), his conversion (August 6), and his call to preach (August 7) were to him alike most definite events and made August a memorable month for him. All of Brother Smith's people were Baptists, but his conversion at a Methodist camp meeting turned him to the Methodists. Rev. John W. Puett recommended Clator Smith for license to preach and Dr. H. A. Hudson was the presiding elder. These devout men must have left their impress on the young preacher. At Raleigh, in 1882, with Bishop Keener presiding, Clator Winn Smith was received on trial into the North Carolina Conference. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Linus Parker at Wilmington, and elder by Bishop J. C. Granbery at Reidsville in 1886. The start on an itinerant's rounds made at

Raleigh by this Methodist preacher was a journey not notable for soft and easy places. A bare recital of his appointments makes a suggestive story for all who are acquainted with the times and are able in their imaginings to follow his goings. Brother Smith served the following charges: Onslow Circuit, 1883-84; Whiteville, 1885; Enochville, 1886-87; Elizabethtown, 1888-89; Whiteville, 1890-91; Bladen Street, Wilmington, 1892. The supernumate relation was granted Brother Smith for 1893, but in August of that year he was put in charge of Whiteville charge, which was given up by Rev. W. A. Forbes and he served other appointments as follows: Whiteville, 1894; Red Springs, 1895-96; Elizabethtown, 1897; Carver's Creek, 1898-1900; supernumerary, 1901-04; Columbus, 1905-08; Roberson, 1909-11; Raeford, 1912; Troy, 1913; Winfall, 1914-15. Clator W. Smith was a man of strong convictions. He was a man genuine to the core and had a lasting contempt for the meanness of men. Sometimes the sharpness of his rebukes led men to misunderstand his motives and fail to appreciate his efforts to help. He preached the gospel of repentance and of salvation by Jesus Christ as the only hope of men. He was deemed a practical and earnest preacher who came with a message of intense conviction. Energetic in action, genuine in his religious experience, strong in stating his convictions, and devoted to his Lord, the life of Brother Smith counted wherever he went. Sinners were saved and the material interests of the church built up. At Enochville, Whiteville, and Bladen Street he built parsonages. On December 15, 1886, he was married to May Mosby by Rev. Paul J. Carraway at Whiteville, N. C. To them were born Annie May, Fannie Slade, Sally J., Helen, Cora Winn, and Clator Webb. All of these children remain to serve their generation and to bless the world; and the devoted wife, knowing only the invalid's chair, proves an inspiration to all by her hopefulness and good cheer. She proved a noble inspiration to her devoted husband through all the years of their pilgrimage. He found much comfort in his last days by the life and labors of his children, and the hopes he entertained for their future. At Sunday school in Whiteville on the second Sunday in December, 1918, he attended his last public service fully conscious that the end was near, though he remarked on his way home that day that he felt well enough to live six months yet. The next Sunday he sat with the family at the table for the last time. From this time to the end, on February 12, 1919, he suffered untold agonies, but he faced death unafraid. To his presiding elder, Rev. J. H. Shore, some weeks before his passing, Brother Smith spoke with calmness and much assurance of the end which he realized was near. Near the noontide hour of a beautiful day, the ills that flesh is heir to and the hardships incident to an itinerant career came to an end. The body was laid away in the cemetery at Whiteville. The family and friends resumed the ordinary rounds of life, but the influence for good of this our brother now lives and moves above the commonplace.—M. T. Plyler.

CHARLES O. DURANT was born in Brunswick County, N. C., September 6, 1858. His home was one that knew God, and in the atmosphere of his godly home he laid the foundation work of his useful ministry. His school advantages were limited to years of preparation in the public schools of reconstruction days and a short time at old Trinity College. His days in school, however, did not measure the extent of his education. He was a good student and in the course of years gathered about him a well selected library which fed his mind and inspired his spirit. At the age of twenty-three he was licensed to preach. The following year, 1882, at Raleigh, he was received on trial into the North Carolina Conference. For thirty-six years he preached with joy the message of redemption through the cross of Jesus Christ. During his thirty-six years of service he served the following charges: Point Caswell Mission, Randolph Circuit, Pekin Circuit, Youngsville Circuit, Raleigh-Brooklyn, Warren Circuit, Halifax, Currituck, South Creek, Craven, Hamlet, Richmond Circuit, Goldston, Elon, Newport, Goldsboro, Snow Hill. In 1891 he was married to Miss Edgerton, of Wayne County. This good woman entered the itinerancy without complaint and found joy therein. In his home Brother Durant found a ready place of rest and soul refreshment from the strain of his consuming ministry. Mrs. Durant, together with three children—Ethel, Winnie, and Fred—survives him. Spanish influenza seized him while at Conference in 1918 and from its effects he never recovered. In the early morning of March 13, 1919, when another day was kissing the earth with promise and suggestion, God kissed his soul with the promise of eternal life and took Brother DuRant unto Himself. The body was laid to rest at Snow Hill near the scenes of his last ministry. Revs. W. A. Piland and J. L. Rumley, together with the writer, conducted the burial service.—T. M. Grant.

DAVID BASCOMB PARKER was born at Roseboro, Sampson County, N. C., December 2, 1850, being the son of John and Jenetta Parker. On November 5, 1902, he was married to Miss Annie Saunders, who now lives in Hamlet with their two children, David Bascomb and James Saunders Parker. Besides these relatives there were also four brothers and eight sisters. Brother Parker was a school teacher before he entered the ministry. He joined the North Carolina Conference at Elizabeth City, and served continuously until his superannuation in 1917. His death occurred on April 17, 1919, near Hamlet. The following were the charges which he served: Campbellton, 1895-96; Sampson Circuit, 1897; Jacksonville and Richlands, 1898; Pantego Circuit, 1899-1900; Hobgood, 1901-05; Youngsville, 1906-10; Elizabethtown, 1911-13; Candor, 1914; Laurel Hill, 1915-17. As to personal characteristics David Parker was rather modest and retiring in his demeanor. He did not take his congregations by storm when he came upon the scene. But before he had been long with them his people realized that he was firm and strong, and they were assured that a Christian gentleman and minister of the Gospel of the Christ had come to be their pastor. In his mind there was no question as to our gospel. He accepted it as the complete thing that it is, and preached it in its wholeness convincingly to his flock. This was but to make good in practice the vow he had taken upon entering the ministry. It was the writer's privilege to be at the bedside of this man of God shortly before his going, and to hear him testify that it was well with him. Of course, we knew it was well, still it was good to hear him say so. The ministry, the Church, our common human life have all been made the richer because David Bascomb Parker came this way. Services to his memory were held in the Methodist Church at Hamlet, and his body was laid to rest in the cemetery there. The angels will know where to find his dust in the day when the Lord shall come to make all things new.—Harry M. North.

WILLIAM A. FORBES, the third child of Rev. John H. and Mrs. Mary Forbes, was born near Danville, Va., February 18, 1846; died at his home, Buies Creek, N. C., on Tuesday evening, October 27, 1919. Brother Forbes gave his heart to God in his ninth year, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in which his father was a beloved local preacher, at Rock Springs, near Danville, Va. He moved from this community, when about grown, and settled at Roxboro, N. C., where he entered heartily into the life and work of the Church, being soon elected superintendent of the Sunday school and for a time superintendent in general of the Sunday schools of Person County. He was also, at this time, a singing master, and taught a number of classes in singing and hymnology. While thus engaged as singer and Sunday school superintendent, he felt the call and was licensed to preach, the gifts for which he exercised as a local preacher for a number of years. In his twenty-first year he was married to Miss Virginia Powell, near Milton, N. C., in May, 1866. To this union two children were born, one of whom died in infancy. The other is now Mrs. D. C. Bryant, living near Wallace, N. C. His wife was truly a good woman—a helpmeet indeed. For thirty-four years they labored together in the Lord, until, at the time of Brother Forbes's pastorate at Dunn, she became greatly afflicted and, after a long illness, died on December 4, 1900, and was buried near Wallace. On June 2, 1902, he was married a second time, to Miss Lola B. Crowder, of Buies Creek, N. C., who survives him. To them one child was born, but it died in infancy. However, they adopted a bright boy, to whom they gave the name of Luther Davis Forbes, and he also survives. No man in old age and failing health ever had a more self-sacrificing and devoted companion than did Brother Forbes. Her devotion was wonderful and their companionship was beautiful. It was when about forty years of age that he entered the itinerant ministry, joining the North Carolina Conference on trial at the session which convened at Charlotte in 1885. But he had a very remarkable and successful ministry, covering a period of nearly a quarter of a century, having served charges as follows: Magnolia, 1886-87; Kenansville, 1888-91; Whiteville, 1892-93; Bethel, 1894-95; Mattamuskeet, 1896; Richlands and Jackson, 1897-98; Dunn Circuit, 1899-01; Henderson, 1902. In the fall of that year his health failed him and he took the superannuate relation; but, regaining his health during the next year, he was placed again as an effective at the Conference of 1903, receiving further appointments as follows: Duke, 1904-05; Dover, 1906; Farmville, 1907-09; Atlantic, 1910. In that year his health again failed him, and he asked for the superannuate relation, which from that time on he was obliged to retain till his translation. During all these years he made his home at Buies Creek, doing such work as he could for the Church, and being always the truly helpful friend of the pastor, as well as the distinct leader of the religious community life. Early in the year it became apparent that Brother Forbes could not long remain with us; but it was only five weeks before his death that he had to take to his bed. Then he suffered no pain, just gradually weakened away till he fell on sleep to wake in the glory land, to which he looked forward with an ever-brightening hope. The funeral service was conducted from the residence at Buies Creek, N. C., on Tuesday afternoon, October 28, by the writer, assisted by Rev. J. M. Daniel. Beautiful tributes were paid to his life and character by Brothers Miller and Egerton, of the Baptist Church, and Brother Menius, of the Presbyterian Church, and a multitude of neighbors—young and old—passed the casket in reverent review. Then on Wednesday morning his body was carried to Old Rock Fish Presbyterian Church, near Wallace, and laid beside that of his first wife, to await the resurrection. The burial service was conducted by Rev. M. D. Hix.—N. M. McDonald.

JAMES M. BENSON was born in Hyde County, N. C., December 12, 1853. He was reared under religious influence and at about twenty-one years of age was converted under the ministry of the late Rev. J. D. Buie. From the time of his conversion he was active in every phase of Church work. He served as steward, Sunday school superintendent, and leader in prayer meetings. He was a man of culture and received splendid training in the schools. For a number of years he was one of the successful educators of the State. He was admitted into the Conference on trial at Raleigh in 1897 and served the following charges: Jones Circuit, 1897-1900; Goldsboro Circuit, 1901; Nashville Circuit, 1902-04; Snow Hill Circuit, 1905-08; Roper Circuit, 1909-10; Kenly Circuit, 1911-14; Carthage Circuit, 1915; Troy and Biscoe, 1916; Vass Circuit, 1917-18. In July, 1918, on account of declining health, he laid down his beloved work, hoping day after day that his health would at least allow him to complete the year. But his Lord willed otherwise. Brother Benson was twice married: first to Miss Sarah Bonner, of Hyde County. These two lives seemed perfectly blended; there was never a note of discord. She was the mother of his children, some of whom died in early childhood, but four survive. His second wife was Miss Annie Williams, of Hamilton, a woman of rare intellectual gifts, a deeply spiritual woman who proved herself a companion and diligent helpmeet during his ministry. From November until March his frail body was so racked by disease and he was in such a weakened condition that he talked very little, but frequently expressed himself as ready and waiting to see loved ones on the other side. The way was bright, made so by a faith that claimed every precious promise. During the last four days of his illness he suffered intensely, but occasionally rallied. After being unconscious two nights and a day, early Sunday morning, March 9, 1919, every vestige of pain departed from his face, he heard the Master's call, opened his eyes, looked at the two who were standing by his bedside, smiled, again looked up and smiled, and then the gentle spirit of Brother Benson took its flight and returned to God who gave it. We shall see him again.—S. E. Mercer.

ISAAC ALEXANDER was born at Lebanon, Va., July 24, 1832. His father was Irish and his mother English. At an early age the death of his father left him in the care of a mother who was deeply pious and strictly Methodistic. Under her tutelage, and under the ministry of Rev. J. R. Bellamy, then of the Holston Conference, when sixteen years of age Brother Alexander gave his heart to God and joined the Methodist Church. He lived and died in the Church before whose altar he assumed the vows more than seventy years ago. He began his school days in the old Strawberry Plains High School, spending the last two years of his student life in Emory and Henry College, Virginia. From the latter institution he received his A.B. degree in 1854 and his A.M. in 1857. Most of his subsequent life was spent in the schoolroom.

Brother Alexander was licensed to preach at Henderson, Tex., in 1854, the year he left school and came to Texas; received on trial into the old East Texas Conference at Marshall, in 1855; ordained deacon at Rusk in 1857 by Bishop Kavanaugh, and elder at Marshall in 1860 by Bishop Early. For sufficient reasons, he discontinued three times during his long itinerant career, but at no time did he ever belong to any Conference other than the East Texas, now the Texas Conference. These periods were 1858-60, 1861-75, 1890-94. During the period of his active ministry he served the following charges: Starrville Circuit, Gilmer Station, Agent for Soule University, Melrose Circuit, Tyler Station, President of Alexander Collegiate Institute, Jacksonville, Palestine, and Longview Stations. In the fall of 1908 he took the superannuate relation, which he sustained at the time of his death. During this period he served with credit as Chaplain of the A. & M. College. Brother Alexander's great work was in connection with the institution which bears his name, and is now located at Jacksonville, Tex. Alexander Institute was first opened at Kilgore, Tex., as a private institution in 1873. In 1875 it was taken over by the East Texas Conference and Brother Alexander continued as its President until 1890. As a teacher and leader he left his impress on a generation of men and women in the eastern section of the State. These preachers, teachers, lawyers, physicians, business men, farmers, and housewives who came under his influence in early life could never get beyond that influence. He was also a great preacher. During the long period of his active ministry whenever and wherever he was announced to preach he always had a hearing. This was especially true where he was best known as a preacher and a man. He was twice married and to these unions three daughters were born. The twilight hours of his long life were spent in Henderson, Tex., where he passed away on June 5, 1919. His three daughters, his grandchildren, and his great-grandchildren were near him when the end came. The funeral, by special request, was conducted by Dr. John H. McLean, a member of the old guard. His body was laid to rest in the Henderson Cemetery to await the crowning day.

JOHN SHEPHERD HENDRICK was born in Wilkes County, Ga., September 9, 1880; died near Timpson, Tex., December 8, 1918, after a week's illness with influenza followed by pneumonia. He came to Texas in 1892 and was married to Miss Maggie Goodwin on October 21, 1904. Four children were born to this union, all of whom, with their mother, survive. Brother Hendrick was reared in a Christian home, trained by devoutly religious parents, at the early age of nine years joined the Methodist Church, and was faithful to it to the day of his death. When fifteen years of age he had a deeper and more satisfying experience, and about the same time felt the call to the ministry. His educational advantages were meager, but so deep and satisfying was his experience of grace that he could tell a story of love that was so convincing and winsome that his ministry was a fruitful one. He was licensed to preach in 1909 and served the Church one year in the local ranks. At the Conference held in Galveston in 1910 he was admitted on trial and assigned to Emory Circuit; 1912-13, Lindale Circuit; 1914-15, Queen City Circuit; 1916-17, Whitehouse Circuit. On account of ill health, at the Conference of 1917 he was granted a superannuate relation, but held it only one year. At the Conference of 1918 he reported effective and was assigned to the Murchison Circuit. But the great Bishop of souls had other plans for his tired, faithful, devoted servant: the very day that our Conference session at Timpson closed and his brethren were going out to their new fields of labor he was stricken down, and after a week of patient suffering he quietly and trustfully went to sleep, and awoke in the presence of the King. He never reached his new charge, but went up to receive his crown.—H.

ALBERT LITTLE was born in North Carolina in 1843. When about eighteen years of age he entered the Confederate Army and served until its close—four years. At the close of the war he came to Texas and stopped in Smith County, where in 1866 he was married to Miss Mary Taylor. He consecrated his life to the Lord in early manhood and was licensed to preach at Union Springs Camp Ground in 1874. After serving a year or two as supply he was received on trial into the East Texas Conference in 1876, and for twenty-six years he did as faithful work as any among us, and as successful. The following are some of the places he served: Cherokee Circuit, Rusk and Jacksonville, Jacksonville Circuit, Jacksonville Station, Troup and Overton, Palestine, Tyler Circuit, Pine Hill Circuit, Mount Pleasant Station, and Orange Station. To some of these places he was returned for a second pastorate. Brother Little was much loved by the people he served. They enjoyed hearing his impassioned sermons. He was happily married. He and Sister Little were congenial souls. Theirs was a happy Christian home. Their children, three daughters and two sons, were bright and well favored, and since they have grown up and found their stations in life show the fulfillment of the hopes and promises of their youth. Few men in modern times have had such an Elijah-like translation as Brother Little had. On Wednesday night before he had held the prayer meeting in Honey Grove, and some one has written: "That prayer meeting will long be remembered in our Church. As he sang and prayed it seemed that heaven came down and we had a foretaste of the glory world." On Sunday following this he was at Pleasant Retreat, where he had often held meetings. Surrounded by old friends he loved, he sang and prayed until the atmosphere seemed surcharged with the Holy Ghost, his face lit up with a heavenly glow, when instantly his eyes closed and, sinking down into the arms of his friends, his triumphant soul mounted up on high.—J. W. Johnson.

ALEXANDER METHVIN was born in Gregg County, Tex., in December, 1859; was married to Miss Mattie Lum in 1884; was admitted on trial into the old East Texas Conference at Orange in December, 1893, and served the following charges: Crockett Circuit, 1894-95; Elkhart, 1896-97; West Palestine, 1898-99; Grand Saline, 1900-03; Alvin, 1904-05; League City, 1906; Cedar Bayou, 1907; Columbia and Brazoria, 1908-11; Glenflora, 1912. He superannuated at Nacogdoches in December, 1913, and moved to Brazoria, where he lived an honored veteran of the cross until February 14, 1919, when he was transferred to the great conference above. The above figures, all we have at hand, give but a few brief facts in the laborious life of our departed brother. Summed up, they are birth, consecration to the ministry, and death. For more than a year he suffered as only those afflicted with cancer can suffer, yet he bore it with Christian fortitude. He was buried from the Methodist Church in Brazoria, in the presence of a host of former parishioners and friends. He leaves a wife and other relatives and

L. B. SAXON has gone to his long home. He died of pneumonia in the parsonage at Texarkana, Tex., January 25, 1919. Brother Saxon was forty-three years old. He was converted at Shady Grove Church, Henderson County, Tex., some twenty years ago, and was licensed to preach by the Tyler District Conference at Grand Saline, July 4, 1901, J. T. Smith being the presiding elder. He was married to Miss Sallie Owens, of Murchison, Tex., in 1900, and to them were born three sons. Roy, yet in his teens, has been in the United States navy nearly two years. He had just returned from Brest, France, when he got the message that his father was dead. Leaving New York, he reached home Monday morning the 27th. Mox and Bob were at home when their father died. Brother Saxon's first work as supply was at Mount Sylvan, in 1904; from there, in 1905, he served Cushing charge; in 1906, Meredith charge; then in 1907 he did supply work in the Central Texas Conference. On December 27, 1907, he was admitted on trial into the Texas Conference at Houston, and was sent to Shelbyville Circuit. He served other charges as follows: Tenana, 1909; Beckville, 1910; Rosenberg, 1911; Douglasville, 1912; Hughes Springs, 1913-14; Jewett, 1915; Grace, Palestine, 1916-18. At the Conference held at Timpson in November, 1918, he was sent to Hardy Memorial, Texarkana, where he died in the beginning of a successful year. He was a manly man among men. In him divine evolution did its work. Jeweled with a sparkling intellect, gifted in speech, he achieved wonders. His frequent moves were all his own. Full of energy and a bunch of nerves, he was always under high pressure and at full speed. He did more in one year than most of us will do in two. A faithful soldier of the cross, a man of great faith, he was learning to live well, and he died well before he had reached the meridian of life. His work among us will tell in the ages to come. Hundreds were converted under his ministry, and in the crowning day many will call him blessed. He is survived by his wife and three sons.—C. A. Tower.

Ques. 12. Who are the deacons of one year? E. G. Downs, D. E. Sneller, Leo Hopkins, Ben O. Hill, C. B. Fuller, W. E. Hassler, G. C. House, R. Q. M. House, Francisco Zito, J. C. Lanier. 10.

WILLIAM WASHINGTON STEWART was born in Forsyth, Monroe County, Ga., August 27, 1834; died August 5, 1919. He was born to pious parents, and cradled in the lap of the Christian religion. The date of his conversion and uniting with the Church we do not know, but he seems to have been a Christian nearly all of his life. He had a fine physique, a large heart, and a great soul, and developed into a strong, robust man. We know nothing of his early educational advantages, or whether he had any beyond a high school training. In 1850 he was married to Miss Martha Pearl Corbin. Of this union several children were born. Of these, seven survive; also one brother, R. J. Stewart, of Savannah, Ga. His first wife accompanied him in his work, sharing his sorrows and ministering to his comfort, till 1891, when she was taken by the hand of death. Some ten years later he was married to Miss Gartrell Monger, of Quitman, Ga., who lived only about four years after their marriage, and died in 1915. Brother Stewart was called to the work of the ministry in early life, and entered the traveling connection in the Georgia Conference in 1860. He served as a chaplain in the Confederate army during the War between the States. After the war he came back into this Conference, and continued his work in the ministry. The writer first came to know him when he was pastor of the Hayneville Circuit, in Houston County, in 1868-70. Since then he has served charges as follows: Buena Vista Circuit, 1871-74; Talbot Circuit, 1875-78; Quitman and Valdosta, 1879-80; Quitman Circuit, 1881-82; Camilla, 1883; Brooks Circuit, 1884-86; Shellman, 1887; Boston Circuit, 1888-91; Bainbridge, 1892-93; Sandersville and Tennille, 1894-95; Brooks Circuit, 1896; Cordele, 1897-98; Abbeville and Ocilla, 1899-1901; Guyton, 1902; Adel, 1903; Nashville and Adel, 1904; Milltown Circuit, 1905-06; Cataula Circuit, 1907; Morven Circuit, 1908; Coolidge Circuit, 1909. At the session of the Conference held at Waynesboro, Ga., in December, 1909, he accepted the superannuate relation, which he held to the time of his death. Brother Stewart always looked on the bright side of things. He lived on the sunny side of life. He never groveled. His lofty soul breathed a high, pure atmosphere. He loved men, and men loved him. He spent his last days on earth among his friends in Quitman, Ga.

JAMES OSGOOD ANDREW COOK was born in Harris County, Ga., August 23, 1838; died at Waycross, Ga., September 7, 1919. He was the son of the Rev. Francis Cook, a godly man and an efficient minister of the gospel. The unfeigned faith which first dwelt in his father influenced the life of his son, who in his early years sought and found Christ in the pardon of sin and the renewal of the Holy Ghost. Soon after his conversion he heard and answered the divine call to preach and began forthwith to prepare himself for his great life work. In order to be thoroughly furnished for it, he entered Emory College, where he applied himself assiduously to his studies, led all of his classes, and graduated with first honors in 1861. At the time of his graduation the country was in the throes of civil war, so he entered the Confederate Army, and, after a few months of service as a private soldier, was made chaplain of the Second Georgia Battalion. While on furlough during the war he was married to Miss Ella C. Frazer, of Alabama, with whom he lived in perfect union for fifty-six years. At Columbus, Ga., in 1863, he joined the South Georgia Conference and began a ministry which, for length of years, efficiency, and success, has seldom been equaled. During his long ministry he served the following charges: Cullo-den, Cuthbert, Talbotton, Brunswick, Thomasville, St. Luke (Columbus), Americus, Mulberry Street (Macon), Waycross District, Brunswick (second term), Fort Valley, Trinity, Savannah, Thomasville District, Valdosta District, Hawkinsville Station, Columbus District, Hawkinsville Station (second term), Vienna and Lumpkin. For a long time he was a trustee of Emory College, the Orphans' Home (Macon), and for quite a while Treasurer of the Preachers' Aid Society. In every place he was faithful and efficient. As a pastor, he invariably won the confidence and love of his people. He not only preached the gospel as the power of God unto salvation, but exemplified it in his daily walk and conversation. He was always welcomed in the homes of his people; the little children hailed his coming with delight, the sick were cheered with the vision of returning health, and to the mournful and bereaved his presence was a veritable benediction. As a presiding elder he was wise in counsel and safe and able in leadership. He inspired the older preachers under him with a confidence that no interest of the Church would suffer in his hands, and the younger ones looked up to him as a pattern worthy of imitation. His optimism was sublime and his faith in God, at all times, was strong and assured. He believed in the ultimate triumph of the gospel. No one who ever heard him preach could doubt the genuineness and stability of his belief. Under his preaching sinners were convicted and converted, the babes in Christ received the sincere milk of the word, and the saints of riper years "strong meat." In the good providence of God he was spared to proclaim it for more than half a century. When the growing infirmities of age forced him to lay aside his armor, he retired from the field of conflict with the serene confidence of a victor through Christ. During the years of his retirement, as health would permit, he attended the sessions of his Conference, and manifested the deepest concern in all the proceedings. A short while before he left us he said to his wife: "We have reared six children, all of whom are Christians. Two of them are in the South Georgia Conference. I have tried to be faithful in my life work and now I am ready to go." Nothing remained but to await the summons. His faithful wife, his two sons in the ministry, Revs. C. E. Cook and Osgood F. Cook, well-known and beloved members of our Conference, Mr. T. F. Cook, of Savannah, and the three daughters, Mrs. M. C. Wynne, of Waycross, Mrs. A. McIntyre, of Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. J. W. MacDonald, of Macon, were with him and continued their loving ministries to the end.—J. P. McFerrin.

GEORGE PIERCE REVIERE, son of Frank and Elizabeth Bellah Reviere, was born at Barnesville, Ga., May 3, 1865; died at Hinesville, Ga., July 17, 1919. In early manhood he was converted and joined the Methodist Church at Thomaston, Ga., and soon afterwards was licensed to preach. In the fall of 1885 he entered the sub-freshman class at Emory College (now Emory University) and graduated from there in the class of 1890. He was a student at Emory College for five years and never missed a roll call at class or chapel, and never missed a Church service or prayer meeting except when he was holding service somewhere himself. In the class organization he was chaplain of his class, and was the manager of Marvin Hall for two years. Having graduated in June, 1890, he was admitted into the South Georgia Conference at its session of the same year, and his Conference history is as follows: Sycamore, 1891; Eden, 1892-93; Rocky Ford, 1894; Bethel and Bethany, 1895-96; Girard, 1897; Bonaire, 1898-99; Oglethorpe, 1900-01; Lake Park, 1902; Cairo and Whigham, 1903; Pelham, 1904; Darien, 1905; Willacoochee, 1906-07; Ludowici, 1908; Conference Missionary, 1909-10; Brewton, 1911; Bartow, 1912-14; Hinesville, 1915-16. His last work was at Hinesville, where he built a beautiful parsonage, and it was there that he overtaxed his strength while building this parsonage, causing his health to fail, and at the Conference held at Albany in 1917 he was compelled to superannuate. It was pitiful to see how heartbroken he was when this step became necessary. He was married the first time to Miss Mamie Robins Feddeman, of Virginia, at Eden, Ga., June 13, 1894, and she left him for the home above, at Pelham, Ga., May 3, 1905. Only one child of this union survives, Marshal Robins Reviere, born March 7, 1895. He was married the second time to Miss Beulah Ryan, at Taylor's Creek, on October 8, 1911, and little Elizabeth came to bless this union, May 5, 1914. Mrs. Beulah Ryan Reviere, Marshal, and Elizabeth are left behind to mourn the death of the husband and father. His bones lie in the cemetery at Taylor's Creek to await the resurrection day.—O. L. Kelly.

SHERWARD SHEFFIELD KEMP was born at Darien, McIntosh County, Ga., February 29, 1853; died at Poulan, Ga., July 22, 1919. His parents were William J. and Ellen Kemp, of Glynn County, Ga. His father was a rice planter and slave holder prior to the War between the States. When war was declared he immediately volunteered, and fought for the Confederacy until the close of the struggle. As a result of this war his property was all swept away, and it became necessary for S. S. Kemp, the son, to go out on his own resources some years before he attained his majority. His educational advantages before leaving home were very limited, and after-war conditions were such that he could not attend school any more. However, he acquired, by personal application and in the large school of experience, a sufficient education to render him a faithful and efficient preacher of the gospel. Brother Kemp was not converted, nor did he become a member of the Church, until he was thirty-three years of age. On July 28, 1875, he was happily married to Miss Alice Rebecca Odum, of Glynn County, Ga., a woman of strong Christian character, and it was through her godly influence that he was finally led to Christ. While living near Eastman, Ga., engaged in the lumber business, he was brightly converted and joined the Church at Eastman under the ministry of Brother Ousley. With conversion there came also, and almost immediately, the call to definite service for the Master; and though many obstacles seemed to stand in his way, he "consulted not with flesh and blood," but entered every door that God opened before him. He was very soon licensed to preach, and in the fall of 1887 received his first appointment as supply on the Dempsey Circuit. For thirteen years thereafter he served the Church acceptably as supply and local preacher in various fields, at the same time laboring in the turpentine business to support a large family. But increasingly with the years, and with the success attending his efforts, there came the desire to separate himself entirely unto the ministry of the Word, and in 1900, at the Conference which met at Cuthbert, Ga., he was admitted on trial into the traveling connection of the South Georgia Conference. From then on until his death he served uninterruptedly the following appointments: Hahira and Adel, 1901-03; Alapaha, 1904-06; Unadilla, 1907-09; Colquitt, 1910; Broxton, 1911-12; Byromville, 1913-14; Willacoochee, 1915; Poulan, 1916-19, quitting his earthly career in the fourth year of his pastorate at the latter place. Brother Kemp was twice married. To the first union, with Miss Alice Rebecca Odum, there were born eight children, six of whom are now living: William J. Kemp, Dr. Austin J. Kemp, Norman S. Kemp, Mrs. Annie E. Tills, Mrs. Dorris Paulk, and Mrs. Alice Gilmore. He was again married in 1891 to Miss Elizabeth Gertrude Sadler, of Lee County, Ga., and to this marriage six children were born, five of whom are now living: Mrs. Sherward G. Joyner, Warren C. Kemp, Crawley M. Kemp, Grace A. Kemp, and Paul S. Kemp. Both wives preceded him to the glory world. His preaching was of the evangelistic type. He seemed to feel that God had called him to save men, and this definite purpose inspired all his efforts. He was fearless in denunciation of sin, but his heart beat with a passionate yearning for the salvation of the sinner. It was his earnest desire that he might die at his post, and God granted him this wish. The last Sunday of his life he preached twice; on Monday he conducted a funeral service; on Tuesday he arose quite early to catch a train to go and assist a brother pastor in a meeting. Fortunately he missed his train, for a short while thereafter he was stricken with the old disease of the heart, and at six o'clock in the evening of the same day he went to his reward. Thus he died literally on the field of battle with his sword unsheathed. According to his own wish his body was tenderly laid to rest at Poulan, Ga., among the people he had loved and served.—J. E. S.

ROBERT ROUSE was born in Worth County, Ga., November 26, 1879; died at Wrens, Ga., November 26, 1918, being at the day of his death just thirty-nine years of age. He was the son of Stephen Rouse and Lucy Houston Rouse. He was converted at Ashburn, Ga., and joined the Church under the ministry of Rev. J. C.

G. Brooks. He was licensed to preach by the Valdosta District Conference during the presidency of Rev. J. A. Harmon. He served the following charges: Ellabelle, one year; Bascom Circuit, three years; Thunderbolt, one year; Washington Circuit, one year; Wrens and Mount Moriah, one year. He was appointed to the Wrens and Mount Moriah charge for the second year, but went home to God before entering upon his second year's labors. The home life of Brother Rouse was beautiful. While no children were born to him, he was blessed with a consecrated wife and mother-in-law. He usually kept a colored girl as a servant, and once he remarked that no girl had ever served them that had not been led to Christ during the term of her service. Our brother fell in the prime of life. Still in his brief working span of life he won many for righteousness. He was always in a hurry—working for God. He is survived by his father and mother, wife, three brothers, and four sisters.—N. H. Williams.

EUGENE AMELIUS HARRISON was born in Macon, Ga., November 2, 1850, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Harrison. He was converted and joined the Church in early life, and at the age of seventeen entered Emory College, Oxford, Ga., where he received theological instruction along with his literary course. For several years after leaving school he served as engineer on the Georgia Central Railroad. Later he taught school at Darien and St. Marys, Ga., and in 1882 came to Florida, having married Miss Margery Elizabeth King, of St. Marys, on July 16, 1881. Settling in Lecanto, Citrus County, he gave his entire time to teaching and educational work in general until 1884. For this work he was well fitted. In 1884 he was licensed to preach by a Quarterly Conference, Rev. Thomas W. Tomkies presiding. For twelve years he was superintendent of public schools of Citrus County; but, serving as a local preacher, he filled some pulpit every Sunday. During these years he received no pecuniary compensation for his work as a minister; and on one occasion, when handed a check from mission funds, he returned it, saying that he had other financial resources and was doing the work because he loved it. In 1897 he entered the itinerancy in Florida, where he gave twenty-two years of active service, filling a number of important charges. In 1914 he was located at his own request, and for two years was principal of Division Street Grammar School, Key West. His last charge was Lemon City, where he was doing an excellent work when he heard the voice of his Lord calling him to higher service. As an expression of the appreciation of his services by his brethren, his expenses were paid by them to the Centenary celebration in Columbus, Ohio, last summer, and while there he was elected chairman of the Florida delegation. With one exception, since 1904 he and his companion spent Christmas with daughters in Key West, where he held watch-night services. Large numbers were always present, who greatly enjoyed his excellent talks on such occasions. His last words were, "Bless the Lord, O my soul; and all that is within me, bless his holy name." The remains were carried to Key West and placed in the soil he loved so well. Funeral services were conducted from First Church by his presiding elder, Rev. M. H. Norton, assisted by resident pastors. He left to mourn their loss his life companion and two daughters, Mrs. Lorena H. Sanderson and Mrs. Minnie Robinson, all of whom live in Key West. —Edward F. Ley.

JOHN LAWTON MOON was born November 21, 1879, at Cartersville, Ga.; died February 22, 1919, at Cherbourg, France. He was "born again" when only eight years old and then gave his life to the Church. From his father, Rev. J. L. Moon, at one time a member of the North Georgia Conference and later of the Florida Conference, and his devoted Christian mother, Elizabeth Thomas Moon, he received the splendid qualities that helped to make him wise and good. He graduated with highest honors from Emory College, Oxford, Ga., in the class of 1903, numbering forty-five. It was during his college course that he had the heavenly vision and was not disobedient to it, and henceforth sought to prepare himself for the great work of the Christian ministry. He spent six months as a missionary at Santiago, Cuba, and in December, 1904, he joined the Florida Conference. His first appointment was as city missionary in Jacksonville, Fla. Here he was married to Miss Carrie Lewis Chappell on December 6, 1906, in Riverside Methodist Church, Rev. R. H. Barnett officiating. The results of his six years' pastorate in Jacksonville were extraordinary. Souls were converted and added to the Church in considerable numbers, and besides he built our Springfield Church, the Phoenix Park Church, the King's Road Church, and also secured the present lot for the Wesley Memorial Church. Two of his six years were given as pastor at St. Matthews—a difficult field, yet the Lord's work prospered in his hands. His next appointment was at Fort Meade, where he remained four years. His membership grew in numbers and spirituality and the fine new church was built and dedicated under his remarkably fine work. Then he had two good years at Clearwater, followed by two good years as pastor-professor at Sutherland, where he conducted a great revival, doing all the preaching himself. The college and community were blessed in an uncommon degree. His last pastorate was at Bradentown, which promised to be the best of his life. He conducted his own revival services at Bradentown and quite wore himself out in the excessive labors as pastor and in patriotic services in the various war drives. Early in the year he felt called to Y. M. C. A. work overseas, but because of the illness of his little boy he was prevented from offering his services at that time. In the fall of the year the call was renewed and he offered his services and was accepted. His ministry was not merely professional. His soul burned with divine ardor, and, while on the high seas, though a stranger, he won all hearts by his uniform courtesy and thoughtful consideration for the happiness of others, impressing his associates with the fact that he was a follower of the Lamb and a worthy representative of the high calling to which he had dedicated his life. He conducted several inspiring and helpful services aboard the ship and had accepted an invitation to preach the day after his death, expressing his pleasure at the prospect of preaching the blessed gospel. It was at his suggestion that evening prayers were held on the voyage across the sea. As they neared the shores of France, he stood upon the deck enjoying with his friends the view of the harbor. He then descended to the lower deck and was reminded by the steward that the bath that he had ordered was ready. A few minutes later, in response to his call for assistance, it was found that he was very ill. He was helped to his stateroom and two physicians aboard the ship were summoned; but in spite of all that medical skill could do, he rapidly grew worse, and the end came peacefully and without suffering at 8:20 P.M. The immediate cause of his death was cerebral hemorrhage and acute dilation of the heart. His body was interred in St. Maria Cemetery, Havre, France, on February 24, 1919. B. K. Thrower.

WILLIAM H. STEINMEYER was born in Charleston, S. C., September 30, 1843, and received his education at the Citadel Academy in that city. He was converted in early manhood and served in the Confederate army, where he displayed the same courage and loyalty that he did in after years in the itinerant ministry. He was married to Miss Susan Erma Bradford, of Sumter, S. C., on January 10, 1866. Brother Steinmeyer came to Florida in 1880, and, having been licensed to preach and serving as a supply for a little more than a year, was admitted on trial into the traveling connection at the Conference that met in Monticello in January, 1882. He served faithfully many of the charges of the Florida Conference, and was always a true minister of the Lord Jesus Christ. He was always true and loyal to his brethren, and endeared himself to all of them. For a number of years he was a trustee of Florida Conference College. On account of failing health, he was granted a superannuate relation a few years ago after an active and successful ministry of more than thirty years. After his superannuation he labored faithfully for the Master as his health and opportunities permitted. His last charge was Dixieland and Myrtle Street, and in this charge there are many to stand up and bless his memory. He is survived by three sons and three daughters: Rev. F. E., Leon, and Harry Steinmeyer, Mrs. L. M. Clough, Mrs. Don McDonald, and Mrs. H. B. McCall.—Edward F. Ley.

FREDERICK PASCO was born in Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, May 4, 1844, his parents being John Pasco and Amelia Nash, formerly of England. In his boyhood days his parents moved to this country and located at Cambridge, Mass., where Frederick graduated from Harvard in the class of 1865. For a few years after his graduation he lived in the West, but came to Florida at the time of the marriage of his brother, the late Hon. Samuel Pasco, formerly a United States Senator from Florida. A little later he was married to Miss Maria Catherine Doggett, of Jacksonville, who passed into the spirit world about 1874. This union was blessed with three children: Frederick Leike, of Boston, Samuel Nash, of New York City, and Sidney Doggett, who died in infancy. As an educator he stood among the leaders of our State, having been principal of Duval High School, for several years superintendent of the schools of Duval County, professor in the East Florida Seminary, and for several years superintended the government school for the deaf and dumb in St. Augustine. However, along with his educational work, where he had a splendid influence over the young manhood of our State, he remained in the active ranks of his Conference and did much preaching for his brethren. But his main work was that of the ministry, and in this ministry of more than fifty years he filled many of the most responsible charges of the Conference, and his name is held in grateful remembrance by the thousands of brethren whom he served. And whether as presiding elder, pastor, or teacher he was always faithful to his high trust and loyal to his brethren. The records show that he was Secretary of the Florida Conference for forty-five years, and he did his work well. That which is mortal rests in the Old City Cemetery, Jacksonville, by the side of the dust of his companion, who preceded him many years ago to the home above. His choice spirit has gone home to God who gave it.—Edward F. Ley.

MAHLON H. OUTLAND, son of David and Marguerite Outland, of Northampton County, N. C., was born July 21, 1866; was converted and joined the Church at the age of twelve years; came to Florida in 1890; was licensed to preach and admitted on trial into the Conference in 1892. For twenty-seven years Brother Outland served the Church as a member of the Florida Conference and honored God in an unselfish service. His religious experience was a safe guide to his conduct, and his love for his work and his brethren commanded their love and esteem. His faith was that of full assurance, and he was always submissive to the divine will. Last year Brother Outland received an appointment from Bishop Candler at Bartow, and was serving the Columbia Circuit. He had not much more than entered fully upon his work when, through the explosion of a gasoline tank, the flames were inhaled and death followed. But we know where he is; and his beautiful Christian life will be an inspiration to his brethren, who will meet him by and by. To his bereaved companion and children we offer sincere sympathy, and assure them of our prayers and abiding interest.—Edward F. Ley.

JAMES HENRY MCCOY was born in Blount County, Ala., August 6, 1868. His father, Dr. William Clark McCoy, was a native of Missouri. As a Confederate soldier he served as courier under Stonewall Jackson. After the Civil War he came to Alabama, where he married Miss Annie Vaughn, entered the Methodist ministry, and became a great preacher and a real leader of North Alabama Methodism. Dr. McCoy died in 1891; his wife still lives, worthy in every way of having been the companion of a noble itinerant preacher and the mother of a distinguished bishop in the Church of Christ. In 1884 Dr. McCoy moved to Greensboro, having accepted the agency of the Southern University. It was in this institution that his son James Henry was educated. It was here that he heard God's call and surrendered his life to the ministry. No student in the Southern University was ever more popular than he was; but let it be remembered that he did not sacrifice principle nor efficiency for popularity. As a youth he stood for high ideals. As a student he won the medals and honors given by his college. He graduated in 1889, receiving the A.M. diploma, loved and honored by the whole college community. His first work was at Bessemer, Ala., where he came immediately after his graduation, as assistant to the writer, who was then pastor at Bessemer. This association ripened the friendship of college days into a devotion that has never been interrupted, nor will it be, for love is eternal. J. H. McCoy was admitted on trial into the North Alabama Conference in 1889, at Huntsville, Ala. His first appointment was Oakland Circuit. During his meeting at Oakland in 1890, the interest not being what he desired, he made a vow that he would fast and pray until some soul was happily converted to God. When God's servants get in earnest like that, something is sure to happen. It was possibly forty-eight hours before he broke his fast; but the revival came and souls were saved. In 1891 he was pastor of the South Decatur Church. In 1892-93 he served Dadeville and Alexander City. In 1894-95 he was stationed at Wesley Chapel, in Birmingham. In 1896 he was with the Tuscaloosa Church, where he remained three years. On December 31, 1895, he was married to Miss Annie Bradley, of Birmingham. She was a granddaughter of one of the famous pioneer preachers of that section, Rev. J. G. Gurvey. She was a woman of culture and piety, devoted to her husband, her children, her Church, and her God. In December, 1898, he was made the pastor of the Huntsville congregation, where he remained four years. In connection with his pastorate, in 1901 he was the editor of the Alabama Christian Advocate. When serving as editor, Bishop McCoy began to preach at Five Points in the South Highlands, and in connection with Dr. J. D. Simpson, the presiding elder of the Birmingham District, he organized the Highland Methodist Church, was appointed pastor, and served it until in 1906 he accepted the presidency of Birmingham College. He did good work everywhere, but the hardest work he ever did was as president of his Conference school. His inspiring utterances, his brotherly kindness, his high ideals, and his resplendent life set a standard for his students that was truly great, and scores upon scores of them are making their lives tell out most gloriously for good. At the General Conference which met in Birmingham in May, 1906, he delivered an address of welcome that sparkled with wit, radiated with love, shone with beauty, and was surcharged with power. Men said, "Who is this young man? Where has he been all this time? A man who can talk like that must not be monopolized by a single Conference. He must belong to the whole Church." The bishops appointed him as fraternal messenger to the Canadian Methodist Church, whose General Conference met in 1906. At this Conference his address still further pleased the Church, so that when the General Conference met in Asheville in 1910, on May 17 he was chosen as one of the chief superintendents of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. No man has ever been elevated to that high position who has been more universally beloved. Absolutely free from the spirit of the autocrat, with a heart in him that loved all humanity, and with a spirit as unselfish as the sunlight, he sought to use his high office, not to promote favorites or to win praise for himself, but to bless the Church and to honor Jesus Christ. On May 26, 1915, Annie Bradley McCoy, the wife of his youth, the mother of his children, was called to her reward. He bore his great sorrow as a Christian should. Some two years later the Bishop was married to Miss Mary Norman Moore. Miss Moore's work at Athens College is known to the world. As the foster mother of the Bishop's children, as the friend and helper of her husband, and in his last illness, as a veritable angel of ministry and love, her work has been even more beautiful than when she led a struggling college from failure to fame. Bishop McCoy had not been well for several months, but it was only after a visit to the Mayo Infirmary, in Rochester, Minn., that he and his friends were convinced of the seriousness of his malady. From that time on the Bishop knew he would never be well again, but for the sake of his loved ones he sought to live as long as possible. When he presided over the Alabama Conference which met in Mobile in December, 1918, though physically weak, with the spirit of a martyr he met every engagement, did his work as well as any man had ever performed it, preached a sermon that thrilled to the very soul his hearers and never even hinted at his illness except when in his sermon, picturing the victories that are to be won through the days of reconstruction, he exclaimed: "I would that I could live ten years, that I might witness the triumphs of God's grace and behold the new civilization that is coming as a result of the mighty forces now working for righteousness." But it was not to be. After his return from Conference, his malady was complicated by an attack of influenza. The tide of life ebbed and flowed. At times it seemed that he would be able to get out again. Then disappointment would come. All the while he was growing weaker. Letters, flowers, every possible manifestation of sympathy and love that could be bestowed upon him by his friends cheered him until the end. He attended to everything that could be thought of by a man preparing for a long journey. A friend of years, not many hours before the end, said: "It is worth the little pain that may come to know the secrets beyond." His face lit up with a smile of joy as he said, "And the glad surprises. I shall soon see Him face to face." Then he repeated, "Face to face." He had given up the struggle for life. The end was in sight. "I will not last long. Then, face to face." And upon his weary countenance there was a look of inexpressible gladness and joy. He had fought the fight, finished his course, kept the faith. Home and heaven were just over the hill, and best of all the Saviour to whom he had given his whole life. About noon on Saturday, March 22, he said to his wife: "Seven o'clock." She said: "It is not near seven yet." He replied: "I know, but it will be at seven." Just a few minutes before that hour, in the presence of wife and son and daughter and Lieut.-Gov. N. L. Miller and two friends who loved him as they love their own lives, he passed out of sight. Heaven somehow seemed very real and very near and the tug of the spirit world upon the hearts of those present is made stronger since he went away. The near relatives surviving him are his mother, who made her home with him; his brother, John McCoy, an attorney of Birmingham; his three sisters, Mrs. J. B. Wadsworth, of Gadsden; Mrs. L. D. Patterson, of China; and Mrs. G. M. Davenport, of Decatur. Of his immediate family, there are his wife, Mrs. Mary N. McCoy; his son, William Richard; his daughters, Margaret and Jean; and little James, his seven-year-old son, the joy and pride of his father's heart. To these he has left a heritage of love and honor and a name more valued than any earthly riches. In the auditorium of the Birmingham First Methodist Church a great congregation, many of whom were his brethren of the ministry, gathered Monday morning, March 24, at ten o'clock, to do honor to his memory. The organist and choir furnished appropriate and beautiful music. Dr. J. D. Simpson conducted the services. Rev. E. A. Dannelly, presiding elder of the Montgomery District of the Alabama Conference, read the first lesson. Dr. J. D. Simpson read the New Testament Scripture. L. C. Branscomb spoke of the life work of his departed friend. Dr. Simpson then paid the Bishop a beautiful tribute. Dr. George R. Stuart offered a most earnest and helpful prayer. The active pallbearers were R. S. Munger, F. M. Jackson, A. R. Morrow, N. L. Miller,

F. B. Yeilding, Charles A. Jones, J. N. Merrill, and L. P. Giddens. The honorary pallbearers were Dr. George R. Stuart, Dr. P. B. Wells, Revs. J. W. Norton, W. E. Morris, George E. Boyd, W. E. Faust, and R. M. Archibald. The body was carried to beautiful Elmwood and L. C. Branscomb committed the remains to the earth. Under a wilderness of flowers the tired body sleeps, awaiting the resurrection morn.—L. C. Branscomb.

JOHN LEE FERGUSON, son of Joseph A. and Mrs. Lucy C. Ferguson, was born at Marion, Ala., November 18, 1849; died at his home, in Birmingham, August 15, 1919. At the age of twelve, under the ministry of Rev. Robert Carey, he was converted and joined the Church. At Good Hope Church, September 6, 1874, he was licensed to preach, Rev. Daniel Duncan being the presiding elder; was admitted on trial into the North Alabama Conference on November 12, 1874, at Huntsville, Bishop Doggett presiding. He was admitted into full connection in 1876, the Conference sitting at Decatur under the presidency of Bishop McTyeire; and it is assumed that then and there he was by Bishop McTyeire ordained deacon. It is also assumed that, two years later, at Athens, he was ordained elder by Bishop Kavanaugh, who presided that year (1878). Brother Ferguson's first appointment was as junior preacher to Jesse Ellis on Arbacoochee Circuit—this for the Conference year 1875. His next charge was Chandler Springs for one year; then, 1877, New Castle Circuit; next, for three years, Sheffield Circuit. (It should be noted that this Sheffield was not the one on the Tennessee River, in Colbert County, Ala., which was not then in existence; but a Sheffield in the Tuscaloosa District, and possibly in Tuscaloosa County.) After this, the charges in order were: Gordo Circuit, two years; Socapatoy Circuit, 1884; Elyton and Helena, 1885; then Avondale, Jasper, and Cordova for two (perhaps three) years; Columbiana Circuit, four years, ending with 1892; Sunny Side Circuit, 1893-96; Center Circuit, 1897. At the end of 1897, at Florence, Bishop Galloway appointed Brother Ferguson to the office of Conference Colporteur; and in that work he continued till the Conference session of 1912, when he was assigned to Edgewater Circuit. In 1913 he was again appointed colporteur. During the years in which he was colporteur, he was also pastor at Mt. Vernon, Lincoln, Pleasant Hill, Hanceville, and Blount Springs. At the session of the Conference for 1914 he was given the superannuate relation and continued therein till his death. On February 10, 1885, he was married to Miss Claudia Cole, of Tuskegee, Ala.; and this excellent Christian woman graced well all the relations of a Methodist minister's wife, till her death, on August 14, 1912. There were seven children: Lee Cole (who passed away at the age of fourteen months), Bess, Mary Sue (Mrs. Herbert Ephgrave), John Lambuth (a member of our Conference), Claude Allen, Ruth (Mrs. Allison F. Bell), and Frank Candler. It was the regret of Brother Ferguson's life that circumstances hindered his early educational advantages and limited his attainments in scholarship. With an abiding sense of such things, and desiring in some measure to atone for it in the life of his children, he sought for them the best possible for them to have. He was a good business man, and careful of his finances. At the beginning of his ministry he resolved not only to live within his income, but also, if possible, to save some part of his pay. This resolution he kept faithfully, not infrequently in the face of a very meager salary. He was a good preacher and a good pastor. His was an evangelistic ministry, bringing into the kingdom of God members in large numbers. Brother Ferguson was a builder. He built fifteen churches, six of which he organized in connection with building, and remodeled and completed fourteen others. It is said that he never left a church building in debt.—J. S. Glasgow.

CARROLL CLAY O'NEIL was born at New Hope, Madison County, Ala., September 6, 1852; died in the "Schuessler Superannuate Home," Roanoke, Ala., May 29, 1919. His parents were Henry H. and Amelia Jane O'Neil. With his parents, he removed to the State of Arkansas, where, in 1870, he was converted and joined the Church, being licensed to exhort the same year, near Pine Bluff, Ark. He returned to Alabama in 1871, and in 1872 he was licensed to preach by a Quarterly Conference held near Huntsville, Rev. Milus E. Johnson being his pastor. He was received on trial into the North Alabama Conference at Birmingham in November, 1875, Bishop Marvin presiding. He was for thirty-six years an effective Methodist minister—thirty-two in the North Alabama Conference and four in the North Georgia Conference. He went to North Georgia at the end of 1892, and came back to North Alabama at the end of 1896. He was ordained deacon in 1879, assumedly by Bishop Paine at Tuscaloosa; and elder by Bishop McTyeire, in 1881, at Huntsville. The list of appointments, covering these thirty-six years, cannot fail to indicate the fiber of the man: Pikeville Mission, one year; Swan Creek Circuit, one year; Cypress Circuit, one year; Frankfort Circuit, two years; Lexington Circuit, one year; New Hope Circuit, two years; Larkinsville Circuit, one year; Meridianville Circuit, one year; White Plains Circuit, one year; Blountsville and Oak Grove Circuit, three years; Hokes Bluff Circuit, two years; Collinsville Circuit, one year. North Georgia: East Paulding Mission, one year; Houston Circuit, one year; Bowden Circuit, one year; Dallas Circuit, one year. North Alabama: Paint Rock Circuit, one year; New Hope Circuit, two years; Alexandria Circuit, two years; Easonville Circuit, four years; Childersburg Circuit, two years; Heflin Circuit, two years; Piper-Coleanor, one year; Cottondale-Southside, Tuscaloosa, one year. In 1912 he was given the superannuate relation and went to Roanoke to spend his last days in the "Schuessler Superannuate Home." His residence at Roanoke was a benediction to our people there; and be it recorded to their everlasting credit, they were ever forward to minister to his welfare. On June 11, 1872, Brother O'Neil was united in marriage to Miss Leona W. Hewlett, who was a true helpmeet to this faithful man of God throughout his ministerial career. She survives him. To this union were born nine children, some of them preceding their father to the other world. Misses Annie and Iva are with their mother as solace and comfort. Brother O'Neil's educational advantages were limited. He came upon the stage too close to the disastrous days immediately related to our unhappy Civil War to inherit the opportunities which he surely would have improved. He was a diligent reader, a close student, and became a self-educated man of commendable quality. He was a ready extemporaneous speaker, distinctly evangelistic, and usually held his own protracted meetings. He was distinctly a religious man—a man of large faith, and of clear religious experience. Speaking of him, his wife testifies: "Mr. O'Neil and I lived together forty-seven years, and I can say truthfully that I never knew him to do anything unworthy of his calling. Read Romans xii. 9-21, and you will know the life he lived better than I can tell you. Verses 11 and 12 set forth his life so plainly that we had them put on his tomb: 'Not slothful in business; fervent in spirit; serving the Lord; rejoicing in hope; patient in tribulation; continuing instant in prayer.'" Such basis served well to bear up this good man through the days of his last pilgrimage, when disease and increasing physical infirmities laid heavy tax upon him—at last ending in the loss of sight during his last two years. But in all his sufferings, he never murmured, nor did he ever doubt the goodness of God or repine in the face of Providence. Of such stuff heroes and martyrs have been made.

CORNELIUS BREWER RIDDICK was born in Gates County, N. C., April 30, 1836; died at San Diego, Cal., January 5, 1919. His parents were Henry and Mary Brewer Riddick. It is assumed that he was reared at Suffolk, Va., and there, in early boyhood, became a member of the Methodist Church. He was educated at Randolph-Macon College. Dr. Riddick's first connection with the itinerancy was in the Virginia Conference, where in proper order he was invested with the full rights and responsibilities of the ministry. We have been unable to obtain full facts as to his continuance with the Virginia Conference. Through a long and effective ministry he saw pastoral service in Virginia, North Carolina, Colorado, California, Kentucky, and Alabama. In the fall of 1887 he came to the North Alabama Conference, and was by Bishop Keener appointed to the pastorate of First Church, Birmingham, there continuing to the end of the year, 1891, at which time he was transferred elsewhere. Dr. Riddick's pastorate of this Church was eminently successful. He was most cordially received. Under his wise and able direction the Church flourished. Great congregations waited upon his ministry, and the membership increased steadily. His ideal was a great central church, with influence radiating in every direction, with mighty impress upon the entire community. It was during this pastorate that the present splendid edifice of the First Methodist Church of Birmingham was conceived and constructed. This building may be regarded as an embodiment of the genius and spirit of Dr. Riddick. He left the North Alabama Conference, at the end of 1891, without having occupied the pulpit of his great church. However, he came back to North

Alabama at the end of 1903, and was by Bishop Smith assigned this same First Church. Here he continued as pastor through 1904 and for a part of 1905. In mid-year, 1905, on account of the increasing years and growing infirmities, he relinquished the charge and returned to his home in California. At the Conference session at Athens, in 1905, he was given the superannuate relation and in that relation continued until his death. Dr. Riddick rendered considerable service in the educational field, chiefly, if not entirely, in schools for young ladies. It is said that he assisted many worthy poor girls to successful college courses. He was married to Miss Elizabeth Corprew, of Norfolk, Va.—an elect lady who filled exceptionally well her office as wife of a Methodist preacher. She preceded her husband by some years to the great beyond. The ministry of Dr. Riddick covered a very considerable space of time in widely separated sections of our country. As a pastor he was popular. In the pulpit he was attractive, and held his congregations. His style was crisp, sententious, direct, usually occupying not much more than half an hour. He has finished his course, and his works do follow him.—J. T. Self.

JOHN C. SAVAGE was born June 16, 1873, near Coal City, St. Clair County, Ala. His early childhood and youth were spent at the place of birth. He was married to Minnie N. Crump on August 14, 1901. To this union were born five children, four of whom survive. At the age of fourteen John was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Old Harkey's Chapel, and continued a member there till he joined the North Alabama Conference in the fall of 1909. He was above the average Church member during all these years, and served wherever he was elected, as a teacher in Sunday school, as steward, or on any committee to which he might be appointed; and yet, in spite of all these faithful acts of service, he afterwards said that there was a restless feeling in his life. He felt the call to preach early in life, but warded it off till the summer of 1909, when Rev. John A. May, one of John's former teachers, conducted a series of meetings at the home church in which Brother Savage, along with others, surrendered to the call of his Master which had long been ringing in his heart. Early in November of the same year four young men set out to Gadsden to appear before a special committee for license to preach. All were successful in the undertaking, but Brother Savage was the only one of them to join the Conference that year. At that session of the Conference he was appointed to Hokes Bluff Circuit, where he made his first record as a circuit rider. His work was a success from the beginning, as is shown by the fact that he remained on this charge for three years and might have gone back the fourth as far as he or the people on the charge were concerned. It was on this charge that John proved his ability for the work whereunto God had called him both as a preacher of the gospel and as a financier of Church affairs. From this charge he moved to Whiton Circuit, on the top of Sand Mountain, where he served only one year; then Mount Pinson Circuit, two years; South Hill Circuit, two years; Phil Campbell, one year; thence to Merri-mack Mills, Huntsville, and on May 23, 1919, after having gone over the top in the Centenary drive, he answered a sudden call to come home to heaven. He leaves a devoted wife, two sons, and two daughters to travel the ways of the world until God shall say, "It is enough, come up higher."—L. G. Alverson.

LEANDER F. WHITTEN was born in Lauderdale County, Ala., near Cypress Camp Ground, November 27, 1848. He was baptized in infancy by Rev. Wiley B. Edwards. He died in Birmingham on December 1, 1918, a few days after passing his seventieth birthday and his fiftieth appointment as an itinerant preacher. He was licensed to preach in September, 1869, on Oakland Circuit, near Florence, Ala., Rev. John B. Stevenson being the presiding elder and W. H. Jordan the preacher in charge. He was admitted on trial into the Tennessee Conference at Murfreesboro, Tenn., in September, 1869, and appointed to the Frankfort Mission, now in the bounds of the North Alabama Conference. At the organization of the North Alabama Conference, in 1870, he became one of the charter members. His appointment was junior preacher to the Cypress Circuit, Rev. John S. Marks being the preacher in charge. He was ordained deacon at Florence, Ala., in 1871, by Bishop Pierce, and in 1872 ordained elder by Bishop Doggett at Tuscaloosa, Ala., having stood an approved examination on two years' course of study in one year. This was permissible under the law of the Church at that time. In 1872 he served the Moulton Circuit; 1873, Russell Valley Circuit; 1874, Moulton and Hillsboro; 1875-77, Decatur Station; 1878, Madison Circuit; 1879-82, Talladega Circuit; 1883-85, Scottsboro. In the fall of 1885 he was appointed to St. John, Birmingham, where he served three years. More than six hundred members were received into the Church during his pastorate at St. John. His next charge was LaFayette Station, where he remained three years. In 1892 he served Jasper Station; 1893-94, Blountsville and Hanceville; 1895, Millport Circuit; 1896-98, Blocton; 1899, Oakbowery Circuit; 1900-01, Brookwood Station; 1902-05, Russellville Station; 1905-07, Ensley Station; 1907-10, Twenty-First Avenue; 1911-12, Dadeville Station; 1913-17, Trinity, Birmingham District. In 1918 he served St. John again, and was returned to the same charge for 1919, when he fell a victim of pneumonia. After a heroic fight for life he had to succumb to the fell destroyer and yield up a long and eventful life. On January 15, 1878, he was married to Miss Mary E. Carter, of Milan, Tenn. To this union were born three daughters, all of whom survive him—Mrs. M. S. Hitchcock, Mrs. Lena W. Lynch, and Miss Willard. All live in Birmingham and are useful members of the Church their father faithfully served so long. His body rests in Oak Hill Cemetery, Birmingham.—S. L. Dobbs.

MICHAEL BERESFORD CORRIGAN was born November 19, 1854, in Dublin, Ireland. His father was Sir Dominec Corrigan, a famous doctor and physician to the queen. His father being a physician, the son naturally inclined to medicine. He was given the best opportunities in the schools of his day. After completing the medical course in Queen's College, Dublin, he did postgraduate work in the College of Royal Surgeons in Edinburgh. After graduation, he entered the military service and was for three years with the English army in India, several years in South Africa, attaining to the rank of major in the medical corps at the age of thirty-one. In India he had the distinction of serving with Lord Roberts and in Africa with Lord Kitchener. Following his service in Africa, he transferred to the navy and completed ten years as a naval surgeon, and during that period touched at nearly every important port in the world. Thus to his unusual endowments were added unusual opportunities. Resigning from the military service, Dr. Corrigan came to America and into Arkansas in 1884. He was converted and yielded to the irresistible call to preach and entered the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in the White River Conference. His first appointment was the Kentucky Valley Circuit, one of the poorest in the Conference, where he had to supplement his salary by the practice of medicine; but he had unusual abilities for his ministerial calling, as he had for his medical profession, and soon rose to the best pulpits in the Conference. In the fall of 1897 he was transferred to the Little Rock Conference and stationed at Camden, where he served through the years 1898 to 1901, when the bishop transferred him to the Louisiana Conference; but he could not go, and remained at Camden in the practice of medicine. In the fall of 1902 he was appointed to Monticello, where he served four years. He was next appointed to Central Avenue, Hot Springs, where he remained through 1907 and 1908 and built the new church. In 1909 and 1910 he was engaged in an effort to build a Methodist Hospital in Hot Springs, but did not succeed. He was given a nominal appointment as junior preacher at Monticello, where he gave himself mainly to the practice of medicine. In 1912 he was appointed to Hope, but could not go on account of business entanglements. In 1913 he was granted the supernumerary relation, which he sustained one year. In 1914 he was appointed to Hamburg, but was still embarrassed in a business way and could not accept the appointment. In 1915 he was appointed to the Collins Circuit, which he could serve from his home in Monticello, and there he was closing a quadrennium when he was transferred to the Church triumphant on the morning of October 24, 1919. Dr. Corrigan loved both his profession and his calling so much that he could never give up the one for the other; and his unusual abilities were proved by his success in both. He was a great physician and a great preacher; but he was still greater as a man. He had lived in Monticello thirteen years, and the unanimous testimony there is that he was the greatest citizen who has ever lived in that community. He was rugged, strong, fearless, independent, stern, honest, conscientious, vigorous, energetic, tender, sympathetic, joyous, loving, brotherly—the better known the better loved. He loved his Church and his brethren in the ministry. He was misunderstood only by those far from him. Those who were near him and understood could not be severe in criticism. He loved the people of Monticello, and they feel honored to be privileged to keep his dust. Dr. Corrigan was thrice married: First, to Anna Harris, of Gadsden, Tenn. To them were born Bryan and Robert, now living in Oklahoma City. Second, to Annie E. Ellis, of Memphis, Tenn. To them was born Ruth, also in Oklahoma City. Third, to Rosa Bell Leake, of Junction City, Ark. To them was born Jean, who is with her mother in the broken home.—W. P. Whaley.

WILLIAM J. DAVIS was born in Oakbowery, Chambers County, Ala., April 9, 1838. His parents moved to Union County, Ga., settling near Thomaston. In 1854 they moved to Arkansas and settled in Columbia County, seven miles north of Magnolia. In 1858 he went to Atlanta, Ark., and began to study medicine under Dr. Joel Turrentine. A great revival was held in Atlanta that summer, in which many were converted, many reclaimed, many revived. He was greatly revived and yielded to the call to preach. At the Fourth Quarterly Conference he was duly licensed and recommended for admission on trial into the traveling connection. He was received into the Ouachita Conference at Monticello in a few days and was sent as junior preacher to Princeton Circuit under Brother Kennedy and preached his first sermon at Mann's Schoolhouse. He was appointed chaplain of a Confederate regiment in the fall of 1861, which position he held during the Civil War. In 1865 he was appointed to Cross Plains Circuit, in the North Alabama Conference, where he did a few years' successful work as a traveling preacher and then was transferred back to his home Conference, now the Little Rock Conference. Here he labored until put on the retired list in 1900. Since then he has made his home at Antoine, Ark., where he died March 14, 1919. He was buried there on March 15. The ministers taking part in the funeral service were D. D. Warlick, J. J. Colson (the pastor), C. A. Kizziah, and T. M. Armstrong. He leaves a wife and nine children. Many people in all walks of life were present, and by invitation scores of hands were raised attesting that he married certain ones, buried their dead, or came into their homes and ministered in time of need. Brother Davis was a strong preacher, sound in doctrine, strong in faith, acceptable to the people. He was an ideal preacher.—D. D. Warlick.

WILLIAM WESLEY MILLS was born October 7, 1857, in Alabama. He came to Arkansas in early childhood and was reared near Des Arc. He was converted when a young man. He was first married to Miss Rena Atchley. To them were born Myrtle, Bernie, Mabel, and Olin, the latter being in France at the time of his father's death. He was married the second time to Miss Hattie Johnson in 1905. She survives Brother Mills and is a true mother to his children. Brother Mills was licensed to preach in August, 1881, on the Hickory Plains Circuit, with Rev. E. N. Watson as presiding elder. He joined the Little Rock Conference at Malvern, Ark., in December, 1883. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Galloway on December 12, 1886, at Hot Springs. He was ordained elder by Bishop Key on November 25, 1888, and served the following charges: Maumelle Circuit, 1884-85; Murfreesboro Circuit, 1886; Texarkana Circuit, 1887; Ouachita Circuit, 1888-89; Hampton Circuit, 1890; Murfreesboro Circuit, 1891; Lewisville Circuit, 1892; Goldman Circuit, 1893-94; Sheridan Circuit, 1895-96; White River Circuit, 1897; Mount Ida Circuit, 1899-1900; Antoine Circuit, 1901; Bright Star Circuit, 1902-03; Jansen Circuit, 1904; Ben Lomond Circuit, 1905; Winthrop Circuit, 1906-08; Foreman Circuit, 1909; Horatio Circuit, 1910-13; Arkadelphia Circuit, 1914-15; Mineral Springs Circuit, 1916-17; Kingsland, 1918. He was superannuated at Hot Springs in December, 1918, and moved immediately to Arkadelphia to finish the education of the children. Through the kindness of Brother J. D. Dunn and the Hartsville people he was given the use of their parsonage near Arkadelphia. Here he fell asleep on Saturday, February 1, 1919. The funeral services were conducted in Hartsville Chapel by the writer, assisted by Revs. W. R. Richardson, D. D. Warlick, and J. D. Dunn. Fitting words were spoken by his brethren of the Conference, by Brother Tarver, a local preacher, and by Sister Holiman, a saintly Christian woman whose children Brother Mills had baptized. His body was laid to rest in the Arkadelphia cemetery, where Rev. F. C. Cannon, of Gurdon, spoke tenderly of Brother Mills as a preacher and as a Christian man. Olin, the only son, was in Bordeaux, France, serving in the Aviation Corps of the U. S. A. Brother Mills was a faithful preacher, enjoyed his work, and many were added to the Church because of his faithful service.—J. M. Workman.

ALONZO M. ROBERTSON, son of George W. and Mary Frances Winfield Robertson, was born in Oxford, Miss., August 26, 1851; died at his home in Texarkana, Ark., April 17, 1919. Brother Robertson was a lad only nine years of age when our country was plunged into civil war. The property of his people was largely reduced by that day of blood and fire, so that not even boyhood presented a very pleasing material prospect. But, in spite of these uninviting conditions, young Robertson obtained the best school advantages, both in common school and in the university of his State, that the South had to offer at the time. He graduated from the University of Mississippi only a few years behind the classes of the late Bishop Charles B. Galloway and ex-Governor Shands. He then took graduate work in Theology in Vanderbilt University. This was in the days of Thomas O. Summers, J. J. Tigert, and John C. Granbery—names that will ever live. Brother Robertson literally grew up in the Church, formally assuming its vows while yet a boy. It could not be otherwise with a Winfield for a mother. He was a credit to the Church. In 1882 the name of A. M. Robertson appears on the minutes of the Little Rock Conference for the first time. For thirty-seven years he held his place, answering the roll call each year, and passing the inspection both of character and administration. His life was so clean, his motives so pure, and his character so unselfish, that he had long since become first in the hearts of all good people who knew him. He was first appointed to Washington charge, where he served one year. But at that time our country's one crying need was adequate schools. Competent teachers were few. A training school was established by the Methodist Church at Bingen, Ark. Brother Robertson was the only man we had at that time who was specially prepared for such a task, so, after only one year in the pastorate, he was appointed president of our training school at Bingen, which place he filled for three years. After this he taught for three years longer in a private school at Okolona, Ark. His work in the schoolroom was as satisfactory as it was everywhere else. But Brother Robertson had something better to teach than mathematics and the like. Moreover, the public schools of the State were rapidly obviating the need of privately owned training schools. So, after six years of eminently satisfactory work in the schoolroom he was appointed to Dumas charge in the fall of 1889, and served one year; Lockesburg, four years; Rison, one year; Third Street,

Hot Springs, three years; Lewisville and Stamps, three years; Wilmar, one year; Washington, one year; Ashdown, two years; DeVall Bluff, two years; Wilmar, one year; Park Avenue, Hot Springs, four years; Sheridan, one year; superintendent of the Orphanage, one year; College Hill, Texarkana, four months; thence he was called up higher.—J. L. Cannon.

CONGO MISSION.

WEMBO-NIAMA, AFRICA.

BISHOP LAMBUH in Episcopal Charge; D. L. MUMPOWER, M.D., Superintendent.

There was no session and no report of the work of the Congo Mission for the year 1919.

This Mission is not organized as are the other Missions of the Church, and it is therefore difficult to secure information that in any way conforms with the Disciplinary questions.

We have examined certain reports made by missionaries to the Board of Missions, and have gleaned the following items of interest:

Districts, 2 (Wembo-Niama and Lube-fu).

Preachers now on the field, 2.

Accepted for baptism, 30.

On probation, 186.

Average Sunday school attendance in the station, 100.

Average number of pupils enrolled in day schools, 250.

Patients treated for two quarters (medical work), 3,584.

Boys in training for evangelists, 41.

New missionaries now on the way to the field: Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Bush, returning after an absence of three years; Mr. Charles T. Schaedel, to be captain of the boat and do industrial work; Revs. Ansil Lynn and J. J. Davis, to do evangelistic work.

Dr. Mumpower will return in June to take charge of the medical work.

Rev. and Mrs. T. E. Reeve are just returning on furlough for a year.

Mr. and Mrs. Stockwell have severed their connection with the Mission and returned to America on account of poor health.

Mr. E. B. Stilz has been appointed to work at Lusambo.

On account of the epidemic of influenza there has been a general falling off in the results that might otherwise have been expected, but the work has been carried on in spite of the depleted force.
